A COLD WIND BLOWS...

Although the battle for Outland still rages, both the Alliance and the Horde have been forced to move their focus back to Azeroth and to look northward to the cold, forbidding continent of Northrend, where new threats are emerging. From deep within Icecrown Citadel the Lich King exerts his icy grip on his minions, readying his forces for an all-out assault.

Unable to put aside their longstanding conflict even in the face of this new threat, both the Alliance and Horde are drawing separate battle lines and making preparations to stop the Lich King's forces. No strangers to the ways of the Scourge, both sides understand that to fail here is to lose far more than Northrend.

World of Warcraft is a living, breathing, ever-changing world, and the newly rediscovered continent of Northrend is no exception. Its challenges and experiences are like nothing you have faced so far: they will put your abilities to the test. Intrepid explorers need every advantage they can get. With this guide we've given you a powerful tool to get you started in this harsh but beautiful land.

INTERFACE AND STATISTICS CHANGES

PLAYER WINDOW

STAT CHANGES

As you look over your character screen and items, you most likely notice a few changes. One of the most significant is the introduction of Spell Power. Before, you had separate Plus Damage and Plus Healing amounts listed on gear and items. Now, those have been consolidated under one stat—Spell Power. This is an important change because it greatly affects what gear can be used by what class. For example, in the past gear usually had either a Plus Damage or a Plus healing component, making it clear whether or not it was intended for a healing or DPS class. That same item now would just have Spell Power, making it equally valuable to healers and damage dealing casters.

While this does mean there is a bit more competition for gear, it also means that that same piece of gear is more useful to more people, which is a very good thing.

If you've run more than a few dungeons or raids you are familiar with this scenario: Your guild works really hard and spends a good chunk of time to take down a boss. Everyone is excited—until the loot drops. You've seen this particular piece of cloth Plus Healing gear before. It is a really good piece, but since it is cloth healing gear it is only really good for priests and both of the priests in your raid already have it. With the change to Spell Power, that same cloth piece is now potentially useful to any cloth wearer in your raid. So, what was a good drop for two or three of your raiders, may now be useful for a lot more.

While DPS casters may not notice much difference in the actual numbers listed on their Character Window, Healers may see a decrease. Don't worry! This doesn't indicate a loss of healing power. All healing spells have been modified to benefit from Spell Power so that the amount you heal for is roughly the same as it was before.

MISS VS. RESIST

You can now more concretely see how your Hit Rating stacks up when casting spells. Your combat log now differentiates between a spell that misses the target and one which is resisted. Both events were formerly recorded as a Resist, so it could be difficult to see how Hit Rating influenced your performance.

Spell Power is not the only stat that has been consolidated. You no longer have separate Hit Rating, Critical Strike Rating, and Haste Rating for melee and spells. These stats now modify both. This is especially useful for classes that fill multiple roles. A Shaman or a Druid may need to switch out fewer pieces of gear when moving from DPS to Healing for example. The less gear you need to carry with you, the better.

SPELL PUSHBACK

In the past, casters could be continually interrupted by melee attacks while attempting to cast and had to rely on instant cast spells, or luck, in close combat. Now, the first two hits you take add 0.5 seconds each to the casting time of a spell, while during a channeled spell each of those two hits decreases the spell's duration by 25%. After the first two hits there is no further effect (other than the damage you take of course) to your casting. Go ahead and wind up that Frostbolt or Fireball!

PETS AND MOUNTS

No matter how big your bags are or how many bank spaces you purchase, it seems you can always use more room. A new Pets tab has been added to your Character Info window to help free up some space in your bags. This tab holds both your vanity pets, under Companions, and your Mounts. To switch between the two use the tabs at the top of the window. To place a pet or mount in your Pets tab, right click on it in your inventory, much like you would use an item. Once the pet or mount is added to your Pets tab, it disappears from your inventory, freeing up some space. Each page holds up to twelve pets or mounts, and as you fill them up, new pages are added, so you will never run out of room. Now you no longer have to choose which pets to carry around in your bag; your whole menagerie can come with you!

To bring out a pet or a mount, just open up your Pets tab and click on the Summon button for Companions, or the Mount button for Mounts. You can dismiss your pets by again clicking on this same button. To quickly access your most used pets and mounts you can drag their icon from your Pets tab onto one of your Action Bars where you can summon and mount the same way you always have. The Pets window is convenient for everyone, but is a very useful addition for those players who like to collect various pets or who like to use different mounts. Now you can bring your companions along on your adventures, and still have room for more loot!

Glyph spaces open up with Minor spaces unlocking at levels fifty, and seventy. As their name suggests, Major Glyphs tend to have a more significant impact on your abilities, often increasing damage, reducing cooldowns, or adding additional effects to a spell or ability. Minor Glyphs function in much the same way, but their changes are generally less significant, but still very useful.

Much like Gems or Enchantments, Glyphs basically augment your abilities the same way the former two items augment your equipment and can be changed in much the same way. To inscribe a Glyph right click on it in your inventory then click on the appropriate space in your Glyphs tab. Again, like Gems and Enchantments, Glyphs can be removed or overwritten, but doing so destroys them. You can remove a Glyph at anytime by shift-right clicking it or by placing another Glyph in its spot. Once inscribed, a Glyph becomes part of your abilities and you don't have to do anything extra to get the benefits from it. For more information on Inscription, including Glyph recipes, see the Crafting chapter of this guide.

CURRENCY

Gold may be the bedrock of Azeroth economy but it is not the only currency you deal in. Keeping track of all the various means of tender used to entail looking through your inventory, PvP window, and bank to see how many of the various points, badges, etc., that you had. The new Currency tab in your character Info window lets you see all of that at a glance. Here you can see your Arena Points, Honor Points, Badges, Emblems, Marks of Honor, and even other means of currency like the new Venture Coins or Stone Keeper's Shards, even when they are stored in your bank.

The Currency tab organizes the various items and points into categories such as PvP or Miscellaneous. By clicking on a particular currency you can open up the Currency Options. Here you can choose to move a particular currency to an Unused category. You can still view currency marked as Unused, but it is under its own category, and not mixed in with your other forms of currency. Under Currency Options you can also choose to show that currency when you open your backpack, right underneath your money. With these options, the Currency tab makes it easier overall for you to track your assets.

GLYPHS

Glyphs are an exciting new way to customize your character's skills and talents. Each character now has a Glyph tab in their Spellbook & Abilities Window. In it you see six circles, three large and three small. These are spaces in which you can inscribe different class specific Glyphs. Much like Jewelcrafting produces gems for other characters' socketed items, Scribes (those who have the Inscription profession) produce Glyphs for you to inscribe in these spaces in your spellbook.

There are two types of Glyphs: Major, which can be inscribed onto the larger circles, and Minor, which fill the smaller ones. Not all six circles are open to you at first, but as you level they become available to you. At level 15 you gain access to your first Major and Minor glyph spaces. At levels thirty, and eighty your other two Major

KEEPING TRACK OF TIME

Time flies when you are having fun, but there are a couple of new ways to keep track of it by using the Clock and Event Calendar functions on your mini-map.

CLOCK

At the bottom of your mini-map is the Clock. Mouse over it to see the Realm Time and Local Time. To open up your Clock Settings, click it. Here you can choose to display your local time on the clock instead of the realm time. Being able to see both lets you keep track of time in your world and in Azeroth so you are always on time for raids and other events.

From here you can also access the Stopwatch. Click on the Stopwatch icon in the upper right corner of the Clock Settings to bring up the Stopwatch and press play to start it running. You can pause it using the same button or reset it using the button on the right. The Stopwatch can be used to time anything you want. Use it to see how long it takes you to wipe the floor with your dueling partner or time yourself while fighting a tough mob just to see how quickly you can do it.

The clock also includes an Alarm function. This is very useful if you know you only have so much time to play, or want to remind yourself of a real world or in-game obligation. Use the drop down menus to select the appropriate hour and minutes, in five minute increments. Make sure if you have Use Local Time checked that you set it with that in mind. You can then type in a short message to yourself to go along with the alarm. At the appointed time, a bell rings and your message pops up in your chat window and in the center of your screen. Your clock also pulses until you click it to turn off the alarm. You can make sure you are never late for that guild meeting, dungeon run, or even work, ever again.

CALENDAR

There is a lot going on in World of Warcraft and the Event Calendar is designed to help you keep track of it all! Located on the top right hand corner of your mini-map, the Calendar displays today's date. Click on it to bring up the full Calendar.

The Calendar displays one month at a time and you can move back and forth between the months by using the arrows on each side of the name of the month. At its most basic, the Calendar displays the World Events taking place each month. By using the Filters drop down menu in the upper right corner you can also see other events such as Battleground Holidays, The Darkmoon Faire, Active Raid Lockouts and Resets, and Weekly Holidays such as the Stranglethorn Fishing Extravaganza. To get more information on an event, just click on it to get a short description. By using the Calendar you can make sure always know what's going on so you can plan accordingly.

Tracking events is great, but the calendar also offers you the opportunity to set up your own events. To create an event, right click on the day for which you wish to hold your event. This brings up the event creation menu.

The first thing you need to do is to type in a name for your event. You can use approximately thirty characters, so be descriptive, but not too descriptive. Next, select what type of event you are hosting from the dropdown menu: Raid, Dungeon, PvP, Meeting, or Other. If you select Raid or Dungeon, this brings up another menu listing all of the raid or dungeon locations, separated into Classic, The Burning Crusade, or Wrath of the Lich King. Choose the location for your event and you are ready to set the time. Next you can add a description of your event in the box provided. The last thing you need to do is decide who to invite. Enter each player's name in the space provided at the bottom of the window and click Invite.

Once invited, each player's Calendar pulses a glowing question mark to indicate they have a pending invite. When you receive an invite, click on your calendar and you see this same question mark on the day of the event. To respond, click on the event, look over the details, and either decline or accept the invitation. Once you accept, the event is marked on your calendar and can be viewed at any time.

As the event creator, or as an invitee, you can see who else has been invited, as well as if they have accepted or declined the invitation. If only real life events were this easy to manage! The tabs running along the right side of the event information indicate how many of each class have accepted the invitation.

For times when you aren't in game, you can still monitor your events from The Armory webpage <www.armory.com>. Though you can't create events from here, after logging in you can see the calendars for each of your characters and respond, just as you would in game!

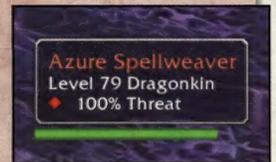

CUSTOMIZING YOUR EXPERIENCE

Since the launch of the Burning Crusade, there have been a lot of changes to the Interface Options. Whereas you used to have only a few, albeit useful, options, you now have much more detailed control over how you view and interact with the game. The interface options are divided into easy to navigate categories. Just select the category on the left and you can view all of its options to the right. This makes it much easier to find what you need quickly and allows you to customize your interface to a great degree.

AGGRO WARNING

There are several useful new options, among them is the Aggro Warning. This allows you to see how close you are to pulling aggro on your target. As you get closer and closer to passing whoever has aggro, your portrait goes from yellow to red. You can also see your percentage of the aggro by mousing over the target and viewing it in the tooltip which pops up. Once you reach 100%, that monster is coming for you! You can find this option under the Display category.

While your Macros and Key Bindings menus have not changed, they are now saved server side instead of on your local machine. This means that if you want to log on to the game using a different computer, your macros and key bindings are right there waiting for you. You no longer have to spend time setting everything up again each time you switch computers!

It's A CHANGING WORLD

Besides being able to access the new continent of Northrend, there are a few changes to the old world as well. For starters, you can now visit the Ruins of the Scarlet Enclave on the eastern edge of the Eastern Plaguelands. Acherus: The Ebon Hold, home to the Death Knights can be seen floating overhead.

While the Ebon Hold is an addition to the old world, there have been a couple of subtractions as well. The city of Dalaran, which once stood on the shore of Lordamere Lake, has been moved to Northrend by the Kirin Tor, leaving a smoking crater behind. The floating necropolis, Naxxramas, has left the skies above the Eastern Plaguelands and moved to Northrend as well.

TRAVELING TO NORTHREND

Getting to Northrend is easy for travelers. There are new Zeppelin towers near both the Undercity and Orgrimmar for the Horde. The Undercity Zeppelin offers transport to Vengeance Landing in Howling Fjord, located on the southwestern tip of Northrend. From Orgrimmar you can take the zeppelin to Warsong Hold, in the Borean Tundra on southeastern Northrend. Alliance ships now sail to Northrend from Menethil Harbor to Valgarde in Howling Fjord and from the newly opened Stormwind Harbor to Valiance Keep in the Borean Tundra.

Much like Shattrath in Outland, the Kirin Tor's city, Dalaran, hosts portals to all of the major cities of each faction, including Shattrath, in both Sunreaver's Sanctuary for the Horde, and The Silver Enclave for the Alliance. As a floating city, Dalaran is unreachable from the ground until you have completed a quest. If you wish to visit the city before then, the best thing to do is to find a friendly mage or warlock to portal or summon you there.

Remember though that you are asking for their time and reagents and if you are lucky enough to find a kind soul to do this for you, make sure you are very appreciative. Once you reach Dalaran you can pick up the flight path and use the Crystal in the building across from Krasus' Landing to teleport to the Violet Stand in the Crystalsong Forest below. Once you do this you can then use the crystal there to reach Dalaran from that location as well.

COLD WEATHER FLYING

You may be thinking to yourself, "Flight Paths? Who needs Flight Paths? I've got a flying mount!" However, your land mounts are about to see more use than they have in awhile. Flying in Northrend takes a special skill called Cold Weather Flying. This can be learned from a Cold Weather Flying Trainer at level 77 and lets you use your flying mounts on the continent. Prior to that you need to make your way across the land the old fashioned way, dodging hostile mobs and clearing the way to where you need to go. If you play on a PvP server, you may want to find a group of friends to quest with to discourage higher level characters from swooping down on their flying mounts looking for a quick kill.

RACIAL ABILITIES

Many of the racial traits have been revamped and rebalanced for the expansion; some have been removed, while others have been added. Below is a list of all the racial abilities currently in the game.

BLOOD ELF

Arcane Affinity

This passive ability increases your Enchanting Skill, giving you a small head start on that profession. While this is not a new skill, it still gives you an advantage in the expansion as you can access recipes sooner than other Enchanters as you level up your profession.

Arcane Torrent

Silences all nearby enemies for a few seconds and restores some of your base Energy, Mana, or Runic Power, depending on your class. This skill has been drastically changed. Now, the former Mana Tap component has been removed so you don't have to build up charges in order to use Arcane Torrent, which also frees up a spot on your Action Bar. Having an extra silence ability is great during tough PvE battles but really shines when used in PvP. Often that extra Mana, Energy, or Runic Power can mean the difference between victory and defeat.

Magic Resistance

This skill reduces the chance you will be hit by spells. This is a very useful skill. Some of the other races get resistances to certain schools of magic, but this skill gives you some resistance to all of them, making it a superior skill. It is so superior that Blood Elves only get three racial abilities, while other races get at least four.

DRAENEI

Gemcutting

This passive ability increases your Jewelcrafting skill, giving you an advantage over other races in that profession. The added points let you skill up on lower level materials for a bit longer, which can save you a pocket full of gold at higher skill levels.

Gift of the Naaru

This ability heals the target of damage over time. The amount healed is based on the caster's Spell Power or Attack Power, whichever is higher. Unlike other spells, the casting time on this ability does not increase when you take damage and it is not affected by the Global Cooldown.

Heroic Presence

Formerly, Draenei had either Inspiring Presence, or Heroic Presence, depending on their class. The two have now been combined under Heroic Presence. This passive ability increases the chance to hit with all spells and attacks for you and all nearby party members. It is a nice addition when soloing, and is really great at increasing your group's damage output since it effects everyone.

Shadow Resistance

This passive ability reduces your chance of being hit by Shadow spells.

DWARF

Find Treasure

Allows you to sense nearby treasure, making it appear on the minimap. This functions like a form of tracking and you can select it from the list on your mini-map.

Frost Resistance

This passive ability reduces the chance you will be hit by Frost spells.

Gun Specialization

This passive ability increases your chance to critically hit with Guns.

Mace Specialization

Stoneform

While active, this ability grants immunity to Bleed, Poison, and Disease effects, and also increases Armor. Stoneform has always been a very useful racial, especially in PvP, and will continue to be so with the expansion. The addition of Death Knights means that one more class is going to come at you with Diseases, and Stoneform definitely gives you an advantage when facing Death Knights on the battlefield. Cleansing their diseases can cripple their damage output, giving you the upper hand, not to mention how useful Stoneform is against the deadlier poisons and Bleed effects new talents have given to other classes.

GNOME

Arcane Resistance

This passive ability reduces the chance you will be hit by Arcane Spells.

Engineering Specialization

This passive ability increases your Engineering skill, giving you an advantage when starting this profession. You can access schematics before other races, giving you more chances to skill up on them while they are orange. This increases your chances of skilling up, and having more options allows you to use cheaper, easier to get materials in many cases.

Escape Artist

This ability allows you to escape the effects of any immobilization or movement speed reduction effect and can no longer be resisted.

Expansive Mind

This passive ability increases your Intellect, always useful for casters.

HUMAN

Diplomacy

This passive ability increase your reputation gains. This makes it easier for humans to raise their reputation with various factions. With the addition of the new factions in Northrend, this can be very useful.

Every Man for Himself

This ability removes all movement impairing effects and all effects which cause loss of control of your character and shares a cooldown with similar abilities. Highly useful in both PvE and PvP situations, it has a fairly short cooldown, so it can be used several times during an Arena match or other encounters.

Mace Specialization

Perception

This passive ability increase your Stealth detection which can be an advantage in PvP situations. This ability has been changed to a passive ability and lets humans detect stealthed characters as if they were one level lower than they are.

Sword Specialization

This passive ability increases your expertise with Swords and Two-Handed Swords.

The Human Spirit

This passive ability increases your Spirit. The amount of increase has been decreased so it doesn't create a balance issue.

NIGHT ELF

Nature Resistance

This passive ability reduces the chance you will be hit by Nature spells.

