About Bernard of Hollywood's Marilyn

Based on the internationally acclaimed book, Bernard of Hollywood's Marilyn, this multimedia title profiles renowned photographer Bruno Bernard's extensive portfolio of Marilyn Monroe. Bernard has been called the "discoverer of Marilyn Monroe". He was one of the first photographers to work with the legendary movie star and this multimedia title recounts their relationship, from their first meeting in 1946 to her death in 1962.

Explore a timeline of Marilyn's private and professional life, discover interesting facts and trivia, and view fascinating video footage. This title includes over 100 photographs, video clips, and editorials by Bruno Bernard's daughter, Susan Bernard. Read scripts of conversations between Bernard and Monroe as well as excerpts from Bernard's personal journal of his sessions with this captivating and unforgettable superstar. This title is a collector's item for all Marilyn fans.

With Bernard of Hollywood's Marilyn, Corel has also provided its ArtView screen saver. After you've configured this application, it will display these superb photographs of Marilyn on your screen when you aren't using your computer.

Getting started

This CD-ROM includes the Bernard of Hollywood's Marilyn multimedia title, in both English and German language versions, and the Corel ArtView screen saver.

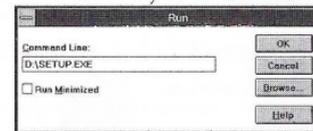

Software for both Windows and Macintosh working environments is stored on the compact disc, so you must install some modules from the compact disc to your hard drive. These modules allow your working environment to access information, in the appropriate language, on the compact disc. The steps required to install the necessary modules are different for each working environment and you need to follow only the steps documented for your working environment.

For Windows Users Only

The Windows installation creates an application icon that starts the appropriate language version of Bernard of Hollywood's Marilyn and adds the Corel ArtView screen saver to your system, if you choose to install this application.

To install the Windows software:

1. Insert the Bernard of Hollywood's Marilyn disc into your CD-ROM drive.
2. From the File menu, choose the Run command. Then, in the Command dialog box, type the letter that represents your CD-ROM drive, followed by the text "D:\SETUP.EXE". This example shows the entry for a CD-ROM drive that's assigned to the letter "D".
3. Follow the series of instructions shown on your screen.

After the installation is complete, you'll see that a new program group, named Corel CD HOME, has been added to your desktop and that the program group includes the Bernard of Hollywood's Marilyn application icon.

To start Bernard of Hollywood's Marilyn:

- Double-click its application icon.

The Corel CD HOME program group also includes a Help icon that describes how to use the screen saver. The screen saver itself isn't represented by an icon in the Corel CD HOME program group. For information about setting up the screen saver, see the topic, "Displaying photographs using the screen saver".

For Macintosh Users Only

The Bernard of Hollywood's Marilyn multimedia title is run directly from the compact disc. You simply access the folder in which the language version you want to use is located and start the application.

To run Bernard of Hollywood's Marilyn:

1. Insert the Bernard of Hollywood's Marilyn disc into your CD-ROM drive.
2. From your desktop, open the CD-ROM drive folder.
3. From the CD-ROM drive folder, open the folder that contains the language version—English or German—that you plan to run.
4. In the opened folder, double-click the Bernard of Hollywood's Marilyn application icon.

The screen saver is the only software on the compact disc that you must install on your Macintosh. The screen saver is available only in English.

To install the Macintosh screen saver:

1. Insert the Bernard of Hollywood's Marilyn disc into your CD-ROM drive.
2. From your desktop, open the CD-ROM drive folder.
3. From the CD-ROM drive folder, open the ArtView Screen Saver folder.
4. From the ArtView Screen Saver folder, drag the ArtView Screen Saver icon to your desktop.

For information about setting up the screen saver, see the topic, "Displaying photographs using the screen saver".

Exploring Bernard of Hollywood's Marilyn

After you've started Bernard of Hollywood's Marilyn by following the instructions provided in the topic "Getting started", some of the introductory pages are displayed. After the first time you start the application, you can skip these introductory pages by pressing any key on your keyboard.

Next, you see a page that includes several types of buttons. This is the main page of the multimedia title. At any time while using Bernard of Hollywood's Marilyn, you can return to this page using the Main button.

On the main page, some buttons open chapters of information from which you can explore various periods of Marilyn's life, Bruno Bernard's career, and so on. Each chapter about Marilyn's life features Bernard's pictures of her from that time period, accompanied by text written by Susan Bernard describing Marilyn's life at that time, her conversations with Bernard, and excerpts from his private journal.

Several types of buttons are available within the chapter pages. These buttons play narrations of text marked in red, show video clips related to the current text and display information about related events in Marilyn's life.

From within all chapters, several navigational features are available for both the text and the video clips. For example, you can click turned-up page corners to advance pages. For information about these navigational buttons, choose the onscreen Help button.

You can allow the application to run automatically. This means that the pages will turn without requiring you to manually advance pages using buttons. To run the application automatically after it's started, don't move your mouse or press any keys on the keyboard for at least two minutes.

Adjusting volumes

You can adjust the volume of the music and the journal narration. The volume controls are available from the Sounds button on each page. You can set the volumes independently for maximum control.

You can also turn the music, the journal narration, and the button and sound effects on and off. You can turn these features on and off independently or all at once. Note that when the journal narration is turned on, then text marked in red is automatically narrated. When the journal narration is turned off, you must manually choose to play the narration by clicking the speaker button associated with the text.

The volume settings remain in effect only for the current session. The next time you start Bernard of Hollywood's Marilyn, the volumes return to their default settings.

Displaying photographs using the screen saver

You can display the photographs included with Bernard of Hollywood's Marilyn on your screen when you aren't using your computer. For this purpose, the Corel ArtView screen saver is provided with the Bernard of Hollywood's Marilyn compact disc. For information about installing the screen saver, see the topic, "Getting started".

After you've configured the screen saver, it runs automatically. When you stop using your computer for a few minutes, the Corel ArtView screen saver searches the disc in your CD-ROM drive and starts displaying the images that are found on the disc. When you move the mouse or press a key, the screen saver stops displaying images and waits for your computer to again become idle.

The photographs on Bernard of Hollywood's Marilyn compact disc are stored in the BMP format. The Corel ArtView screen saver for Windows can display a variety of image formats, including BMP images. However, the ArtView Screen Saver for Macintosh displays only PCD and PICT images. Therefore, a special folder has been included with the Macintosh software that stores the photographs in the PICT format.

For information about configuring and starting the Corel ArtView Screen Saver for Windows, read the information provided in its Help application. This Help is installed automatically with the screen saver and is available from the Corel CD HOME program group.

For information about configuring and starting the Corel ArtView screen saver for Macintosh, read the information provided in the ArtView file of the ArtView Screen Saver folder on the compact disc.
