

Legends of the Lost Realm

A Fantasy Role-Playing Game

- ★If you're looking for a traditional fantasy role-playing game . . . look somewhere else.
- ★If you're looking for a game in which you just wander through tunnels and beat up monsters . . . look somewhere else.
- ★If you don't like to think, don't like to improvise, or just have no imagination whatsoever . . . you really better look somewhere else.

- ★If, on the other hand, you're looking for a game where brawn AND brains are what it takes to survive, a game that demands creativity, a game that challenges you to try what was heretofore impossible . . . welcome to LEGENDS OF THE LOST REALM.
- ★Truly unique in its approach, we feel that LEGENDS OF THE LOST REALM is simply the most complete and accurate fantasy role-playing game ever written. A strong claim? Well, why not see for yourself? After all, the proof is in the playing.

LEGENDS OF THE LOST REALM can be played by 1 to 6 players. The package is comprised of the main disk, which contains the game itself, and The Gathering of Heroes, the first episode of LEGENDS. To play the game requires a Macintosh® computer with at least one 800K disk drive and one meg of memory.