Quickness

This passive ability reduces the chance that melee and ranged attackers will hit you.

Shadowmeld

Activate this ability to slip into the shadows, reducing the chance for enemies to detect your presences. Shadowmeld lasts until you cancel it or until you move. Any threat is restored versus enemies still in combat upon cancellation of this effect. The changes to Shadowmeld have made this ability much more useful. In effect, it functions much like a Rogue's Vanish, in that it can get you out of a dangerous situation. Though you can't move while using it, getting creatures to ignore you, and PvP foes to detarget you, is very, very useful.

Wisp Spirit

This passive ability transforms you into a wisp upon death, increasing your speed.

ORC

Axe Specialization

This passive ability increases your expertise with Axes and Two-Handed Axes.

Blood Fury

When used, Blood Fury increases your melee attack power and your spell damage. This ability no longer causes you to receive 50% less healing from all sources, making it even more useful!

Command

Hardiness

The duration of Stun effects on you is reduced by this passive ability.

TAUREN

Cultivation

This passive skill increases your Herbalism skill, making it easier to get those higher level herbs as you level your skill.

Endurance

This ability has changed from augmenting your total health to your base Health. This means that it is not affected by health increases like scrolls, elixirs, or potions.

Nature Resistance

This passive ability reduces the chance you will be hit by Nature spells.

War Stomp

PRIEST RACIAL SPELLS

Priests no longer have a distinct spell for each race, so you don't have to choose a particular race to get what you want from the class. Some of these spells have become trainable at Priest Trainers while others are now part of the Priest's talent tree.

TROLL

Beast Slaying

This passive ability increases the damage you do versus Beasts.

Berserking

Berserking increases your casting and attack speed. The increase scales up the more seriously you are injured and no longer has an activation cost.

Bow Specialization

This passive ability increases your chance to critically hit with Bows.

Da Voodoo Shuffle

The duration of all movement impairing effects is reduced by this passive ability. This new ability is a boon to all trolls, especially in PVP.

Regeneration

This passive ability increases the rate of Health regeneration and a percentage of total Health regeneration may continue during combat.

Throwing Specialization

Your chance to critically hit with Throwing Weapons is increased by this passive ability.

UNDEAD

Cannibalize

When activated, regenerates a percentage of health over time. Only works on Humanoid or Undead corpse. Any movement, action, or damage take while Cannibalizing cancels the effect.

Shadow Resistance

This passive ability reduces your chance of being hit by Shadow spells, but does not give as much protection as other classes' Resistance racials.

Underwater Breathing

Your breath lasts longer underwater because of this passive ability. After all, you are Undead, how much air can you possibly need? This ability has been changed so that you can breath underwater for almost ten minutes, much longer than you could before.

Will of the Forsaken

This instant ability removes any Charm, Fear, or Sleep effects from you but no longer gives you a lasting immunity from such effects. This change means that you can no longer "pop" this ability ahead of time if you think you are in danger, but must instead wait until you have been effected.

SHAVE AND A HAIRCUT

Not all of the new features found in this expansion are just about exploring new regions or improving your character, some, like the Barbershop, are just plain fun! If you are in need of a new 'do, head to one of the Barbershops located in all of the major cities. Once there, have a seat in the chair and you are greeted with three options: Hair Style, Hair Color, and Features.

Click through the options to try out different combinations. You can even check out hairstyles that originally belonged to other races, though you are still limited to those belonging to your same gender. Once you have the look you want, click OK to leave the barber chair with your new look!

A new haircut may not increase your DPS, get you better equipment, or make you a more effective healer, but it can be epic, nonetheless.

The Price of Change

Beauty doesn't come cheap and the price of a new look varies depending on your standing with the city where the Barbershop is located, so visiting one where your reputation is the highest saves you a bit of cash.

GRAND MASTER CRAFTING

Crafters who had previously reached the maximum amount of skill in their chosen profession can now speak to a Grand Master Trainer to become Grand Masters themselves. This new tier of crafting lets you skill up to 450 and adds many new recipes to the game, giving crafters many new useful items with which to raise their skill.

Each profession has been granted unique recipes, many of which are comparable with dropped gear, raising the demand for player-crafted items. Crafters are also much more interdependent than they once were. For example, Scribes can produce Vellum which Enchanters can then use to store enchantments. This allows them to be traded or even sold in the Auction House, which is a significant change to how Enchanters conduct their trade. Blacksmiths can now add sockets to some items, creating a greater demand for quality gems produced by Jewelcrafters. Overall, these changes are a great benefit to crafters and other players alike!

Though all crafters can learn the skills taught by their trainers, they also gain recipes from drops, from purchasing them once they have enough reputation with certain factions, and in some cases, through research. For example, with Inscription, the only way to learn how to make Minor Glyphs is through Minor Inscription Research. Once a day a Scribe can use this ability to produce a random amount of scrolls which they already know and they have a chance of learning a new Minor Glyph recipe. Alchemists have something similar in Northrend Alchemy Research. Once a week an Alchemist can take a group of Northrend herbs and attempt to discover a new Alchemy recipe. All of this insures that not all crafters have the exact same catalog as other members of their profession.

ADVERTISING

Every crafter is used to advertising their services and then fielding questions about what they can and cannot make. While sometimes necessary to make a sale, this back and forth can be time consuming, and even overwhelming if your response is large enough. To make things easier for crafters and potential customers, you can now link your list of recipes into the chat window.

To do this, open up a chat line, type your clever sales pitch and then open your profession window and click the Link at the top to drop it in the chat bar, much like you would link an item. Anyone who sees it can now click on the link and see your specific crafting window, where they can browse through your available wares as you go about conducting other business.

Many of the professions also offer boons that affect much more than just their crafted items. Abilities like the Herbalist's Lifeblood, or the Skinner's Master of Anatomy provide benefits that cross over onto the battlefield. For more information on the various professions and a list of recipes for each, check out the Crafting section of this guide.

Like the Badges of Justice found in Burning Crusade dungeons, these can be spent at certain merchants to purchase some really stunning pieces of Binds on Pickup (BoP) equipment. These require level 80 and are far superior to the equipment you have come across before.

In addition to the BoP pieces, you can also choose to spend your Emblems on pieces of Binds to Account (BTA) Heirloom items. Heirloom items can be mailed to any character on your account. The statistics on these items change depending on the level of the character who owns it. This gives any character a superior blue quality item to use for that slot starting at level 1 and going all the way to level 80. In effect, instead of spending your gold to purchase equipment for your other characters, you can now spend your Emblems to do the same thing. This not only helps you equip other characters, it also insures that you always have a use for the Emblems once you've purchased anything the character earning them needs. This is a great benefit all around. For example, maybe your guild or group of friends really needs you to bring your healer to help them out with a run, but another of your characters really needs the gear upgrades. You can help out your friends with whatever character is most needed, but still earn gear for that other character.

There is an Emblem of Heroism Quartermaster and an Emblem of Valor Quartermaster in both the Sunreaver's Sanctuary, for Horde, and The Silver Enclave, for Alliance, in Dalaran. There are a few other merchants, such as the Jewelry Vendor in Dalaran, who take Emblems in trade as well.

PHASING

Northrend is a dynamic place and one of the ways the game handles this is through Phasing. With Phasing, a single location can have different appearances and NPC's depending on the experience of the player. For example, Dun Niffelem, home to the Sons of Hodir, is not always a friendly place. If you visit it when you first enter the Storm Peaks, you find the frost giants to be quite hostile. However, after doing a certain quest line you become friendly with them and their city transforms into a friendly quest hub complete with vendors for you. You haven't entered an instance, but rather a different phase of the same city. For instance, if you have a group member who has not done the correct quests yet, they see a much different Dun Niffelem than you do, even though you are technically in the same physical location. You and everyone else who is friendly or above with the Sons of Hodir are in the same phase of Dun Niffelem. Your group member, who is not with you, is in an earlier phase.

This allows the world you experience to reflect your actions in it. Phasing is used in several quests to reflect the changes you are making in the world, making for a much more immersive experience. Phasing can present a problem when grouping. In many cases characters that are not on the same steps of a quest are in different phases, making it difficult, and sometimes impossible to aid each other. When this happens, the best thing to do is to take the time to catch up your group mate to where you are in the quest line, or to form a group of people on the same phase as you. Though this sometimes can take a bit more effort, it is well worth the time. Phasing makes for a much more dynamic world and seeing it change with your actions can be a more satisfying completion to a quest than the reward itself.

FOCUS TARGETS

You can now easily set focus targets. Select the target you want to set as your focus, right click on it and select Set Focus. You can set a Focus Cast Key in the Combat panel of your Interface Options. This way, when casting a spell or ability and holding down that key, it targets your focus target rather than your main target. You can clear your focus target by again right clicking on the focus frame and selecting Clear Focus. This is especially useful for crowd control and cleansing spells.

PLAYER VS. PLAYER

Whether you just like the occasional duel or arena match, or prefer to pit your skills against other players in a large scale conflict, this expansion has something for everyone interested in PvP. The seedy Underbelly of Dalaran offers an open area for dueling, compete with spectators. You can experience two new arenas, one in the Underbelly and the other in the heart of Orgrimmar. You can battle over a powerful Titan Artifact in Strand of the Ancients, a unique new Battleground off the coast of Dragonblight. In Wintergrasp, you can participate in zone-wide PvP unlike anything you've experienced before. We've provided detailed information on these new PvP offerings in the PvP section of this guide.

DEATH KNIGHT

Death Knights are the first hero class ever available in World of Warcraft, and as such, are pretty special. These elite warriors wear plate, making them pretty tough on the battlefield. They can wield either two-handed weapons or can dual wield one-handed weapons to great effect. This class is great for soloing and more than capable of filling either a tank or DPS slot in almost any group or raid. In addition to their martial prowess, Death Knights wield the power of runes to utilize class specific melee abilities and spells, making them unlike any of the previously existing classes.

These runes create a unique resource management system very different from energy, rage, or mana, but with a little practice it is easy to use. Every Death Knight has two Blood Runes, Frost Runes, and Unholy Runes. Each ability you use requires certain runes, just like a spell may cost other classes a certain amount of mana. As you use your abilities, the runes are used, but they refresh fairly quickly throughout the fight. This means that you can't really "spam" a single ability, but instead must utilize diverse abilities that require different runes during a battle. Familiarizing yourself with your abilities and knowing which abilities require which runes becomes important, especially in longer battles. As Death Knights use their abilities, they also build up Runic Power which they can unleash in devastating attacks by using certain abilities. Much like Rage, Runic Power decays once you are out of battle, so use it or lose it!

CREATING A DEATH KNIGHT

To create a Death Knight you must already have a character of level 55 or greater on your account. One of your existing characters does not become a Death Knight; it is a completely new and separate character. Once you have a level 55 character you can make a Death Knight on any realm where you have a level 55 character or above. The usual rules apply: You must have an open character slot to create a Death Knight and you can't create a Death Knight of an opposing faction on a PvP server. For instance, you can't create a Horde Death Knight on a PvP server where you already have Alliance characters.

Once you have created your character you are ready to get started in Acherus: The Ebon Hold!

QUESTS

The Death Knight quest chain detailed below takes you from your starting level of 55 through at least level 58 and prepares you for playing your Death Knight in the wider world. You spend these first few levels playing through a story arc that gives you the opportunity to learn about your character and get practical experience using the Death Knight's unique abilities in a variety of situations. These quests cannot be skipped, and you wouldn't really want to anyway, so enjoy your time here before rejoining your friends and guild mates.

The information below gives you everything you need to complete every quest in this chain, including hints and tips on using your abilities and dealing with the challenges each quest provides. The majority of quests here are linear, meaning you complete one, then get the next step, and so on. When more than one quest is available at once, we have noted it so you can be sure to take care of them without having to retrace your steps. Each quest you complete teaches you something about your character and has an impact on the world around you. Take your time and enjoy this unique starting area.

IN SERVICE OF THE LICH KING

Quest Giver:	The Lich King
Goal:	Speak to Instructor Razuviovus
Prerequisite:	N/A
Rewards:	N/A
Bonus Talents Earned:	N/A

Anger, cruelty, vengeance—The Lich King has gifted you all of these things as one of his chosen. Seek out Instructor Razuviovus within Acherus: The Ebon Hold to begin your journey.

THE EMBLAZONED RUNEBLADE

Quest Giver:	Instructor Razuviovus
Goal:	Locate a battle-worn sword. Use the Runeforge to create the blade.
Prerequisite:	In Service Of The Lich King
Rewards:	Runed Soulblade, Learn: Runeforming
Bonus Talents Earned:	N/A

Search the nearby weapon racks for an old, worn sword. Take it to the nearby Runeforge to transform it into a Runed Soulblade. Once you have done this, return to Instructor Razuviovus to receive your new weapon.

RUNEFORMING: PREPARATION FOR BATTLE

Quest Giver:	Instructor Razuviovus
Goal:	Use your Runeforming ability to engrave a rune upon your Runed Soulblade.
Prerequisite:	The Emblazoned Runeblade
Rewards:	N/A
Bonus Talents Earned:	N/A

Runeforming is a skill unique to Death Knights. You start with only two choices: Rune of Cinderglacier or Rune of Razorice, but gain more as you progress in levels. Runeforming is a valuable way to add attributes to your weapons, and should not be overlooked. To complete this quest, approach one of the Runeorges and open up your Runeforming crafting window. Select which Rune you which to engrave and apply it to your weapon. You must be near a Runeforge in the Ebon Hold to use Runeforming. Once you are done, return to Instructor Razuviovus.

RUNEFORGING

Runeforging is a class ability exclusive to the Death Knight. With it, you can emblazon your weapon with specific runes to suit your individual play style or the situation. These runes function much like enchantments. You can have only one on your weapon at a time, and you can also only have either a rune or an enchantment, not both, on one weapon.

Runeforging functions much like a profession. Once you learn the skill after completing the Runeforging: Preparation for Battle quest, you can use the Runeforging icon to bring up a list of available runes. Head to a Runeforge, available in the Ebon Hold, and select which rune you want to try and place it on your weapon. Most Runeforging recipes can be used on any weapon, but some can only be used on 1H or 2H specifically. While you can only use your Runeforging skill near a Runeforge, you can change your runes as often as you wish, at no cost, so experiment with them all to see what works best for you. While you only start with a few Runes, you gain more as you level.

	Rune of Cinder Glacier	Has a chance to increase the damage of your next two attacks that deal Frost or Shadow damage.
	Rune of Lichbane	Adds extra weapon damage as Fire damage or a higher percentage of damage versus Undead targets.
	Rune of Razorice	Causes extra weapon damage as Frost damage and has a chance to increase Frost vulnerability.
	Rune of Spellbreaking	Deflects a percentage of all spell damage and reduces the duration of Silence effects. Requires 1H Rune Weapon.
	Rune of Spellshattering	Deflects a percentage of all spell damage and reduces the duration of Silence effects. Requires 2H Rune Weapon.
	Rune of Swordbreaking	Increases Parry chance and reduces the duration of Disarm effects. Requires 1H Rune Weapon.
	Rune of Swordshattering	Increases Parry chance and reduces the duration of Disarm effects. Requires 2H Rune Weapon.
	Rune of the Fallen Crusader	Has a chance to heal you and increase your total Strength for a short time.

HOME SWEET HOME

Acherus: The Ebon Hold is home to the Lich King's legion of Death Knights, and later, to the Knights of the Ebon Blade. Here you find merchants, trainers, and the all important Runeforge. There is even a training dummy set up in the center for your use, after you have completed this quest line. Though you can eventually visit all the cities of Azeroth, Acherus is the closest thing a Death Knight has to a home.

THE ENDLESS HUNGER

Quest Giver:	Instructor Razuviov
Goal:	Use the key to free an unworthy initiate and face them in battle.
Prerequisite:	Runeforging: Preparation For Battle
Rewards:	N/A
Bonus Talents Earned:	N/A

In the center of this floor are several Initiates that have proven themselves unworthy of becoming Death Knights. Use the key that Razuviov gives you to unlock one from his or her chains. They don their armor and equipment and face you in battle for the chance to earn their freedom. This is your first taste of battle as a Death Knight. Though you only have a few abilities at this point, they are more than enough to take down one of these cretins. As you use your abilities, notice how your runes are used up and then refreshed. This becomes very important in later battles, so you want to get used to keeping an eye on them. Once you have emerged victorious, return to Instructor Razuviov.

THE EYE OF ACHERUS

Quest Giver:	Instructor Razuviov
Goal:	Report To the Lich King
Prerequisite:	The Endless Hunger
Rewards:	N/A
Bonus Talents Earned:	N/A

Now that Instructor Razuviov has seen to it that you are equipped with a weapon and know how to use it, The Lich King has a task for you.

DEATH COMES FROM ON HIGH

Quest Giver:	The Lich King
Goal:	Use the Eye of Acherus to Analyze structures in New Avalon
Prerequisite:	The Eye Of Acherus
Rewards:	N/A
Bonus Talents Earned:	N/A

Use the Eye of Acherus Control Mechanism to either side of the Lich King to gain control of an Eye of Acherus. With it you can analyze important structures in New Avalon like the Scarlet Hold, the Forge, the Town Hall, and the Chapel of the Crimson Flame. Once you have used the Control Mechanism, you can control the direction of the Eye as you would your normal movement. Head toward the large red arrows which point out your major targets. When you are near each one, use the Siphon of Acherus to target the structure and gather technical information about it. The Scarlet Crusade doesn't take kindly to your spying, and attack if they see you. Use Shroud to move about the town unseen. If you collect information or enter combat, the Shroud is broken, and nearby Crusade members begin attacking the Eye. If this happens you can move out of their range but sometimes the best defense is a good offense. If the soldiers notice your spying attempts, use the Summon Ghouls on Scarlet Crusade ability. This ability calls forth your Scourge allies to rise out of the ground and attack the Scarlet Crusade, giving you time to move the rather fragile Eye to safety. Once you have gathered all the information you need, use the icon on the taskbar to return to your body. If the eye is destroyed, you can use the Control Mechanism to gain another.

THE MIGHT OF THE SCOURGE

Quest Giver:	The Lich King
Goal:	Report to Highlord Darion Mograine
Prerequisite:	Death Comes From On High
Rewards:	Dominion Over Acherus, Bladed Ebon Amulet
Bonus Talents Earned:	N/A

Take the red teleporter at the base of the steps to reach the Hall of Command to speak with Highlord Darion Mograine. The Dominion Over Acherus buff allows you to move more quickly while in the Ebon Hold. From now on you gain this buff every time you enter Acherus.

REPORT TO SCOURGE COMMANDER THALANOR

Quest Giver:	Highlord Darion Mograine
Goal:	Report to Scourge Commander Thalanor
Prerequisite:	The Might Of The Scourge
Rewards:	N/A
Bonus Talents Earned:	N/A

Go up the stairs, past the teleporter to reach Scourge Commander Thalanor. Speak with him to requisition a Gryphon to take to you to Death's Breach, the camp below the Ebon Hold.

THE SCARLET HARVEST

Quest Giver:	Scourge Commander Thalanor
Goal:	Report to Prince Valanar
Prerequisite:	Report To Scourge Commander Thalanor
Rewards:	N/A
Bonus Talents Earned:	N/A

Ride the Gryphon provided by Commander Thalanor to reach Death's Breach, below the Ebon Hold. Speak to Prince Valanar upon your arrival.

IF CHAOS DRIVES, LET SUFFERING HOLD THE REINS

Quest Giver:	Prince Valonar
Goal:	Slay 10 Scarlet Crusaders or Scarlet Peasants and 10 Citizens of Havenshire
Prerequisite:	The Scarlet Harvest
Rewards:	Valonar's Signet Ring
Bonus Talents Earned:	1

Head west, down the hill into Havenshire. You can find paths leading down from Death's Breach at either end of the camp. Once there, slay ten Scarlet Crusaders or Scarlet Peasants and ten Citizens of Havenshire. The Peasants are easily slain; they don't really fight back at all. The Crusaders put up more of a fight! Be careful that you don't get overwhelmed by the Crusaders, many of whom patrol somewhat close together. The Citizens can be found further in Havenshire, trying to run to the safety of New Avalon. Before setting out to complete this quest be sure to pick up Grand Theft Palomino and Tonight We Dine in Havenshire as they can easily be done at the same time.

They're Getting Away!

The Citizens of Havenshire are trying their best to run to the perceived safety of New Avalon. Use your Death Grip ability to whisk them back to you where you can finish them off.

BONUS TALENT POINTS

Beginning with If Chaos Drives, Let Suffering Hold the Reins, many quests award you Bonus Talent Points upon completion. By the time you have finished all of the Death Knight chain of quests you have the correct number of talent points for your level.

GRAND THEFT PALOMINO

Quest Giver:	Salanar the Horseman
Goal:	Steal a horse from the Havenshire Stables
Prerequisite:	Accepting If Chaos Drives, Let Suffering Hold The Reins
Rewards:	N/A
Bonus Talents Earned:	1

Salanar is in need of horses to shape into proper Deathchargers! Head down into Havenshire and make your way to the Stables. Once there, select a horse and ride it back to Salanar. While most of the Scarlet Crusade guarding this area are no match for you, be on the look out for Kitrik, the stable master. He has no patience for horse thieves and if he catches you on one of his he reposes it immediately, and you must try again. He is an elite foe and much too tough for any single Death Knight. Like any good thief, your best bet is to avoid his notice altogether.

TONIGHT WE DINE IN HAVENSHIRE

Goal:	Retrieve 15 Saronite Arrows
Prerequisite:	Accepting If Chaos Drives, Let Suffering Hold The Reins
Rewards:	Sky Darkener's Shroud of Blood, Sky Darkener's Shroud of the Unholy, Shroud of the North Wind
Bonus Talents Earned:	1

The Saronite arrows used by Orithos' archers give them spectacular range and damage, allowing them to stop the fleeing Citizens of Havenshire dead in their tracks. Unfortunately, Saronite is rare here so Orithos asks you to retrieve the spent arrows. The arrows are scattered throughout Havenshire. Complete this quest while working on If Chaos Drives, Let Suffering Hold the Reins.

Death's Challenge is a rite of passage for all Death Knights. You must challenge five Death Knights, either other players or the Death Knight Initiates found in Death's Breach. You only receive credit for winning, so use your abilities to the fullest in each battle. Remember to use your diseases effectively for maximum damage output—your challenger surely will. Once you have been victorious five times, return to Olrun.

INTO THE REALM OF SHADOWS

Quest Giver:	Salanar the Horseman
Goal:	Slay a Dark Rider of Achenus
Prerequisite:	Grand Theft Palomino
Rewards:	Summon Deathcharger, Sigil Of The Dark Rider
Bonus Talents Earned:	2

Once you accept this quest you are transported to the Shadow Realm. Make your way down into Havenshire and look for the Dark Rider. You don't have to worry about running into any Scarlet Crusade here; they don't patrol the Shadow Realm. The Rider can be a tough foe, but one you can solo with little difficulty as long as you make use of your abilities. Once he has fallen, climb atop his mount and lead it back to Death's Breach. Once you are there use the Horseman's Call to summon Salanar and exit the Shadow Realm. If when doing this quest something should happen and you should leave the Shadow Realm prematurely, speak to Salanar and he helps you return. Completing this quest earns you the right to summon your own Deathcharger! This very fast mount serves you well throughout your travels.

RELICS

The Sigil of the Dark Rider is the first Relic you receive as a Death Knight. These can be powerful pieces of equipment so always be on the lookout for upgrades to your relic.

It either turns them into a Ghoul, and they become your pet, or they turn into a Scarlet Ghost. The Ghosts are aggressive, so when one appears send it to its final resting place and move on to use the Gift on another Miner. Bonus Talents Earned:	1

Prince Valanar has concocted a plan to deal a devastating blow to the Scarlet Crusade fools. Return to Havenshire Mine and locate a mine car outside, near the outhouse. Once there, use their own cannons against all of the Scarlet Defenders on the beach.

Each cannon comes equipped with the ability to fire at range, as well as with an Electro-magnetic Pulse. Use the cannon to fire on the troops below you on the beach. You can easily aim it by using your movement keys and can control its arc by using the two arrows on the left hand side of the interface. Once they realize what is happening, the Defenders turn their own cannon fire on you. Use the cannon to destroy theirs! They also send troops up to the ship to try to stop you. When this happens, use the Electro-magnetic Pulse to destroy nearby enemies. Once you have destroyed 100 of the Defenders, call down the Scourge Gryphon to make your escape.

Once inside, assassinate Mayor Quimby. He presents no challenge but be ready for a Councilman or two to try to stop you on your way in. Once the Mayor is dead, pick up the Registry at the back of the room and return to Keleseth. You can get a good start on completing this quest while heading toward the Town Hall for Nowhere To Run And Nowhere To Hide. Once you are finished, return to Baron Rivendare.

LIKE YOU NEEDED ANOTHER REASON TO KILL THE SCARLET CRUSADE...

Fighting the Scarlet Crusade gives you a great opportunity to use your Raise Dead ability. This spell summons a Ghoul to fight alongside of you. You need a humanoid corpse or a handful of Corpse Dust to raise your smelly little friend, but with New Avalon just full of potential dead humanoids, why waste perfectly good Corpse Dust?

HOW TO WIN FRIENDS AND INFLUENCE ENEMIES

Quest Giver:	Prince Keleseth
Goal:	Persuade the Scarlet Crusade into talking about the Crimson Dawn.
Prerequisite:	Nowhere To Run And Nowhere To Hide
Rewards:	Keleseth's Signet Ring
Bonus Talents Earned:	2

Prince Keleseth has learned much in his travels—including how to get information out of almost anyone! Equip the "Persuaders" he gives you as your weapons and do battle with members of the Scarlet Crusade in New Avalon. Make sure you equip both of them! The Persuaders have a chance of working on any of the Crusade, so it doesn't matter which ones you battle. Some of the Crusade hold onto their convictions very tightly and die before revealing any information. Keep trying though and eventually one of them cracks under your torture. By using these Persuaders you soon learn the truth about the Crimson Dawn!

Don't Forget the Skulls!

As you slay your way through the Scarlet forces for various quests, remember to keep looting any of their skulls that drop to turn in to Noth's cauldron to receive more special brew.

BEHIND SCARLET LINES

Quest Giver:	Prince Keleseth
Goal:	Report to Orbaz Bloodbone
Prerequisite:	How To Win Friends And Influence Enemies
Rewards:	N/A
Bonus Talents Earned:	N/A

Prince Keleseth has sent some of his most trusted agents behind enemy lines and he now sends you to offer them your sword. They have set up base in the Scarlet Tavern, near the southern end of New Avalon, behind a pair of orchards near the Chapel of the Crimson Flame. Make your way to the tavern, taking out any Scarlet Crusade who try to stop you.

Orbaz has found out that the Scarlet Crusade keeps a schedule of all their patrols in the Scarlet Hold and he has tasked you with stealing it. Before embarking on this quest, pick up Brothers in Death from Thassarion which becomes available upon accepting this quest. Head northeast of the tavern to find the hold. It is the largest building in New Avalon and is easy to spot. You need to fight your way past several members of the Crusade to reach the Hold. Once inside, be prepared for a few more fights and head up the steps in the center to reach the large room at the top of the keep. The New Avalon Patrol Schedule is sitting in plain sight on the table in the back, but it is guarded by Scarlet Commander Rodrick! The Commander is a bit more challenging than the rank and file Crusaders, but he is still soloable as long as you pay attention to the battle and make full use of your abilities. Take him out and grab the Patrol Schedule from the table and return to Orbaz.

BROTHERS IN DEATH

Quest Giver:	Thassarion
Goal:	Find Koltira Deathweaver.
Prerequisite:	Accepting The Path Of The Righteous Crusader
Rewards:	N/A
Bonus Talents Earned:	1

Breaking through the Scarlet lines was costly, but Thassarion is concerned about one Death Knight in particular, Koltira Deathweaver. He was last seen being dragged into the Scarlet Hold. Make your way inside the hold and down the stairs near the center. The staircase to the cellar lies directly underneath the stairs leading up and can be easy to miss. Speak with Koltira once you reach the cellar. You can complete this quest at the same time as The Path Of The Righteous Crusader, since both lead you into the Scarlet Hold.

BLOODY BREAKOUT

Quest Giver:	Koltira Deathweaver
Goal:	Slay High Inquisitor Valroth and take his head to Thassarion.
Prerequisite:	Brothers In Death
Rewards:	Saronite War Plate
Bonus Talents Earned:	2

You free Koltira from the rack, but he is badly hurt and needs your help to get his revenge on these Scarlet dogs! Once you accept this quest, waves of Scarlet Crusade members begin coming down the stairs. Koltira Deathweaver is too weak to fight with you but he does provide an Anti-Magic Shell throughout the battle. Try to remain within it at all times. Use your Death Grip to pull the casters toward you. They don't do a lot of damage, but by using Koltira's Shell you can avoid much of what they do.

Once you have dealt with several of these small waves, High Inquisitor Valroth arrives. He is much more dangerous than the underlings you have been dealing with. Make sure you stay within Koltira's Shell as much as possible. Valroth has a knockback ability that knocks you out of the protective shield. When this hits you, scramble back into the Anti-Magic Shell as quickly as possible. If you don't, the High Inquisitor's Smite eats you alive. As long as you stay under Koltira's Shell you can deal with High Inquisitor Valroth with little danger. Once he falls to the ground, take his head back to Thassarion at the Scarlet Tavern.

If another Death Knight is already speaking with your prisoner, you need to wait until they are finished and have slain the prisoner before you can begin. Return to Knight Commander Plaguefist when you are finished.

Put on the Scarlet Courier's clothes and in this disguise, make your way to King's Harbor, southeast of the Scarlet Overlook. Don't engage anyone in combat on the way so that you don't ruin your disguise. Speak with High General Abbendis once you arrive.

Head out of the tavern and across the orchard towards New Avalon to reach the Scarlet Overlook. Once there, use the Makeshift Cover given to you by Orbaz Bloodbane. Once your cover is in place, the Scarlet Courier appears! He fights valiantly for his life but you should have no problem finishing him off. Take him down and rob him of his clothes. Orbaz has more work for you once you have finished.

Goal:	Deliver The Path of Redemption to Orbaz Bloodbane.
Prerequisite:	A Meeting With Fate

Bonus Talents Earned:	1

High General Abbendis is fooled by your disguise. Thinking you are the Scarlet Courier, she gives you a message for one of her comrades. Instead, deliver The Path of Redemption to Orbaz Bloodbane. It tells him all he needs to know about the Scarlet Onslaught. Be sure to read this before turning it over to him. It tells the story of how the Scarlet Crusade becomes the Scarlet Onslaught in Northrend.

SCARLET ARMIES APPROACH...

Prerequisite:	The Scarlet Onslaught Emerges

THE SCARLET APOCALYPSE

Goal:	Seek out the Lich King.
Prerequisite:	Scarlet Armies Approach
Rewards:	N/A
Bonus Talents Earned:	N/A

The Scarlet Crusade has mustered their forces for one final, doomed stand. Seek out the Lich King in Death's Breach. He has work for you.

AN END TO ALL THINGS...

Quest Giver:	The Lich King
Goal:	Use a Frostbrood Vanquisher to destroy 150 Scarlet Soldiers and 10 Ballistae.
Prerequisite:	The Scarlet Apocalypse
Rewards:	Greathelm of the Scourge Champion
Bonus Talents Earned:	6

When you return to Death's Breach, you find the landscape much changed once again. The Scourge has pushed the assault into New Avalon and the Lich King orders you to help finish off the desperate Scarlet forces. Use the Horn of the Frostbrood he gives you to call forth a Frostbrood Vanquisher and ride it towards New Avalon. You can easily control the mount with your normal movement keys. The Vanquisher has two abilities, Frozen Deathbolt and Devour Humanoid. The Frozen Deathbolt is used to deal massive amounts of damage to both the Scarlet Crusade and their ballistae. Devour Humanoid lets you grab a quick snack to replenish the Vanquisher as you fight.

Once you reach New Avalon, target the ballistae on the ground. Unlike the ones on the walls, these massive weapons are surrounded by Scarlet Crusade forces, so you kill two Scarlet birds with one Deathbolt! Aim for the ballista and you take out the Scarlet Crusade as collateral damage. If you still need more ballistae afterwards, go for the ones on the walls. These fools are making their last stand and they know it and they throw everything they've got at you. Their arrows damage the Vanquisher, but the main danger is from the large bolts fired by the ballistae. When you see one fire, move quickly out of the way to avoid taking a heavy hit of damage. If your ride begins taking too many hits, back off out of danger and scoop up a few Scarlet Crusade from the edges to regenerate. Once you are ready, return to terrorizing them! If you should lose your Vanquisher, use the Horn of the Frostbrood to summon another. Once you have completed your task, return to the Lich King at Death's Breach.

THE LICH KING'S COMMAND

Quest Giver:	The Lich King
Goal:	Report to Scourge Commander Thalnor at Browman Mill.
Prerequisite:	An End To All Things...
Rewards:	N/A
Bonus Talents Earned:	N/A

With the destruction of the Scarlet Crusade forces, there is only one thing standing in the path of the Lich King—Light's Hope Chapel. Go northwest out of Death's Breach, through the cave and into the Noxious Glade. Take the path leading out of the glade to reach Browman Mill where Scourge Commander Thalnor awaits.

THE LIGHT OF DAWN

Quest Giver:	Scourge Commander Thalonor
Goal:	Defeat the forces of the Argent Dawn and uncover the Light of Dawn.
Prerequisite:	The Lich King's Command
Rewards:	Learn: Deathgate and Greataxe of the Ebon Blade or Greatsword of the Ebon Blade
Bonus Talents Earned:	6

Once the armies have assembled, follow Highlord Darion Mograine into battle. Be sure to stay with the Scourge forces. If you engage the forces of the light without them you are killed rather quickly. Join your fellow Death Knights in battling the defenders. Stick close to the other Scourge fighters and wear down your opponents. This is a massive battle and though your numbers are far greater, your foes stand upon holy ground and won't give way easily.

The forces of the Scourge are gathering at Browman Mill for an all out assault against Light's Hope Chapel. Once you arrive, notice the timer in the upper right portion of your screen. This lets you know if the event has already started. If it hasn't, speak to Highlord Darion Mograine to begin the event. He calls upon the Scourge armies to rise up and prepare for battle!

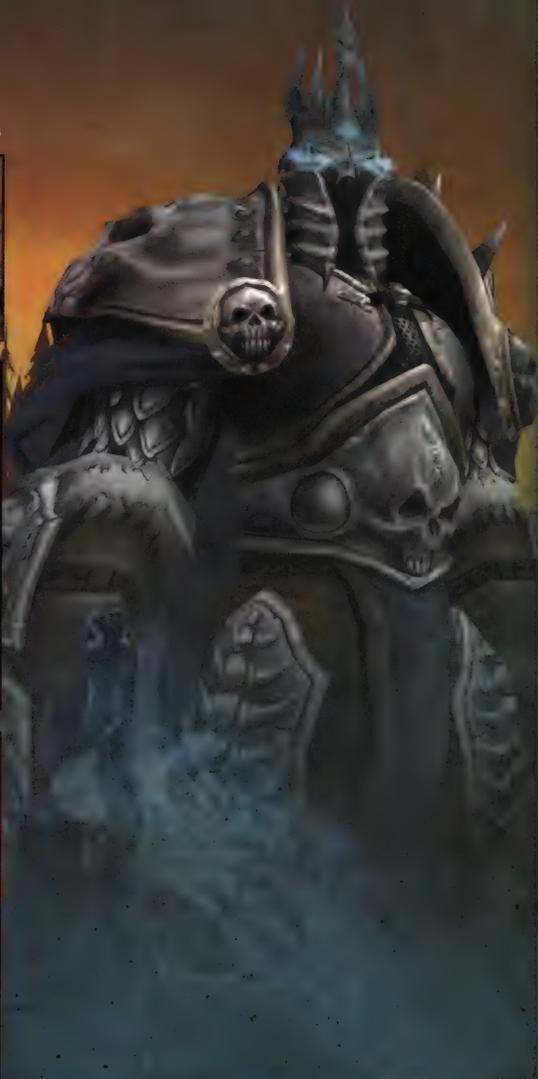

Once many of the defenders of the light have been defeated, Highlord Tirion Fordring arrives, putting a stop to the battle. Once this happens, you need to only wait and watch events unfold. When it is all over, you are able to complete your quest. Fordring speaks with Highlord Darion Mograine, revealing much about his past, but the Lich King soon arrives to take matters into his own hands.

The Lich King launches an attack against Fordring, and only aid from an unexpected source stops him from killing Fordring and turns the tide of battle. With Ashbringer in hand, Highlord Tirion Fordring stands against the Lich King, forcing him into a retreat.

Though you will never again be what you once were in life, having thrown off the yoke of your master, you and your fellow Death Knights now have a new purpose—the eradication of the Scourge and the destruction of the Lich King!

TAKING BACK ACHERUS

Quest Giver:	Highlord Darion Mograine
Goal:	Return to Acherus: The Ebon Hold.

Rewards:	N/A
Bonus Talents Earned:	N/A

Now that you have broken the chains that bound you to the Lich King, it is time to take back Acherus! Use the Death Gate spell to return to The Ebon Hold. Once there report to Highlord Darion Mograine.

DEATH GATE

Your Death Gate spell allows you to return to the Ebon Hold whenever you wish. You need to use it when you want to visit your trainer or use your Runeforming skill. Death Gate makes it very convenient for you to pop back to Acherus whenever you need. When adventuring in Outland or Northrend just set your hearth to a convenient location, such as Shattrath, and use your Death Gate spell to visit the Ebon Hold, take care of your business, then hearth back to your home point.

THE BATTLE FOR THE EBON HOLD

Quest Giver:	Highlord Darion Mograine
Goal:	Slay 10 Scourge and Help Kill Patchwerk.
Prerequisite:	Taking Back Acherus
Rewards:	N/A
Bonus Talents Earned:	N/A

The Lich King may have retreated to Icecrown, but The Ebon Hold still houses some of his servants in the form of Abominations, Val'kyr Battle-maidens, and Scourge Necromancers. Use the teleporter to reach the second floor. Once there engage and defeat at least ten Scourge. In the center is Patchwerk, a colossal abomination. He is too tough for you take on by yourself. Seek out the aid of your brothers and sisters of the Ebon Blade to take him down. You don't need to bring your own group, just help other Death Knights take him out. The battle continues, even after you have completed your quest so once you have done your part to clean up Acherus, use the teleporter to return to Highlord Darion Mograine. Which quest you receive next depends on whether your character was a member of the Alliance or the Horde before becoming a Death Knight.

WHERE KINGS WALK

Faction:	Alliance
Quest Giver:	Highlord Darion Mograine
Goal:	Deliver the letter to King Varian Wrynn.
Prerequisite:	The Battle For The Ebon Hold
Rewards:	N/A
Bonus Talents Earned:	N/A

Highlord Darion Mograine knows that for the Knights of the Ebon Blade to survive, they must make allies. Deliver the letter, given to Mograine on your behalf by Lord Tirion Fordring, to King Varian Wrynn in Stormwind. There is a convenient portal on the balcony behind Highlord Darion Mograine.

Stormwind's citizens have suffered during battles with the Scourge and they do not forgive easily. You are unable to interact with any of the merchants or other city services until you speak with King Wrynn. Deliver the letter and he agrees to form an alliance with the Knights of the Ebon Blade against the Scourge! You are now welcome among the cities of the Alliance.

Upon completing the Death Knight chain of quests you should be at least level 58 and ready to take on the world. This is the perfect level to start questing in Outland. Because you were formerly a hero of your faction, you know all of the Flight Paths in Azeroth and don't have to spend time and effort revisiting all of them. This makes it very convenient for you to get around. You also start with a Bandaging Skill of 275, so you are ready to learn Heavy Runecloth Bandaging before jumping into battle. Visit the appropriate First Aid Trainer, found in Theramore for the Alliance and Hammerfall for the Horde, to pick up this skill and you are ready to start questing in Outland!

WARCHIEF'S BLESSING

Faction:	Horde
Quest Giver:	Highlord Darion Mograine
Goal:	Deliver the letter to Thrall.
Prerequisite:	The Battle For The Ebon Hold
Rewards:	N/A
Bonus Talents Earned:	N/A

Highlord Darion Mograine knows that for the Knights of the Ebon Blade to survive, they must make allies. Deliver the letter, given to Mograine on your behalf by Lord Tirion Fordring, to Thrall in Orgrimmar. There is a convenient portal on the balcony behind Highlord Darion Mograine.

The citizens of Orgrimmar are not happy to see a monster like you walking their streets, but their loathing is a small price to pay for the crimes you have committed while in service to the Lich King. Until you speak with Thrall you are unable to utilize any of the town's services such as the bank or merchants. Make your way into the Valley of Wisdom to reach Grommash Hold, where you can find the Warchief.

ABILITIES

Death Knights have some very unique abilities. Though they are very definitely a melee class, their manipulation of runes grants them devastating strikes, virulent diseases, and a host of other abilities designed to make them formidable opponents. There are three distinct groups of abilities, each tied to the runes used to cast them (though some of the more powerful abilities take more than one rune type to use): Blood, Frost, and Unholy. No matter how you choose to allocate your talent points, all of these abilities are at your disposal.

BLOOD

Blood Boil

Causes any of the Death Knight's diseases on the target, and all enemies nearby the target, to painfully erupt, dealing Shadow damage.

While this does consume your diseases, it is a great way to deal a burst of damage to the enemies surrounding you. It works especially well after Pestilence when the diseases have been spread around to nearby targets. If your foe is still standing after using Blood Boil, begin applying your diseases again, share them with Pestilence, and hit the Blood Boil again!

Blood Presence

This ability strengthens the Death Knight with the presence of blood, increasing damage and healing the Death Knight by a percentage of the damage dealt. Only damage dealt to targets that grant experience or honor can trigger this heal. Only one Presence may be active at a time.

Blood Presence is one of the three different presences you can use. Much like a warrior's stances, you are always in a presence. You just need to select the right one for the circumstances. Blood Presence is great for soloing most things since its healing component cuts down on the time you need to recuperate between battles, and added damage is always good.

Blood Strike

Instantly strike the enemy, causing a percentage of weapon damage plus some extra damage. It also deals with additional damage per disease.

Blood Strike is best used when you have already placed all of your diseases on the target. Since each disease causes extra damage, load the target up and then Blood Strike for maximum effect.

Blood Tap

Immediately activates a Blood Rune and temporarily converts it into a Death Rune. This rune counts as a Blood, Unholy, or Frost Rune.

Blood Tap is a highly useful ability and the more you familiarize yourself with your various abilities and their rune costs, the more often you use it. For example, you may wish to use a few moves in a row that require Frost runes to activate, but you aren't using your Blood runes at the moment. Use Blood Tap to convert an unneeded Blood Rune into a Death Rune and you've got the runes required to execute your plan. This gives you a bit more flexibility when deciding which abilities to use in a fight. With its fairly short cooldown, Blood Tap can come into play usually at least once per battle.

Dark Command

Commands the target to attack you, but has no effect if the target is already attacking you.

Dark Command functions much like a warrior's Taunt ability. It is great for peeling mobs off of healers and overzealous DPS classes and forcing the enemy to pay attention to you. It is extremely useful for a tanking Death Knight and shouldn't be relegated to the back page of your action bars, even if you never tank. This ability is great for saving those more squishy members of your party who find themselves with too much unwanted attention from mobs. Keep it handy and your group will thank you.

Death Pact

The Death Knight sacrifices an undead minion, healing you for a percentage of his or her maximum health.

Death Pact makes your Ghoul even more useful by trading your Ghoul's life for some of yours. While this does consume your Ghoul, you can always raise another. After all, you raised him from the dead—he kind of owes you.

Forceful Deflection

This passive ability increases your Parry Rating by a percentage of your total Strength.

This is one of the reasons why Strength is so important to a Death Knight, the other being for additional Attack Power. Parry helps with tanking quite a bit as any damage you can avoid is damage that doesn't have to be healed.

Pestilence

Causes Shadow damage to the target and all nearby targets and spreads any diseases on the target to the additional targets.

This ability is great at spreading around the pain. Pestilence is very useful when tanking multiple mobs, or to add that little bit extra of DPS. Pile up diseases on your main target, then use Pestilence to infect any other nearby targets. Once they have ticked a bit, finish them off with Blood Boil for explosive damage.

Strangulate

Strangulates an enemy, silencing them for a short time and deals Shadow damage at the end of the Silence.

Casters are the bane of any melee class but Strangulate gives you a way to fight back against their constant magical muttering. Use Strangulate to interrupt their spells, giving you a few precious seconds to act. When the Silence wears off, your target is hit with that blast of Shadow damage, adding injury to the insult.

FROST

Chains of Ice

The heavy chains shackle the target, reducing their movement to zero. The target regains a percentage of their movement each second.

Chains of Ice is a great method of crowd control. While it doesn't lock your target down like a mage's frost nova or a hunter's trap, it works well, especially against other melee classes. Sure, they are still going to come at you, but by the time they get within reach you have had enough time to load them up with diseases before they can even so much as scratch your armor with their weapon, giving you the upper hand.

Empower Rune Weapon

Empower your rune weapon, immediately activating all your runes and generating a decent amount of Runic Power.

This is great for tough battles when you need all the extra power you can get. While the cooldown keeps you from using it in every battle, it is short enough that you can use it almost every time you find yourself in trouble—or when you just want to deliver a particularly devastating beat down.

Frost Fever

Frost Fever deals Frost Damage over time and reduces the target's melee and ranged attack speed.

This passive effect is caused by using Icy Touch and other Frost spells. Your Attack Power gives you a bonus to the damage caused. As you use your Frost abilities, you have the chance to apply this disease to the target. Once applied it behaves like any other disease and can be effected by abilities like Pestilence and Blood Boil.

Frost Presence

The Death Knight takes on the presence of frost, increasing your total health and armor contribution from items, while reducing spell damage taken. It also increases the threat you generate. Only one Presence may be active at a time.

Frost Presence is mostly used for tanking and keeping yourself alive during tough battles. It is great at increasing your survivability and with the addition of added threat it most often the best presence for tanking.

Horn of Winter

The Death Knight blows the Horn of Winter, increasing the total Strength and Agility of all party or raid members nearby.

This buff only lasts a short time, but it gives a significant bonus to these stats. While it does require Runic Power, the cost is not that great and can easily be absorbed during a battle to improve your fellow party members.

Icebound Fortitude

The Death Knight freezes his blood to become immune to Stun effects and reduce all damage taken by a great percentage for a short time. This does not remove existing Stun effects.

This is great when fighting mobs that stun, or just for tanking, to give your healers some help. The relatively low cooldown time makes it highly useful. Any ability that mitigates the damage you take is a good thing. Though it does cost Runic Power, don't let that discourage you from using it often. The cost is not very great and though you may have to wait a moment before accumulating more Runic Power, the damage mitigation is more than worth the small trade off in damage dealing.

Icy Touch

Chills the target for Frost damage and infects them with Frost Fever, a disease that reduces melee and ranged attack speed.

Icy Touch is one of the mainstays of your arsenal, great because it causes damage and a disease. Make it one of the first spells you cast on any incoming foe.

Mind Freeze

Smash the target's mind with cold, interrupting spellcasting and preventing any spell in that school from being cast for a short time.

Unlike Strangulate, this silencing ability costs Runic Power but is highly useful when fighting casters. Hit them with Strangulate, then as it wears off and you have built up Runic Power use Mind Freeze. The more you can stop a caster from casting, the less harmful she is. Use Mind Freeze to interrupt that annoying heal or big damage spell.

Obliterate

A brutal instant attack that deals weapon damage plus some extra damage. It also deals additional damage per disease, but consumes the diseases.

Stack up all of your diseases on the target then Obliterate them! If that doesn't knock your opponent of their feet, start applying the diseases again and try it once more!

Path of Frost

The Death Knight's freezing aura creates ice beneath his feet, allowing him and his party or raid to walk on water for a time. This also works while mounted, but any damage cancels the effect.

It sure is a lot easier than trying to swim in full plate!

Rune Strike

Instantly strike the target for a percentage of weapon damage plus additional damage. Rune Strike is only useable after an attack is dodged or parried. Rune Strike cannot be dodged, blocked, or parried..

Keep Rune Strike on an easily visible portion of your action bar so you can see when it becomes active. It is a pretty powerful strike, so be sure to use it every time it comes up.

Runic Focus

Unlike most casters, a Death Knight's spells cause double damage on critical hits. Critical hits from casters normally do not approach double damage without talents. Death Knights need no such talents.

UNHOLY

Anti-Magic Shell

This spell surrounds the Death Knight in an Anti-Magic Shell, absorbing a high percentage of the damage dealt by harmful spells and preventing the application of harmful magical effects. Damage absorbed by Anti-Magic Shell energizes the Death Knight with additional Runic Power.

While the Anti-Magic shell only lasts for a few seconds, it is very useful. Pop it up in a fight to not only eliminate a great deal of the damage you would otherwise take but to grab that extra Runic Power. This ability makes it cost practically nothing to use.

Army of the Dead

Summons an entire legion of Ghouls to fight for the Death Knight. The Ghouls swarm the area, taunting and fighting anything they can. While channeling Army of the Dead, you take less damage equal to your Dodge and Parry chance.

Army of the Dead is a great way to deal with a group of foes. Though they don't last very long, the army is great at getting the attention of enemies and occupying them for a few precious seconds, allowing you to get a handle on the battle. This ability has a moderately long cooldown, so you want to use it when it counts. Also, like any other mindless pet your Ghoul army can be a bit overzealous. Make sure you are in an area conducive to such a large ghoulish group before summoning them so you don't end up with extra mobs you weren't counting on.

Blood Plague

A passive ability that creates a disease dealing Shadow damage over time. It also has a chance to remove one heal over time effect whenever it does damage. It is caused by Plague Strike and other abilities.

An extra disease is always a good thing, and the extra damage is always welcome but Blood Plague's ability to remove Heal Over Time effects is its greatest asset. This way, instead of your diseases competing with a HoT, you eliminate it and do the damage you came to do.

Death and Decay

Corrupts the ground targeted by the Death Knight, causing Shadow damage every second that the target remains in the area for a short time. This ability produces a high amount of threat.

Death and Decay is great for tanking multiple mobs. Place it on the ground and gather up the threat from the nearby foes. It is also very useful anytime your target, such as a mob that doesn't run or a zealous PvP player, is reluctant to leave your vicinity. As long as they are close to you they keep soaking up the damage, and the extra threat, for the duration of this spell.

Death Coil

Fires a blast of unholy energy, causing Shadow damage to an enemy target or healing damage from a friendly Undead target.

Death Coil is an awesome use of Runic Power, allowing you to dump quite a bit of it into this powerful blast. It is also great for healing your Ghoul pet. While this may not always be a smart use of Runic Power on your short lived Ghouls, by spending talents in the Unholy tree you get the ability to have a longer lived Ghoul, making Death Coil a valuable heal.

Death Gate

It opens a gate which the Death Knight can use to return to the Ebon Hold.

This spell is invaluable for every Death Knight. Not only can you easily visit your trainer to train or respec, you can also quickly access a Runeforge. Set your hearth in a convenient place and use Death Gate to travel back to Acherus to attend to your Death Knight needs and hearth back to wherever you are currently adventuring.

Death Grip

Harnessing the unholy energy that surrounds and binds all matter, Death Grip draws the target toward the Death Knight and forces the enemy to attack the Death Knight for a few seconds.

Death Knights don't use ranged weapons so Death Grip is most obviously useful for pulling mobs, but is also beneficial in other ways. For instance, whether you are the tank or not, Death Grip lets you pull mobs off of healers and casters, or anyone who just can't handle the aggro at the moment. At the very least it gives that person time to get a heal off or maybe dump their threat. This can make all the difference in a close fight. When you are the tank this just gives you one more way to keep all the enemies focused on you. Death Grip is also perfect for mobs, or players in PvP, that think they are going to run away. Unlike abilities that root them in place, Death Grip not only stops their flight, but jerks them right back to you, in range to use any and all of your abilities. Its cooldown time means you won't be able to use it more than once or twice a fight, but it is one of the most powerful tools in your arsenal, so learn to use it well.

Death Strike

A deadly weapon attack that deals a percentage of weapon damage plus extra damage then heals you for a percentage of the damage done for each of the diseases on the target.

Death Strike is massively useful at making up for the damage you take during battle. Lay down your diseases on a target then Death Strike for maximum return on your rune expenditure. You get to deal damage and heal yourself—always a good combination.

Plague Strike

A vicious strike that deals a percentage of weapon damage plus additional damage. It also infects the target with Blood Plague, a disease dealing Shadow damage over time. Plague Strike removes one heal over time effect from the target.

Damage is good to have, but the real strength of this strike lies in its ability to inflict Blood Plague. This strong damage over time ability not only deals out additional pain, but has a good chance to remove heal over time effects each time it does damage. By not competing with a heal, your diseases are just that much more devastating.

Raise Dead

It does what it says: raises a Ghoul to fight by your side. If no humanoid corpse that yields experience or honor is available, you must supply Corpse Dust to complete the spell. If the corpses of friendly players are raised, they have control over the Ghoul. You can only have one Ghoul at a time with this ability.

Your Ghoul is your staunchest ally. Though his brain is a bit rotten, he attacks anything you command him to, adding a substantial amount of damage to your own output. To summon a Ghoul all you need is a humanoid corpse or Corpse Dust. Corpse Dust is available from reagent vendors throughout Azeroth, so you should always be able to summon your Ghoul if need be. In areas where humanoid corpses are plentiful, keep him out to give you the advantage. Corpse Dust isn't cheap, but you should always keep a stack on you for emergencies. You can also cast this on fellow players, once they are deceased that is. Sure, they won't obey your commands like your usual Ghoul, but it is fun to raise your friends from the dead!

Unholy Presence

The ability infuses the Death Knight with unholy fury, increasing your attack speed and movement speed and reducing the global cooldown of all abilities. Only one presence may be active at one time.

Unholy Presence is great for providing DPS, particularly in groups. With it you are more vulnerable than in Frost or Blood Presence, but you gain an increase to your damage output that more than makes up for it.

Talents

As with your abilities, the Death Knight's Talents are divided up between three trees: Blood, Frost, and Unholy. Each offers unique talents which strengthen your character in different ways. While there is no right way or wrong way to spec, each tree has its own strengths. Which path you choose should depend on what skills you wish to augment the most, which talents are most useful to your style of play, and most importantly, what is the most fun for you. Take time to play with various builds to see what you like the best. Remember, no talent spec is ever set in stone and a quick trip to your trainer in the Ebon Hold and a bit of your hard earned cash lets you rebuild your talents whenever you want.

BLOOD

The Blood talent tree revolves mostly around dealing physical damage and keeping yourself healed. It is great for soloing or questing. It also works really well with other DPS classes, getting the most benefit from other classes' debuffs that decrease armor for example. Good for generating Runic Power and reducing threat, it is not often used for tanking, but works really well as a DPS spec, giving you the extra power you need to take enemies down quickly.

Butchery

Whenever you kill an enemy that grants experience or honor, you generate Runic Power. In addition you generate a smaller amount of Runic Power every few seconds while in combat.

Subversion

Increases the critical strike chance of Blood Strike, Heart Strike, and Obliterate, and reduces threat generated while in Blood or Unholy Presence.

Blade Barrier

Whenever you have no Blood Runes active, your Parry chance is increased for the next few seconds.

Bladed Armor

Your Attack Power is increased depending on your armor value.

Blood Gorged

When you are close to full health, you deal more damage. Also increases your expertise.

Dancing Rune Weapon

Unleashes all available Runic Power to summon a second rune weapon that fights on its own for a short time, doing the same attacks as the Death Knight.

FROST

The Frost line has many talents that deal with damage mitigation, making it popular with tanking Death Knights. This doesn't mean that you don't deal decent damage with Frost, you certainly can, but how you deal the damage is much different than with other specs. Many of talents in the Frost line revolve around infecting your target with Frost Fever and then hitting them hard and fast. Like the Blood spec you have some very useful group abilities as well.

Improved Icy Touch

Your Icy Touch does additional damage and your Frost Fever reduces melee and ranged attack speed by an additional amount.

Glacier Rot

Diseased enemies take more damage from your Icy Touch, Howling Blast and Frost Strike.

Annihilation

Increases the critical strike chance of your melee special abilities. In addition there is a chance that your Obliterate does its damage without consuming diseases.

Runic Power Mastery

Increases your maximum Runic Power.

Killing Machine

Hungering Cold

Purges the earth around the Death Knight of all heat. Enemies close by are trapped in ice, preventing them from performing any action for a short period of time and infecting them with Frost Fever. Enemies are considered Frozen, but any damage other than diseases breaks the ice.

UNHOLY

While diseases are important in all Death Knight builds, the Unholy talent line specializes in talents that increase the damage and duration of your diseases, making them your primary source of damage. Though your pet is not the focus of this talent tree, putting points into it does get you several talents that work with your pet specifically to increase its usefulness.

Vicious Strikes

The Ghoul summoned by your Raise Dead spell is considered a pet and is under your control. Unlike normal Death Knight Ghouls, your pet does not have a limited duration.

Desecration

Your Plague Strikes have a chance to cause the Desecrated Ground effect. Targets in the area are slowed by the grasping arms of the dead while you cause additional damage while standing on the unholy ground.

Anti-Magic Zone

Places a large, stationary Anti-Magic Zone that reduces spell damage done to party or raid members inside it. The Anti-Magic Zone lasts for a period of time or until it has absorbed its maximum amount of damage.

Unholy Aura

All party or raid members near the Death Knight move faster. This effect does not stack with other movement improving effects.

CLASSES

TEN MORE LEVELS!

The opening up of Northrend has increased the level cap ten more levels—all the way to 80! The new continent is full of challenges to help you reach this goal. These extra ten levels give you the chance to increase your skill with many of your current abilities, as well as to learn many new ones.

Every class has seen some changes, some more than others of course. To keep things balanced many old familiar abilities have been tweaked slightly, or in some cases extensively, to make them fit the world as a whole. Before you start worrying that your character has been bruised by the nerfbat, keep in mind that every class has become more powerful, and by extension, more useful in a wider variety of situations.

As is the case with Outland, you will find no class trainers in Northrend. The one exception to this being that the Kirin Tor provides mage trainers in Dalaran. To visit your trainer and get your hands on your new abilities, you must return to one of the major cities of your faction. For your first few levels in Northrend you can leave your Hearthstone set in Shattrath or one of the capital cities in Kalimdor or the Eastern Kingdoms to make traveling back to your trainer a bit easier. Of course you have to make the trip back the old fashioned way then. Once you reach Dalaran, set your Hearthstone there. Much like Shattrath did for Outland, Dalaran functions as a central travel hub for Northrend. From Dalaran you can take one of the portals found in the Sunreaver's Sanctuary for Horde, or The Silver Enclave for Alliance, straight back to your trainer at the capital city of your choice.

NEW AND REVISED TALENTS

As if the new abilities weren't enough to get you excited, your characters are also going to earn ten more Talent Points to play with. Each talent tree has gained two more tiers, making the deepest talent in each one cost 51 Talent Points. Every class has been given some truly awesome new Talents on which to spend those points, but those extra points give you more than just access to these new abilities, they also give you choice.

With ten more Talent Points to play with you have more room to experiment. Spend them all in one tree to specialize or spread them around to pick up different Talents. With so many options, there isn't really a right way or a wrong way to spec. What's important is learning how your Talents affect how you play. Try different things, even if they are wildly different from the builds you've used before. Switching specs isn't always cheap, but you earn enough money in Northrend to cover the cost of experimenting. The time you spend is well worth it when it comes to really knowing your character and that is a much better advantage than any particular Talent or Ability will ever be.

NEW CLASS ABILITIES AND TALENTS

With so many changes to the abilities and talents, we've given you all the information you need to see the possibilities for your character. This chapter discusses the abilities and talents for each class so you can plan for your drive to level 80!

With so many changes to the abilities and talents we felt it was important to give you a full look at what you have available to your class. You will find many new names on these lists, and even more changes to familiar abilities. These additions have also effected how classes augment each other, so take a look at not only your class, but the others as well.

DRUID ABILITIES

Druids are getting some pretty extensive additions and revisions to their abilities and talents. Some of the shapeshift forms have received changes which make them more viable in different circumstances. Many spells and talents now can be used by the Druid in various forms. This will greatly affect how you play. You may find yourself having to switch back to caster form less frequently, or even using your shapeshift forms more often in battle because of this.

Underused, or niche, abilities have been given an overhaul to make them more widely useable. For example, you can now cast Entangling Roots indoors! You may find yourself no longer relying on the same few familiar spells, but instead dusting off those rarely used abilities and giving them a larger role in your everyday play.

In addition to the new abilities that come with working your way towards level 80, you now have access to a whole host of new Talents. There are significant changes to all three Druid Talent trees.

BALANCE

BARKSKIN

The druid's skin becomes as tough as bark. All damage taken is reduced. While protected, damaging attacks will not cause spellcasting delays. This spell is usable while stunned, frozen, incapacitated, feared or asleep. Usable in all forms.

Now that this is useable in all forms, Barkskin is going to see a lot more use. Use it to protect yourself while you get off a heal, or other spell, or to mitigate the damage you take while you are incapacitated on some way.

CYCLONE

Tosses the enemy target into the air, preventing all action but making them invulnerable for a few seconds. Only one target can be affected by your Cyclone at a time.

ENTANGLING ROOTS

Roots the target in place and causes Nature damage over time. Damage caused may interrupt the effect.

Answering the prayer of many Druids, Entangling Roots is now useable indoors. This is a significant change! Now you have an effective method of crowd control that works anywhere, and on a variety of targets.

FAERIE FIRE

Decreases the armor of the target. While affected, the target cannot stealth or turn invisible.

Faerie Fire is also effective against the improved Night Elf ability, Shadowmeld.

HIBERNATE

Forces the enemy target to Sleep. Any damage will awaken the target. Only one target can be forced to hibernate at a time. Only works on Beasts and Dragonkin.

HURRICANE

Creates a violent storm in the target area causing Nature damage to enemies and greatly increasing the time between melee, ranged attacks and spells. Druids must channel to maintain the spell.

This ability no longer has a cooldown which means you can unleash it as much as you want, or at least as much as you can bear the high mana cost. If you have Omen of Clarity, Hurricane is the perfect spell to use when it procs—lots of AoE damage at no cost. Hurricane can also now produce critical damage. As a Balance spell this makes it very useful in Moonkin form, which also mitigates the mana cost when it critically hits.

INNERVATE

Greatly increases the target's Spirit based mana regeneration and allows full mana regeneration while casting.

MOONFIRE

Burns the enemy for Arcane damage and then additional Arcane damage over time.

Moonfire comes with a moderate to hefty mana cost. This doesn't mean you shouldn't use it, it can be a very, very useful offensive spell. However, it is most mana efficient with its DoT portion is able to tick for its entire duration.

NATURE'S GRASP

While active, any time an enemy strikes the caster they are afflicted by Entangling Roots.

As with some other abilities, Nature's Grasp has moved from your Talent tree to being a trainable ability. It can also now be used indoors, and while shapeshifted, making it a very effective buff to keep on as much as possible, especially considering it has no mana cost.

SOOTHE ANIMAL

Soothes the target beast, reducing the range at which it will attack you. Only affects Beasts and Dragonkin targets.

Now that this is instant cast, it is even more useful for getting you past tricky areas where beasts are just waiting to eat you.

STARFIRE

Causes Arcane damage to the target.

TELEPORT: MOONGLADE

Teleports the caster to the Moonglade.

THORNS

Thorns sprout from the friendly target causing Nature damage to attackers when hit.

WRATH

Causes Nature damage to the target.

Druid

Hunter

Mage

Paladin

Priest

Rogue

Shaman

Warlock

Warrior

FERAL COMBAT

AQUATIC FORM

Shapeshift into aquatic form, increasing swim speed and allowing the druid to breathe underwater. Also protects the caster from Polymorph effects. The act of shapeshifting also frees the caster of Polymorph and Movement Impairing effects.

BASH

Stuns the target and interrupts spellcasting for a short time.

BEAR FORM

Shapeshift into Bear form, increasing attack power, Armor contribution from items, and Stamina. The act of shapeshifting also frees the caster of Polymorph and Movement Impairing effects. You can also use various bear abilities.

CAT FORM

Shapeshift into cat form, increasing melee attack power plus Agility. Also protects the caster from Polymorph effects and allows the use of various cat abilities. The act of shapeshifting frees the caster of Polymorph and Movement Impairing effects.

CHALLENGING ROAR

Forces all nearby enemies to focus attacks on you.

HUNTER ABILITIES

Hunters have received quite a few changes with the expansion. Many of their abilities have been beefed up and changed to make them easier to use in a variety of situations. For example, all Aspects now have a reduced global cooldown, and even better, cost no mana. This makes it much easier to switch aspects as needed, even in the heat of battle. Hunters are also getting some much needed pet love. For starters, if spec'd deeply enough into the right line, you can now tame exotic pets. This means that creatures that before were off limits to Hunters are now fair game. If you've always wanted an adorable little Devilsaur for your very own, now's your chance!

The most significant change though, is not to Hunters themselves, but to their pets. The way you train and use your pets has drastically changed, starting with what you choose to tame. Before, Hunter's often shied away from taming lower level pets, even if they liked their look, because of the time it took to level them up. Now, any pet that is more than five levels below you is automatically leveled to be five levels below you when you tame it. All pet families also have one ability unique to their family. Stable-masters now have room for two additional pets, at a cost of course, so try taming something new or different from what you've usually used.

Loyalty, Training Points, and your Beast Training ability are all gone. You no longer have to learn skills by training various pets only to throw them by the wayside to teach the skill to your main pet or pets. Pets now learn all skills at their level, getting new ranks automatically as they gain levels. For customization, pets now have their own Talent tree. Every pet falls into one of three categories: Cunning, Ferocious, or Tenacious. You don't get to choose which tree to spec your pet into. For instance, bears are Tenacious and therefore have the Tenacity Talent tree, while cats use the Ferocity tree. You do get to choose how you spend points in that tree though. Beginning at level 20 pets earn their first Talent point and they get another point every four levels. The three Talent trees do share many useful talents but are very different as well. As for abilities, every pet can learn Growl, Cover, and either Bite or Claw (but not both). As mentioned above, every pet also has an ability unique to its family. Beyond that, the Talents you pick up determine a pet's other abilities. Things like Avoidance and Cobra Reflexes are Talents instead of skills now. Overall this new system gives you much more control over your pet, allowing you to customize it to fit your needs and play style.

MAGE ABILITIES

Mages have gained quite a few new abilities, but have seen the biggest change in the revision of their Talent trees. Many Talents have been revised and moved around, and quite a few have even had the number of ranks changed. All of these changes serve to make the most of the available abilities and Talents, no matter how the mage is specced. You will notice that many of the new Talents affect spells of all schools. This is great for when a certain boss or situation requires you to cast outside your comfort zone. These changes insure that many times you get the benefit from your Talents, even when you are casting in another line.

There is no perfect spec for a Mage. The importance lies in learning how to best use your abilities. Fire may still be the king of straight out DPS, but Arcane has the advantage when it comes to Mana and mobility. Frost lags a bit behind the other two schools when it comes to damage—they have to make up somehow for the awesome freezes and snares that they have, but they still produce devastating DPS.

The new spells and extra Talent points means that there are a lot of new combinations you haven't tried yet. Familiarize yourself with the changes and additions and try taking a look at your character with fresh eyes. There may not be a one size fits all way to play a Mage, but with so many options, there is certainly one that fits you.

PALADIN ABILITIES

Paladins have seen quite a few changes to their Talents and abilities with the expansion. Many abilities have been tweaked to balance out with the Paladin's awesome arsenal. Talents have been moved around and in many cases had their ranks reduced to free up more points for you to spend on other useful Talents. These changes, as well as the additional Talent points you gain as you move toward level 80 allow you to pick up more Talents than ever. Everything that has been done focuses on making more of the Paladin's abilities useful in more situations.

All Auras now affect all party and raid members within range, making it easier for Paladins to buff their groups or raids. You will notice other changes as well. For instance, some abilities and Talents have been removed like Blessing of Light. Its effects remain however, folded into the abilities it effected. Judgment has been replaced by three separate, more specific, Judgment spells, all with their own effects. All of your Seals have also been reduced to just one rank, and all cost the same percentage of base Mana. Their overall duration has been increased and more importantly, they are no longer consumed with you use one of your Judgment spells. Instead, the effect can trigger by any of your weapon based special abilities. This makes a huge difference in how you manage your Seals and Judgments and may take a bit of practice to get used to. Paladins are no doubt happy to see that summoning their mount no longer costs mana, nor does it affect your global cooldown. These are just a few of the recent changes that are working to make the class even stronger than before.

Like other classes that can potentially fill multiple roles, Paladins often find themselves having to be prepared for any situation. Now that stats like Haste, chance to Hit and Crit are no longer exclusive to either spells or melee abilities, it makes it a bit easier to keep track of what you need. This consolidation also means that some pieces of gear can be good for a tanking, healing, or DPS role and you won't always have to carry around different sets, or at least not as much.

In most cases, your Talents have become more powerful and, perhaps more importantly, more flexible, giving you benefits no matter which line you put your Talent point into.

Like other healers, Priests have been greatly affected by the consolidation of plus healing and damage to Spell Power. Now, instead of balancing all of their Talents and gear to give mostly healing or damage—rarely both, they can concentrate instead on increasing their Spell Power to benefit their output overall, in healing and damage. ROGUE ABILITIES

The changes to Rogues have increased their bag of tricks and made them more powerful and versatile. Some Talents have been reduced in rank, freeing up points for other Talents. Others have been combined, like Fist Weapon Specialization and Dagger Specialization, or expanded to balance this class with the changes everyone is seeing. Your Energy regeneration should be smoother now, and therefore more predictable, making it easier to manage your abilities.

Perhaps the most significant change is the removal of the Poison skill. Don't worry, Rogues are still masters of the noxious art, but they no longer have to make their own poisons! All finished poisons can be bought from a convenient vendor, just like other reagents. Most of the poisons are familiar to you but a few have changed. For instance, Anesthetic Poison now also dispels one Enrage effect, and Crippling Poison has a greater movement reduction. More important than individual Poison changes however is the fact that they all now scale with your attack power. This makes an already powerful aspect of your class even more useful since attack power is so important to Rogues.

Less significant than the items above are a few minor, but helpful, changes as well. Vanish, one of a Rogue's most stunning abilities, no longer requires Flash Powder, making one less thing you need to cart around. Also, you no longer need a set of Thieves Tools to use Pick Lock and Disarm Trap. Now you've got even more bag space for poisons or loot!

SHAMAN ABILITIES

As with other classes, Shamans are receiving some much needed additions and changes to give them more versatility. Some Talents have been removed while others have received pretty extensive revisions to give Shamans the aforementioned versatility as well as things like extra DPS and more healing power. Along with these changes comes a basic change for all totems. They now deal Physical, not Magical damage, which can make quite a difference when it comes to resistances.

The recent change to Spell Power has also made things a bit easier for the Shaman. Before you had to balance your gear very carefully, or carry around multiple sets, to effectively move between damage and healing. Now that Spell Power effects both you may find that you don't need to haul around that extra gear, or at least not all of it.

Some of the changes made don't affect just the Shaman but have to do with how you function in a group. For example, the Tranquil Air totem has been removed completely. It was a very effective way to help manage threat in a group but with the modifications to base threat and changes to tanking abilities, it just wasn't needed anymore. Instead, you are now free to let the tank handle the threat and lay down one of your other very useful totems instead.

Overall, your pets have received the same love given to the other classes in the game, making them better, stronger, and more fearsome.

Strength now not only increases attack power, but also increases block value, potentially making the same piece of gear function well for both a DPS Warrior or a Tank.

Several Talents have seen their ranks reduced or, like Improved Taunt for example, been removed altogether to free up points for many of the new Talents that increase DPS or help with Rage generation and spending. All warriors have seen their DPS increase which is not only good for taking out the enemy but is also a key component of threat generation.

Threat generation has been greatly increased. This is a very good thing especially considering the devastating DPS and awesome healing power many of the other classes can provide. With changes to Defensive Stance and other abilities like Thunder Clap and Shockwave, Warriors are much more effective at tanking multiple mobs than they once were. Additions like Titan's Grip give DPS Warriors new options for dishing out the pain as well. Overall the changes have made Warriors much more effective and versatile.

BERSERKER RAGE

Requires Berserker Stance. The Warrior enters a berserker rage, becoming immune to Fear, Sap, and Incapacitate effects and generating extra rage when taking damage.

This ability is now useable in all stances, making it much more useful. It has always been great for use in PvP, but now gives you another tool for use when tanking as well.

CHALLENGING SHOUT

Forces all nearby enemies to focus attacks on you for a short time.

The cooldown on this ability has been reduced, meaning it can become a bigger part of your threat management, especially when tanking multiple mobs. While you can't rely on it alone of course, it is a very useful addition to your toolbox.

CLEAVE

A sweeping attack that does your weapon damage plus bonus damage to the target and its nearest ally.

COMMANDING SHOUT

Increases the maximum health of all nearby party and raid members.

DEMORALIZING SHOUT

Reduces the melee attack power of all nearby enemies.

ENRAGED REGENERATION

You regenerate a percentage of your total health over a short time. This ability requires an Enrage effect, consumes all Enrage effects and prevents any from affecting you for the full duration.

EXECUTE

Requires Battle Stance or Berserker Stance. Attempt to finish off a wounded foe, causing damage and converting each extra point of Rage into additional damage. Only usable on enemies that have less than 20% health.

INTERCEPT

Requires Berserker Stance. Charge an enemy, causing damage based on attack power and stunning it.

INTIMIDATING SHOUT

The Warrior shouts, causing enemies close by to cower in fear. Up to five total nearby enemies will flee in fear.

PUMMEL

Requires Berserker Stance. Pummel the target, interrupting spellcasting and preventing any spell in that school from being cast for a few seconds.

Pummel has lost its damage component, but this change won't have too much of an effect on its use as its main purpose has always been to interrupt spellcasting anyway.

RECKLESSNESS

Requires Berserker Stance. Your next few special ability attacks have an additional 100% chance to critically hit but all damage taken is increased.

The cooldown on this ability has been reduced, allowing you to be reckless more often which can really increase your damage output. In situations where taking the extra damage as well isn't an issue, Recklessness is a powerful tool.

SLAM

Slams the opponent, causing weapon damage plus bonus damage.

VICTORY RUSH

Requires Battle Stance, Berserker Stance. Instantly attack the target. Can only be used after you kill an enemy that yields experience or honor. Damage is based on your attack power.

WHIRLWIND

Requires Berserker Stance. In a whirlwind of steel you attack nearby enemies, causing weapon damage to each enemy.

PROTECTION

BLOODRAGE

Generates Rage at the cost of health, and then generates additional rage over time.

DEFENSIVE STANCE

A defensive combat stance. Decreases damage taken and damage caused by a small amount. Increases threat generated by a substantial amount.

The increase in threat generated helps you keep the mob's attention when faced with group members who are doing increased damage due to their new abilities and Talents.

DEVASTATE

Requires One-Handed Melee Weapon. Sunder the target's armor causing the Sunder Armor effect. In addition causes a percentage of weapon damage plus bonus damage per each application of Sunder Armor on the target. The Sunder Armor effect can stack up to five times.

DISARM

Requires Defensive Stance. Disarm the enemy's weapon for a short time.

The Rage cost of this ability has been reduced, making it a better choice on which to spend your Rage than it often was in the past.

INTERVENE

Requires Defensive Stance. Run at high speed towards a party member, intercepting the next melee or ranged attack made against them as well as reducing their total threat.

REVENGE

Requires Defensive Stance. Instantly counterattack an enemy. Revenge is only usable after the Warrior blocks, dodges, or parries an attack.

SHIELD BASH

Requires Battle Stance or Defensive Stance. Bash the target with your shield, interrupting spell casting and preventing any spell in that school from being cast for a few seconds.

SHIELD BLOCK

Requires Defensive Stance. Increases your chance to block and your block value.

SHIELD SLAM

Slam the target with your shield, causing damage modified by your shield block value. Dispels one magic effect on the target and also causes a high amount of threat.

SHIELD WALL

Requires Defensive Stance. Reduces all damage taken for a period of time.

SPELL REFLECTION

Requires Battle Stance, Defensive Stance. Raise your shield, reflecting the next spell cast on you.

STANCE MASTERY

Passive Ability. You retain some of your Rage points when you change stances.

SUNDER ARMOR

Sunders the target's armor, reducing it for each Sunder Armor and causes a high amount of Threat. The amount of Threat is increased by attack power. Sunder Armor can be applied up to five times and lasts until it is cancelled.

TAUNT

Taunts the target to attack you, but has no effect if the target is already attacking you.

Though Improved Taunt has been removed from your Talent tree, this ability has been changed so that the cooldown equals what that Talent used to give you, freeing up a few points to spend somewhere else. This is great news for any warrior!

BOREAN TUNDRA

Located on the southwestern edge of the continent, Borean Tundra was chosen as one of the landing sites for both the Alliance and the Horde's journey to Northrend, and both have set up command posts in this harsh land. Foes like the Kvaldir and Skadir trouble the shores while Scourge forces lay claim to parts of the area and other dangerous creatures make this their home.

Though the territory is hostile, there are allies to be had here as well. In Kaskala, the Tuskarr battle to drive the Kvaldir from their shores and welcome any help they can get. The mages of the Kirin Tor are here in force, at Amber Ledge and the Transitus Shield inside of Coldarra. They care not if you are Alliance or Horde but welcome any who would aid them in their cause. D.E.H.T.A. (Druids for the Ethical and Humane Treatment of Animals), a radical portion of the Cenarion Expedition, ask for help from any who would aid them in their quest to thwart Hemet Nessesingway and those who follow the infamous butcher. The Winterfin Murlocs can also use your help in their home far to the north. The Taunka, stoic ancestral cousins of the Tauren, have an outpost here as well. They have allied themselves with the Horde and can use the help of their newfound allies.

Along with Howling Fjord, Borean Tundra is one of the starting zones of Northrend, with quests for players level 68-72. The towns of both the Horde and Alliance offer many quests and the peoples of this land can use your help as well. Be sure to visit the D.E.H.T.A. Encampment, in central Borean Tundra, Winterfin Retreat along the northwestern shore and Kaskala on the western coast to pick up more quests.

CRYSTALSONG FOREST

Crystalsong Forest lies at the center of Northrend, making it a waypoint for those traversing the continent. The hauntingly beautiful crystalline landscape is home to several types of creatures, some of which are hostile to all travelers. Both the Horde and the Alliance have set up small outposts in the east where travelers can purchase supplies or speak to a flight master.

Far to the northwest is the Great Tree. It alone is untouched by the crystal which gives this area its name. Running through the center of the forest is the Twilight Rivulet, a serene spot for fishing. In the west lies the Violet Stand, outpost of the Kirin Tor. Here you can find transport to the mage city of Dalaran which floats far above the forest.

DALARAN

The mage city of Dalaran once stood on the shores of Lordamere Lake in the Eastern Kingdoms. Now, facing the threat of Malygos and the Blue Dragonflight, the mages of the Kirin Tor have transported the city in its entirety to float above the Crystalsonog Forest in the heart of Northrend.

The city is an oasis of civilization on this continent of conflict. Here you can find trainers for all professions, merchants selling everything from the mundane to the exotic, and even a barbershop should you need to update your look. The Kirin Tor rule the city from the Violet Citadel at the western side of the city while the Violet Hold, their prison, lies in the east.

Though the Kirin Tor allies itself neither with the Horde nor the Alliance it has allowed each a section of the city open only to their members. The Silver Enclave is a haven for members of the Alliance and Sunreaver's Sanctuary provides the same service for the Horde. Within these areas you can find portals to all the major cities of the old world as well as to Shattrath. You can also join various battlegrounds here or take it easy in the tavern.

Every city, no matter how well run has a seedier side. Beneath the clean, well lit city streets lies the Underbelly. Here you find a few merchants which don't quite fit into the Magus Commerce Exchange as well as a less formal tavern, Cantrips and Crows. The Underbelly also boasts the Circle of Wills. Here adventurers can satisfy their honor with the duels not allowed above. This area is also home to goblins involved with the arena circuit and is the best place to come if you are spoiling for a fight.

DRAGONBLIGHT

Located in the south of Northrend, the large area known as Dragonblight contains vast expanses of frozen tundra populated by dangerous indigenous creatures as well as by the incursion of Scourge. Dragons of all flights make this their final resting place and the hard frozen ground is punctuated with the gleaming bones of these majestic creatures rising up through the ice and snow. Its eastern and western borders are marked by Scourge strongholds, Azjol-Nerub and Naxxaramas respectively. In the north, Angrathar, the Wrath Gate, looms, blocking the entrance to the stronghold of Arthas himself, Icecrown Citadel.

At the heart of this land lies Wyrmsrest Temple. Here the remaining Dragonflights have formed an accord and, under the leadership of Alexstrasza the Life-Binder, seek to stop the Blue Dragonflight. Dragonblight is also home to several Dragonshrines, final resting places for powerful dragons. These have recently come under attack from the Scourge who seek to use these remains to their own ends and the Wyrmsrest Accord needs aid to help drive out this menace.

In western Dragonblight lies the entrance to the ancient kingdom of the Nerubians, Azjol-Nerub. Their underground cities once held great knowledge and treasure, and were a shining testament to their civilization. Now, Azjol-Nerub lies in ruins, populated by those Nerubians who have given their allegiance to the Lich King and have become members of the Scourge! In the east, the imposing necropolis Naxxaramas floats above the landscape, casting a shadow over the land. The Scourge are not the only foes to be found in this harsh land. Most notably, the Scarlet Onslaught has moved into the area in force, with troops at Scarlet Point and in greater numbers at New Hearthglen.

The Alliance and Horde forces have set up outposts here in this bleak land and can use your help in their efforts. In addition, the Argent Crusade seeks the aid of any who would align themselves with their cause and the Kalu'ak of Mo'aki Harbor in the south reward those that would help them as well.

GRIZZLY HILLS

The lush green forests of Grizzly Hills may look peaceful upon first glance, but just as the landscape gives shelter to the herds of wild horses and other creatures who make their home here, it also hides those with more insidious motives.

Both the Alliance and Horde have set up camps in Grizzly Hills, each eager to control the resources in this lumber-rich area. Nowhere is this more evident than at the Blue Sky Logging Grounds in the north. Here, both factions battle over the area, seeking the lumber for their own uses. In the south, Venture Bay is ostensibly run by the Venture Co. but the Alliance and Horde battle it out for control of the harbor.

Though the tensions between the Alliance and the Horde are fierce as always, theirs is not the only struggle taking place here. At the center of Grizzly Hills lies Grizzlemaw where the Frostpaw Furbolgs do battle with the Redfangs over control of their sacred areas. The Iron Rune Dwarves are stripping the land, and the Taunka of Camp Oneqwah seek to stop them. The Grizzly Hill Giants also do their part to stop the Iron Rune Dwarves at Thor Modan. Just off the eastern shore lies Bloodmoon Isle, home to Shadowfang Tower and the mysterious Bloodmoon Worgen, and in the northwest lies the former troll stronghold of Drak'Tharon Keep. Only the stoutest adventurers now brave its Scourge-infested halls.

The conflicts in Grizzly Hills provide plenty of paying work for an adventurer, level 73-75, of either the Horde or Alliance. Be sure to visit your faction's camps to get started and do your part in the battle for Grizzly Hills!

HOWLING FJORD

The breathtaking cliffs and green forests of Howling Fjord belie the dangers of the area. Both the Alliance and Horde have sent expeditions here to create a foothold on the continent of Northrend and as always tensions are rife between the two factions. However, these long standing hostilities are but a small part of the challenges adventurers face. New enemies, such as the Vrykul, have given their allegiance to the Lich King and make their home here as they prepare their forces for battle. Their stronghold, Utgarde Keep, lies at the center of Howling Fjord and their forces hold pockets of land throughout the area.

While there are a host of new foes here, there are also new allies to be made. The Kalu'ak make their home in the village of Kamagua on the Isle of Spears, off the western coast of Howling Fjord. These staunch Tuskarr earn their living primarily by fishing and whaling and welcome the aid of both Alliance and Horde members in defending their land from the recent attacks. Howling Fjord is also home to the Taunka. Like their ancestral relations the Tauren, the Taunka are a hardy people who have given their allegiance to the Horde in the ongoing struggle against the forces of the Lich King.

This zone contains a multitude of quests for both Horde and Alliance and along with Borean Tundra, is one of the beginning zones you visit when coming to Northrend. There are several quest hubs for adventurers level 68-72 at both the Alliance and Horde towns and outposts, and some of the denizens of Howling Fjord need your help as well. No matter your faction, visit the Frozen Glade in the northern part of the zone, Scalawag Point, off the southwestern coast, and the village of Kamagua, on the Isle of Spears, to offer your services and pick up some decent gold and equipment along the way!

ICECROWN

The frozen region known as Icecrown is composed mainly of the Icecrown Glacier which has slammed into the continent of Northrend. Unlike the snowy tundra of the Dragonblight or the windswept mountains of the Storm Peaks, Icecrown is not merely cold. The ground is not frozen nor covered by snow—it is solid ice. Nothing grows here. Nothing lives.

At the southern end of the zone lies Icecrown Citadel, stronghold of the Lich King. The citadel surrounds the Frozen Throne from which Arthas commands his legions of undead. Though you have no doubt dealt with the Scourge in your travels through Northrend, you have never seen them in such numbers as exist in Icecrown. They are legion, spreading across the ice, doing the bidding of their monarch without question, without doubt, without rest.

The number of the Scourge are so great that the Alliance and Horde forces in the area are headquartered on great flying battleships lest they be overrun by sheer numbers. Both the Skybreaker, for the Alliance, and Orgrim's Hammer, for the Horde, provide relatively safe bases from which to launch their reconnaissance missions into Icecrown. Both sides have allied with the Knights of the Ebon Blade in an attempt to thwart the Lich King's plans. Though his minions far outnumber the opposing forces, there are those who are not content with servitude to the Lich King and can be turned into allies as well.

Adventurers, level 77-80, who dare these icy wastes find that their skills are much needed by their faction, as well as by members of the Argent Crusade and others. Make use of what allies you find, no matter where you find them.

SHOLAZAR BASIN

The jungle-like environment of Sholazar Basin is an anomaly on the cold continent of Northrend. This rich ecosystem, complete with many varieties of flora and fauna is protected by the titan-erected pillars that protect the basin from the harsh weather of Northrend and from invading Scourge. That safety is now in question though as one of the pillars has fallen in the east and the Scourge are streaming down the Avalanche into Sholazar Basin from bordering Icecrown, threatening to push further into the area.

The Scourge are not the only dangers here. The jungles teem with aggressive wildlife and to the north lies the Savage Thicket, home to the terrifying Primordial Drakes. Hemet Nesingwary has established a camp in the west as there is plenty of good hunting to be had. The gorlocs, an arctic cousin to the more familiar murlocs, live in the basin as well, their separate tribes forming an alliance known as the Oracles and they seek to protect their interests in the area. The volvars, known as the Frenzyheart Tribe, have made Sholazar Basin their home after having been driven out of their former homeland by the Scourge. Their aggressive nature often causes clashes with the gorlocs in the area.

Sholazar Basin offers plenty of paying work for adventurers level 75-78. Visit Nesingwary's Camp or Lakeside Landing to get started. The Oracles can use your assistance as well in Rainspeaker Canopy and at their other settlements, as can the Frenzyheart Tribe. Keep in mind that the tensions are such between the Frenzyheart Tribe and the Oracles that once you begin offering your services to one side, the other wants nothing to do with you.

THE STORM PEAKS

The frozen, unforgiving landscape of the Storm Peaks is marked by the towering mountains that give this area its name. Both the Alliance and the Horde have established modest footholds in the area as have the goblins—always on the lookout for profit.

Though the land is harsh, this mountainous region is somewhat densely populated. In the northeast lies Camp Tunka'lo, home to a hardy tribe of Taunka who have allied themselves with the Horde. Directly south of them lies Dun Niffelem, home to the Sons of Hodir. These giants don't trust strangers easily but are steadfast allies once you earn their respect. Brunnhildar Village, home to a fierce race of female warriors, can be found in the southern part of the zone. Boulderclag's Refuge, in the northwest, houses stout Earthen warriors who are working to thwart the Iron Rune Dwarves who have pushed into their land. In the southwest, the race of frost dwarves known as the Frostborn have allied themselves with the Alliance and can be found at Frosthold.

In the north, the stunning Terrace of the Makers rises up out of the mountainsides, a testament to the skill of the ancient race who built it. Ulduar in the far north is another example of their architecture and holds the ominous Halls of Lightning and Halls of Stone.

Players level 76-80 do not lack for things to do here. A good place to start is at the Goblin camp, K3, near the southern edge of the zone. The K3 Goblins as well as members of your faction have work for you, but not all areas are friendly to you when you first enter the zone. You must prove yourself to some of the factions here before they ask you for your aid.

ZUL'DRAK

The northeastern region of Northrend known as Zul'Drak is home to the Drakkari Ice Trolls. From their capital of Gundrak they have fiercely ruled the region for generations and can be found throughout the area, making trouble for unwary adventurers. The Scourge have set up several necropoli from which they are launching attacks against the Drakkari on several fronts. The Drakkari have turned on their own gods in a desperate attempt to beat back the Lich King's forces and have become even more bloodthirsty and less rational than usual.

In large part due to the Scourge activity, the Argent Crusade has moved into the region in force, claiming several outposts for themselves and battling both the battle hardened Drakkari and the Scourge. The Knights of the Ebon Blade have also set up camp at Ebon Watch and follow a similar agenda to the Argent Crusade in this area.

Not all battles are over territory; some take place for glory alone! At the center of Zul'drak stands the Amphitheatre of Anguish. Even now, surrounded by hostile Drakkari and threatened by the Scourge, the contests continue. Speak with Gurgthock the Fight Promoter in the Arena to pit your battle skills against a string of champions.

Players level 74-77 can find many challenges here. Though neither the Alliance or Horde have outposts in the zone, the Argent Crusade and The Knights of the Ebon Watch welcome the aid of adventurers in battling the invading Scourge.

WORLD DUNGEONS

UTGARDE KEEP

DUNGEON INFORMATION

Location:	Howling Fjord
Faction:	Both
Suggested Levels:	68-72 (group of five)
Primary Enemies:	Humanoids
Damage Types:	Fire, Shadow, Nature, Frost
Time to Complete:	45 Minutes

In service to the Lich King, elite Vrykul known as Dragonflayers have flocked to Utgarde Keep, preparing for an all out assault on Howling Fjord. If allowed to complete their preparations, the Dragonlayer army will storm onwards, leaving nothing but blood and flames in its wake, destroying the region and endangering all of Northrend. You must strike now, while they are still building their army within the keep. Decimate their forces and take down their leaders to eliminate this threat to both Alliance and Horde alike.

WHO TO BRING

For many players, Utgarde Keep is the first dungeon they face in Northrend. A well balanced group offers the most advantages here, but you can certainly be flexible with your group makeup. As with most dungeons, you need a tank, a dedicated healer, and some damage dealers. Also, make sure you have a good handle on crowd control. Any of the tanking classes should be able to handle the minions here fairly easily as long as they get healed, and the boss fights, while challenging, can be handled by any good tank as well. In this dungeon, none of the tanking classes has a distinct advantage over the others.

Next to a tank, quality healing is the most important element of a group venturing into the keep. While this is generally a good rule for any encounter, it is especially true here where some of the creatures you face have strong attacks that cause a great deal of damage in a short amount of time. For these encounters, having a backup healer makes things a bit easier as well.

No matter how good your tank and healer are, without some firepower to take the enemies down, they are just delaying the inevitable. There are several groups of foes that contain four enemies, so some form of crowd control is vital. Classes that can provide crowd control, whether it is the form of a trap, Sap, Polymorph or anything else, and can dish out the damage are most desirable. Because the majority of the foes here are humanoid, a rogue's Sap is very reliable. If you are short on crowd control, but have an extra healer, have a priest use Mind Control on tougher pulls to even out the odds a bit.

GETTING TO UTGARDE KEEP

Utgarde Keep is situated near the center of Howling Fjord. Alliance characters can reach it by taking the road south out of Fort Wildervar or north from Valgarde. Horde characters can reach the Keep by traveling west from Vengeance Landing, going up the lift then following the road, or by traveling north from New Agamand. Both factions should watch out for the Vrykul encampments as they near the keep.

DISARMAMENT

Quest Level	68 to obtain
Quest Giver	Dark Ranger Marrah
Goal	Enter Utgarde Keep and steal five Vrykul Weapons.
Experience Gained	40,200
Rewards	Necklace of Calm Skies, Hundred Tooth Necklace, Amulet of Constrained Power, Tiled-Stone Pendant

Dark Ranger Marrah has seen how easily the Vrykul weapons cut through her companions. Enter Utgarde Keep and collect five of them and deliver them to High Executor Anselm so that perhaps he can learn their secrets.

Before ascending the stairs, make sure your party is ready for battle. Take care of any summoning, buffing, or other preparations now. At the top of the stairs, past Dark Ranger Marrah, lies the Furnace of Hate. Before you can make your way into its fiery center you must take out the two Dragonlayer Ironhelms standing guard at the top of the stairs. Ironhelms are fond of using Ringing Slap to interrupt any casting, so make sure they stay far away from your healers. Though your group should be able to handle these two with little difficulty, use this first battle to practice your tactics. Set up an attack order and assign raid icons to each foe. This way everyone knows which Dragonlayer to attack first, and which needs to be crowd controlled. Which symbols you use is unimportant, as long as you stay consistent throughout the dungeon run. Make sure everyone understands his or her responsibilities, especially if your party offers more than one method of crowd control. There is no sense in the mage polymorphing a target the rogue is getting ready to sap for instance. Discussing everyone's role beforehand helps you avoid unnecessary deaths as you are just making your way into the Keep.

Once the two guards have been handled, you are ready to take on the Metalworkers and Weaponsmiths that you can see in the hallway here. The two alcoves, one to the left and one to the right contain two Metalworkers at all times and one of the two Weaponsmiths wandering the hallway join them intermittently. Set your group near the top of the stairs, making sure no one goes down the stairs and gets out of Line of Sight, and get ready to pull the two Metalworkers out of the left alcove. Wait until the Weaponsmith has walked away, being careful that the other Weaponsmith is not walking too close, and pull the Metalworkers back to your position. If a rogue is providing your main means of crowd control, you have to Sap one of them before pulling of course, but otherwise, use your crowd control on the second foe once it has pulled back near your party. This keeps it out of the way of the wandering Weaponsmith. Metalworkers can Sunder your armor as well as use Heated Weapon, which causes fire damage, so make sure your healers are on their toes. Repeat this tactic with the Metalworkers in the right alcove as well. Once these have been taken care of, you can pull the two Weaponsmiths separately as they patrol. These guys like to give you a solid knock with Concussion Blow, so be ready to deal with the short stun. When the hallway is clear, move to the far end to enter the Furnace of Hate.

The Furnace holds three forges with a group of two Dragonlayer Metalworkers or Weaponsmiths and one Dragonlayer Forge Master at each. If you have more than one person on crowd control, be sure to take two of these three out of action and concentrate on them one at a time. The Forge Master casts Burning Brand, which increases the fire damage you take, so you don't want him in play at the same time as the Metalworkers with their Heated Weapon if at all possible. You must take out two groups of these to proceed past the Furnace of Hate. Taking down the third and last group isn't necessary, but it is good experience.

THE FIRE IS NOT YOUR FRIEND

The Furnace is separated by large swathes of red hot flames. Stay clear of the fire to avoid taking a good sized chunk of unnecessary damage. There is plenty of room to maneuver in here without getting singed. As you clear each group, a portion of the fire dies out, allowing you to continue.

DRAGONFLAYER PENS

Once you have passed the Furnace of Hate, you reach the Dragonlayer Pens. Like the name suggests, this is where the Dragonlayers keep their Enslaved Proto-Drakes. Be cautious as you enter this room. Directly to the left of the entrance is a lone Enslaved Proto-Drake. While you can skip this fight if you are very careful, the safest thing is to just take this monster out first. These large drakes have a few nasty attacks, including Flame Breath and Knock Away, which can knock the tank back. Have your tank turn the monster toward the wall and away from the rest of the party to minimize the damage of Flame Breath, as well as prevent him from being knocked into another group. Healers should be ready to deal with this damage, as well as the damage over time that the monster's Rend inflicts.

After taking on the lone Proto-Drake, you are ready to clear out the rest of the room. There are three pulls consisting of one Enslaved Proto-Drake and one Proto-Drake Handler each. They are spaced far enough apart so that you can safely pull them to you and create effective crowd control. Control the Handler while focusing your fire on the Enslaved Proto-Drake. Make sure you remember to turn it so that its Fire Breath doesn't hit the whole party. Once the Drake is down, take out the Handler. The Proto-Drake Handlers deal out decent damage, and they can perform Debilitating Strike, which reduces the melee damage done by 75%. Be mindful that if your tank is depending mostly on damage to hold aggro, this debuff can seriously degrade the tank's threat and the rest of the party should manage their damage output accordingly. Once these three groups have been taken care of you are ready to move on to the last group in the room which consists of two Handlers and one Proto-Drake. While having two Handlers can make this a bit more difficult, the same strategy applies. Crowd control at least one of the Handlers, two if you are able to, and take out the Proto-Drake. If you need to take on more than one at a time, make sure everyone is focusing on the same target. A prolonged fight here can be quite dangerous.

Waste Not Want Not

Enslaved Proto-Drakes are skinnable, so be sure to grab the extra Borean Leather off of them if you have a skinner in your party.

REAVERS' HALL

When you move your party inside the hall you see a grand table with four Dragonlayers, two on the left and two on the right. These can be any combination of Runecasters, Strategists, and Ironhelms. Prince Keleseth, the first boss, is pacing the floor at the back of the hall. Unless you get too close, he won't aggro you until you have taken out the last of the four Dragonlayers. Crowd control as many of the four as you are able, and concentrate on taking them down as quickly as possible. While all forms of crowd control are helpful here, having a mage to polymorph the final Dragonlayer is extremely helpful. If you can keep this last foe out of commission, you can heal up, regenerate mana, and get ready to face Prince Keleseth. Once you are ready, take on the fourth and last Dragonlayer. As soon as he goes down, Keleseth joins the fight.

Utgarde Keep

Directly past the Dragonlayer Pens are a group of three Dragonlayers which can include any combination of an Ironhelm, Runecaster, and a Strategist. Crowd control the Strategist, and the Ironhelm if possible, and concentrate on the Runecaster. Interrupt his spellcasting as much as possible, and if you have a mage in your party, use Spellsteal when the Runecaster casts Njord's Rune of Protection to remove this advantage from your foe and take it for yourself. Once the Runecaster lies dead at your feet, take on the Strategist. The Strategist can Blind and Hurls Daggers at targets that don't have aggro. Make sure the healers are ready to take care of this sometimes unexpected damage, as well as from the Strategist's Ticking Bomb. Without his friends, the Ironhelm poses little challenge. Watch out for his Ringing Slap and wear him down. Once you have dealt with these three, you are ready to face the first boss.

PRINCE KELESETH

The Prince can be challenging, but is quite manageable as long as your group stays on their toes and communicates well. Any items, potions, or spells that mitigate shadow damage are very helpful here. His main form of offense is a Shadow Bolt which deals quite a bit of damage. Make sure your tank has gained a good amount of threat before showering the prince with DPS. A few minutes after you engage him, Keleseth summons a group of Vrykul Skeletons. They approach through a doorway to the right of where you entered the hall. Give the tank a chance to get their attention. They don't do a great deal of damage, but enough so that you don't want them beating their bony fists against less heavily armored members of your party. These foes can cast Decrepify which lowers your Strength by 100 and your Movement speed by 30%—a significant debuff! Once the tank has gathered them up, use whatever area of effect damage you have available to eliminate them. They aren't particularly hardy creatures and it doesn't take much to do the job. Of course, being undead, they don't stay down for long and you have to take them out more than once during the fight.

Though this fight is pretty straightforward, Keleseth does have another trick up his voluminous sleeves—Frost Tomb. Every so often, he casts Frost Tomb on a random party member. This freezes a player in place, and they can't act until the Frost Tomb has been shattered. The tombs don't have a lot of health, so a few good shots from a DPS class take care of it. When someone is Frost Tomed, everyone, with the exception of the tank, should focus on breaking it as quickly as possible. This is especially true if the tank or the healer finds themselves frozen. Most deaths that occur during this encounter take place because the healer is trapped in a Frost Tomb and Keleseth wreaks havoc on the tank and the rest of the party before the healer is freed. Stay sharp and take care of the Frost Tombs immediately and the fight goes pretty smoothly.

Once you have defeated Prince Keleseth, you can move out of the hall and into the next hallway. Here you encounter a Dragonlayer Overseer surrounded by a group of Tunneling Ghouls. Have your tank focus on the Overseer, who is elite, while also using area of effect abilities to keep the attention of the non-elite Tunneling Ghouls. Have your DPS classes take down the Ghouls before tackling the much tougher Overseer. Like the Vrykul Skeletons you just faced, the Tunneling Ghouls can cast Decrepify, making it a bit easier for them to get their moldering claws on you. The Overseer is fond of using Battle Shout and Demoralizing Shout, as well as Charging, so make sure your tank keeps up the threat on this bruiser. You face two groups like this, as well as a few Tunneling Ghouls on their own as you make your way down the passage. Here you also find some of the Keep's more disturbing inhabitants, Frenzied Geists. These unnatural creatures are small, but they need to be taken out quickly. They possess the ability to Fixate on a target, focusing their attacks on this individual, ignoring regular rules of threat. Focus your fire on one at a time to eliminate these patrols before they do serious damage.

NJORN STAIR

Another Overseer patrols down the stairs. As you make your way up the stairs, you face several groups of Dragonlayers on each landing. They are spaced far enough apart that you can take on only one group at a time, as long as you are careful. Each group can contain combinations of Dragonlayer Strategists, Ironhelms, Runecasters and their Savage Worgs. Handle these foes just like you did earlier in the keep. Keep an eye out for the Strategists' dirty tricks like Blind and Ticking Bomb, while interrupting the Runecasters' spells and mitigating the Ironhelms' damage as much as possible. Keep your group together and move cautiously up the stairs. With groups of Dragonlayers around almost every corner, "exploring" without the group can be easily fatal. Watch out for the Dragonlayer and Savage Worg patrolling down the stairs so you don't get more on one pull than you intend.

The Nexus

Azjol-Nerub

Drak'Tharon Keep

NIDVAR STAIR

Once you reach the Nidvar Stair, you must make your way past two separate groups of two Tunneling Ghouls and three Frenzied Geists. Focus your fire and take down each target in turn. Because these creatures are undead, having a Priest shackle one of them is a great way to keep it out of the fight until you are ready for it. Once you have eliminated these two groups, you are ready to face the second boss encounter.

DALRONN THE CONTROLLER AND SKARVALD THE CONSTRUCTOR

This time you face not one, but two, bosses working to stop your progress through the keep. Dalronn the Controller is a powerful caster. He uses Shadow Bolts offensively and also casts Debilitate which decreases the magical and physical damage you do, making the fight that much harder. Skarvald the Constructor uses his massive bulk to hit hard with Stone Strike. He also Charges players who do not have aggro, which can be quite troublesome for casters. Both of these enemies attack at once and you must deal with them both before the fight is over. Have your tank occupy Skarvald, while your DPS focuses on taking out Dalronn. Any spells or potions that mitigate Shadow damage are extremely helpful here.

Once the Controller is down, you may think that the fight is soon over, but Dalronn doesn't let a little thing like death put him out of commission! He continues to cast on you for as long as Skarvald is also alive and you can't hurt him while he is dead. The same is true of Skarvald should you decide to kill him first. Once Dalronn dies, switch your DPS to Skarvald and burn him down as quickly as possible. It is imperative that your healer is on his or her toes as your party can take a great deal of damage during this time. Once both bosses have been killed, their spirits dissipate and the battle is yours!

Head up the stairs where you find a Dragonlayer Bonecrusher, a Spiritualist, and a Savage Worg. Take out the non-elite Worg first to quickly eliminate one source of damage. If your group is using crowd control, keep the Spiritualist out of the combat to avoid her Healing Wave while you destroy the Bonecrusher. Watch out for his Head Crack which reduces your Stamina. At the top of the stairs you face a group of four Dragonlayers. Follow the same strategy to make your way through this obstacle to reach the top of the keep.

TYR'S TERRACE

As you step out onto the Terrace, you are faced with a group of four Dragonlayers consisting of a Bonecrusher, Heartsplitter and two Savage Worgs. Eliminate the non-elite Savage Worgs quickly to easily lower the damage output of your foes, then take out the Heartsplitter. With his heavier armor, it is best to keep the Bonecrusher under crowd control until you are ready for him. As you round the corner after this group of mobs, you encounter a Proto-Drake Rider and his Enslaved Proto-Drake. Although you can see more of these flying around the keep, this one is the only Rider that comes down to face you and he stays on his Drake during the battle. Watch out for his Piercing Jab which reduces your armor, as well as the Flame Breath spewed out in a frontal cone by the Proto-Drake. Keep any non-melee classes at range to avoid it.

Directly past the Proto-Drake Rider you step down a few stairs to reach another group of Dragonlayers and their Savage Worgs. This group is similar to the one you faced when entering Tyr's Terrace and should be handled in the same way. Once you have eliminated this final obstacle, you are ready to face the final boss.

INGVAR THE PLUNDERER

This final and most difficult encounter requires your party to be on its toes at all times. Make your way down the walkway towards him, but stop before entering the circular area to prepare for the battle. Before engaging him, make sure everyone has consumables at the ready, and that all buffs are in place. Any items, potions, or spells that can mitigate Shadow damage are very useful here as well.

Once you are ready, have your tank move into position and keep non-melee classes at range. Ingvar deals a great deal of melee damage so you must be prepared to keep the tank up from the start. Keep Ingvar close to the center of the circle, making sure everyone stays in line of sight of the healers. The pillars surrounding the area can sometimes make this difficult so each party member needs to make sure they are positioned correctly to receive heals.

In addition to his strong melee attack, Ingvar also has Smash. This move hits everyone in a cone in front of him with a huge amount of Physical damage, and causes almost certain death. When Ingvar starts to do this move he stands still. Everyone, including the tank, needs to get behind him to avoid this potentially battle-ending blow. The Plunderer also does Staggering Roar, a bellowing shout that deals more Physical damage and interrupts any casting. Make sure nobody is casting when he starts to shout, as this will prevent them from casting for 6 seconds.

Once you wear him down, the battle is not yet over. For his dark service, Ingvar is resurrected by Annhyldre the Caller and now faces you as an undead monstrosity! His melee attacks still do Physical damage, but all of his abilities now do Shadow damage, so any potions or abilities that mitigate Shadow damage are really helpful here. His Smash has been replaced by Dark Smash. This move is just as dangerous, and should be avoided by getting behind him when he starts to cast it. The Plunderer's Staggering Roar has been replaced with Dreadful

Roar, which works the same way, but now deals Shadow damage and silences for even longer. Just like before, make sure no one is casting when he starts to shout. Also, every cast of Dreadful Roar places a stacking debuff on the party that increases Shadow Damage taken by 5%.

He also casts Woe Strike. When placed on a target, this curse does damage to the target and causes anyone directly healing someone who has it to take damage. This debuff can be removed with abilities that remove curses, but if that is not possible then healers must be very observant during this fight. Keep HoT's up as much as possible and only direct heal when absolutely necessary while the curse is up.

Finally, Ingvar has an ability called Shadow Axe. The Plunderer flings his weapon at a random party member, where it will spin around violently at that location and damage all nearby party members. All players, including the tank, must move away from the spinning axe as quickly as possible to prevent them from taking a heavy amount of Shadow damage. Be mindful of all of your surroundings, and burn him down quickly! For once Dreadful Roar stacks high enough, no amount of healing will keep players alive through The Plunderer's Shadow damage abilities. Once Ingvar falls a second time, you have vanquished Utgarde Keep!

The Nexus

DUNGEON INFORMATION

Location:	Borean Tundra
Faction:	Both
Suggested Levels:	70-73 (group of five)
Primary Enemies:	Humanoid, Elemental, Dragonkin
Damage Types:	Frost, Arcane, Fire, Nature
Time to Complete:	1 Hour

Deep within the reaches of the frozen wastes of Coldarra, the Nexus stands, an icy stronghold of Malygos' power over this land. Inside his minions twist and shape the Arcane Energies he seeks to control, warping the land's creatures and tearing rifts in the very fabric of the universe. Few are willing to risk these halls where Malygos's will reigns supreme. For those brave few, honor and glory await.

One of the main advantages your group can have is a high DPS output. Several of the fights in The Nexus get harder the longer they go on, and being able to shut down the enemy quickly gives you a distinct advantage.

GETTING TO THE NEXUS

The Nexus is located in the Borean Tundra, in the heart of the northwestern section known as Coldarra. To reach The Nexus, Horde characters should travel north from Warsong Hold and Alliance characters can journey northwest from Valiance Keep, both following the road to reach Amber Ledge. Once there, speak to Surristrasz to get the flight path to the Transitus Shield. From there, travel west out of the Transitus Shield, following the path into the ravine where it curves north and leads down a ramp into The Nexus.

WHO TO BRING

The Nexus offers the opportunity to face many different types of foes and a well balanced group is best here, with opportunities for any class to be useful. A strong tank is desirable, especially one skilled in holding agro from multiple mobs. You also need a dedicated healer, as some of the foes you face here can really deal out the damage. Beyond those two key elements, you can be pretty flexible in recruiting your group. It helps a great deal to have some form of crowd control, and one of the boss fights is much easier if you have a mage to Polymorph, although it can be handled without that if necessary.

Goal	Enter the Nexus and recover Berinond's Research.
Experience Gained	25,150
Rewards:	Shoulders of the Northern Lights, Cured Mammoth Hide Mantle, Tundra Tracker's Shoulderguards, Tundra Pauldrons

A group of Alliance or Horde (depending on your alignment) adventurers have stolen a book named Berinond's Research from Librarian Serrah. Venture into the Nexus and retrieve it from the Hall of Stasis.

AXIS OF ALIGNMENT

Upon entering the Nexus, you find yourself in the Axis of Alignment. From here there are three paths that lead you further into the dungeon—one to the left, right, and straight ahead. Two Azure Magus and one Azure Warler patrol these paths and walk into the Axis of Alignment as well. Keep your group near the entrance while you make your battle preparations to avoid being surprised by one or both of these foes.

When you are ready, wait for the patrolling enemy to walk in from the right and pull it close to the entrance. If it is an Azure Warler, be ready to deal with his powerful blows, for he is a strong melee fighter. If it is an Azure Magus, be wary of their nasty Frostbolt, as well as their Arcane Shock. Any spells, items, or abilities which can mitigate these types of damage are helpful when facing them. Keep a close eye on their casting bar and interrupt their spells as much as possible to avoid taking unnecessary damage. Once the enemy on the right is down, wait for the enemy on the left to come up the ramp. Fight them near the entrance as well.

MAKE YOUR OWN WAY

The Nexus is laid out in such a way that you can tackle the three bosses in any order you want, always leaving Keristasza for last. If you like to explore, feel free to start with another path out of the Axis of Alignment to tackle the content in a different order.

Follow the leftmost ramp and be ready for a patrol consisting of a Mage Hunter Ascendant and two Mage Slayers to meet you on this ramp. Mage Hunter Ascendants are powerful foes. There are three types of Mage Hunter Ascendants, not two. There are three types of Mage Hunter Ascendant: Fire, Frost, and Arcane. Fire has abilities like Fireball, Immolation Trap, and Rain of Fire. Frost has abilities like Freezing Trap, Cone of Cold, and Frostbolt. Arcane has an Arcane Trap, Polymorph, and Arcane Explosion. It's impossible to tell which Mage Hunter Ascendant is which before fighting them, so be ready for anything before engaging. All types of Ascendants also cast Aura of Arcane Haste. This hits all of their allies and gives them a 15% increase to Spell Casting Speed, as well as an increase to their damage output, making the Ascendant even more dangerous when part of a group. Whenever you face one, be ready to interrupt the Ascendant's spells when possible, and make sure your healers are paying close attention. The Mage Hunter Ascendants can put out a great deal of damage fairly quickly. If circumstances permit, crowd control the Ascendant while tackling the accompanying Mage Slayers.

These demon dogs are much more dangerous than they look. They have a decent attack but their real threat lies in their abilities Draw Magic and Spell Lock. Draw Magic reduces damage and healing by 225 per stack, making it difficult to take down your enemies and keep your allies on their feet. Spell Lock is a targeted Silence and the Mage Slayers keep this on you as much as possible, making you rely heavily on physical damage to take them out. Once you have eliminated this patrol, you are ready to continue down the ramp.

HALL OF STASIS

The ramp leads to a larger corridor containing several groups of enemies, each entombed in their own icy prison. Even though each foe is in its own block of ice, some of them are still grouped, so be cautious. These frozen foes contain Alliance/Horde Rangers, Alliance/Horde Berserkers, Alliance/Horde Clerics, and an Alliance/Horde Commander. You face the opposite faction of your own.

The first pull to the right of the doorway comes singly, most of the rest come in groups of two or three. It is important to make good use of any crowd control you have here. In any group, always take out the Clerics first. They can cast Flash Freeze, prolonging the fight, Power Word: Shield, to mitigate the damage you are dishing out to them, and Shadow Word: Death, an instant cast high damage blast. Once they are out of the fight, concentrate on any Rangers you face. These enemies can cast Incendiary Shot and favor Rapid Shot, which can hit anyone in your party.

When facing one of these groups, crowd control the Berserkers whenever possible because they are swift killing machines. They can cast both Bloodlust and Frenzy, both of which increase their attack speed, leaving you very little breathing room in a fight. They also have War Stomp, a knockback ability, which can be very annoying to casters in particular, so keep your distance from these foes unless you are dealing melee damage.

Toward the far end of the corridor you encounter the Commander. He uses Battle Shout to embolden his allies and likes to Charge party members, interrupting their casting. Perhaps his most dangerous move is Whirlwind. This high damage move hits anyone around him and can be devastating to anyone at low health.

Make sure you are pulling these last few frozen groups toward you, keeping clear of the end of the corridor where the ramp leads up. Another group consisting of a Mage Hunter Ascendant and two Mage Slayers patrols down this ramp, and you don't want to tangle with them until you have cleared all of the frozen Alliance foes. Once you have cleared the way, and are ready for the next fight, wait at the end of the corridor for this patrol to come to you and take them out like you did the first group you faced. When you are finished you are ready to head up the ramp into the Librarium.

THE LIBRARIUM

As you enter the Librarium, you see a group of three containing a Steward, Mage Hunter Initiate, and Mage Hunter Ascendant directly in front of you. By now you are familiar with the tricks of the Mage Hunter Ascendant, but the Steward and Mage Hunter Initiate are formidable opponents as well. If possible, use your crowd control on the Mage Hunter Ascendant and focus your attacks on the Initiate first. These foes can cast Renew, Magic Burn, and Drain Mana. Magic Burn is a single target spell similar to Immolation, but with Arcane damage. They don't have a lot of hit points though and can be taken out fairly quickly. Next, focus on the Steward. His use of Arcane Torrent, which functions as an area of effect silence, is very annoying, especially to any casters in your group. Make sure you keep everyone's health topped off while fighting him so that you aren't in dire need of a heal while silenced.

There is another group further down the hall, but you can ignore them as long as you are careful and prepare to pull the group of four from the room to the right. This group is a random assortment of Mage Hunter Ascendants, Mage Hunter Initiates, and Stewards. Crowd control as many of these foes as you can, being careful not to go too far into the room. You don't want Telestra to notice you just yet. Using line of sight, pull this group around the doorway back out to you in the hall, far away from other groups. They pose the same challenges you faced before, with the additional enemy making things a little more difficult. Once you have cleared them out of the way, you are ready to face the Grand Magus Telestra.

GRAND MAGUS TELESTRA

Telestra is a powerful mage who isn't going to be beaten without putting up a spectacular fight. Have your tank run in to engage her first, and move the rest of your party into her chamber. Do as much damage as you can to her during this first phase. She likes to Ice Nova you and casts Fire Bombs, but her most dangerous tactic during this phase of the fight is to fling the entire party around the room. Make sure you have instant damage spells and heals at your fingertips as these are the only thing you can cast during this.

At approximately 50% health she splits into three aspects: Frost, Fire, and Arcane. Polymorph or trap the Arcane aspect to avoid Time Stop and Critter. Time Stop holds you in place, and you can't perform any actions, while Critter does just what you would expect and you find yourself bounding around as a little harmless critter. Make sure any group member with Dispel is ready to return anyone who finds themselves in this predicament back to their original form so they can quickly get back to the fight.

As long as the Arcane aspect is under control, focus on taking down the Frost aspect first. Her Ice Barbs and Blizzard can be quite damaging so you want her out of the picture. Once her icy side is down, take on the Fire aspect. She can use Fire Blast and Scorch to damage you but if you concentrate on her she falls quickly. This leaves you with the Arcane aspect. With your entire group focusing on this aspect, Telestra is soon forced back into her original form.

Once she resumes this form, the fight continues much like it did before she split. She can again fling you about the room, so be ready with instant cast spells. She won't have you flying around the entire time, so be ready to burn her down when your feet once again hit the floor. Defeat the Grand Magus and you have gone a long way toward lessening the power of the Nexus itself.

When you are finished with Telestra, head straight out of her chamber into the hallway across from it. Stay to the left and watch for a wandering patrol of two Mage Slayers and a Mage Hunter Ascendant. Once it walks back down the hallway leading forward, take on the group to the left of the Steward, Mage Hunter Initiate, and Mage Hunter Ascendant. When they are clear, wait for the patrol to come back up the hallway and clear them out. If you need a break between these groups to heal up, retreat to the safety of Telestra's chamber. Once you have defeated both groups, follow the hallway forward into The Rift.

THE RIFT

Continue into The Rift until you see a ramp leading up. At the top of this ramp is a group of four made up of Azure Scale-Binders and Azure Enforcers. These dragonkin are powerful denizens of the Nexus and must be handled with care. The Azure Scale-Binders should always be either crowd controlled, or taken out first, to prevent them from healing themselves and their allies. Their Arcane Blast can also be a dangerous source of damage if you are already injured. The Enforcers are the muscle of the Azure dragonkin. In addition to their strong melee attack, their Cleave and Mortal Strike make them formidable foes in close combat. It is best to handle these one at a time, but if this isn't an option, make sure your tank has a good amount of threat on them because a few of their hits on a lightly armored class can do devastating damage.

The next group of three you see also includes Azure Enforcers and Azure Scale-Binders. Although they are busy dealing with the Chaotic Rift, you pose a much greater threat and they won't hesitate to attack you if you come in range. Before going all the way up the ramp, have one of your ranged damage dealers target the Chaotic Rift and blow it up. It doesn't take much to destroy these, but left alone they spawn numerous non-elite Crazy Mana-Wraiths, which cause unneeded damage in battle. Once the Rift is taken care of, deal with this group of Azure dragonkin much like you handled the group before.

Once this ramp is clear, head down the ramp on the side where you see a Chaotic Rift. Destroy the Rift as before, eliminating the Crazy Mana-Wraiths as well. They are low in health and can be taken out with targeted attacks or with area of effect abilities fairly easily.

Head to the left around the bottom of the ramp to see a Crazy Mana-Surge surrounded by five Crazy Mana-Wraiths. Have your tank focus on the Mana-Surge while the rest of your group quickly takes out the Wraiths before turning their attention back to the Crazy Mana-Surge. These Surges can cast a Mana Burn and an Arcane Nova, hitting anyone nearby. When they die they grant the effect Loose Mana which regenerates mana to anyone in range. Stay within the effect to refill your mana reserves, then take down the group of two Crazy Mana-Surges and three Crazy Mana-Wraiths on the right. Once this group has been cleared, head up the ramp to the right.

Take out the Chaotic Rift from range, being careful not to get too close to agro the three Crazy Mana-Surges and Crazy Mana-Wraiths here. Once the Rift is destroyed, you are ready to take on the Surges. Make sure you are focusing on one target at a time in order to take them down as quickly as possible. If you have reliable area of effect damage in your party, it is a good idea to use it on the Crazy Mana-Wraiths so that their Arcane Missiles don't chew you up while you are fighting the Crazy Mana-Surges. Once you have cleared this landing, make sure you are ready to face Anomalus.

ANOMALUS

Anomalous is an elemental who manipulates the arcane energies in this place to attack any who dare to enter his domain. Though he does mainly melee damage, he also casts Spark which hurls an Arcane bolt at an enemy. Any items or spells that help mitigate Arcane damage are very useful in this fight. Send your tank in to draw Anomalous' attention while everyone moves up onto his platform. At first, this battle is pretty standard: damage Anomalous as much as possible while making sure everyone's health is kept up.

Soon after the battle starts, Anomalous creates a chaotic Rift, shouting, "Reality...unwoven." As soon as the Rift appears, Anomalous begins to Charge Rifts, channeling his arcane energy into it and increasing its attack range and the rate at which it expels Crazy Mana-Wraiths. He also casts Rift Shield which makes him invulnerable while the Chaotic Rift is in place. However, he is concentrating on the rifts and won't attack while you take them down. As soon as a Rift appears, focus all of your energy into destroying it. Make sure the tank is ready to pick Anomalous back up as he once again becomes vulnerable once the Rift goes down.

You need to repeat these tactics several times throughout the fight. As the battle wages on, Anomalous creates Chaotic Rifts more frequently, and does not stop attacking or become invulnerable as they pop up. Use area of effect damage to take out any Chaotic Wraiths that make it through the Rifts before you destroy them. Once you defeat Anomalous any remaining Rifts or Wraiths disappear.

POSTPONING THE INEVITABLE

If you have the quest, Postponing the Inevitable, remember to use the Interdimensional Refabricator here before moving on.

Once you have recovered from your battle with Anomalous, go back down the ramp you came up and drop down to your left where there are no enemies. Once you drop down you see a Crazy Mana-Surge surrounded by Crazy Mana-Wraiths. Take them down as you did the similar groups before to move on.

In front of the large doorway leading to the Singing Grove there is a Chaotic Rift flanked by two Azure Enforcers with an Azure Scale-Binder standing behind them. Take out the Rift from afar and deal with the dragonkin. All three come as one group even though the Scale-Binder sometimes looks as if she were too far away.

THE SINGING GROVE

Follow the left path into the Singing Grove, clearing any of the small Crystalline Frayers you come across. These minute flowers can Ensnare you, but they are non-elite and pose no serious threat. Once you destroy them, they hibernate in a Seed Pod and give off an Aura of Regeneration. This Aura regenerates your health and mana while you are in range, but be careful as the Frayers regenerate their own health as well. Once they emerge from the Seed Pods they will attack you again. Keep moving forward at all times to avoid continually fighting the same groups of Crystalline Frayers.

As you follow the left path you also encounter patrols of Crystalline Keepers and Crystalline Tenders. The Tenders have Tranquility and can cast Toughen Bark, which increases their armor and magic resists. The Keepers cast a dispellable buff on themselves called Crystal Bark which deals Arcane damage to all attackers and has a chance to stun them. Keepers also have Crystal Strike, which deals Arcane damage. Always take down the Tenders first to prevent them from healing.

Once the way is clear, head to the left and take on the Crystalline Protector. This large mutated ancient uses Thunderclap to cause Nature damage and reduce the Attack Speed and Movement of its foes. It can also use Crystal Chains to lock you in place for six seconds. Unless you are the tank, try to move behind the Crystalline Protector to avoid its Shard Spray. This deals Arcane damage in a cone in front of the Protector, damaging anyone in its path.

Continue left, hugging the right wall, making your way through the patrol of Crystalline Keepers and Tenders as you did before. Once they are eliminated, destroy the Crystalline Protector here as well. There are several Crystalline Frayers that stand in your way as well. Remember to keep moving so that they don't respawn on top of you. Follow the path around to the right and clear your way through another Crystalline Protector and yet more Frayers, as well as another patrol of Crystalline Tenders and Crystalline Keepers to reach the next boss.

ORMOROK THE TREE-SHAPER

Ormorok is an easily managed boss as long as everyone pays close attention to the battle. Once you are ready to face him, head up the small ramp into his area. If you aren't a melee fighter, try to stay at range from him to avoid his Trample. Ormorok raises his mighty foot and brings his considerable bulk down on a player, causing a great deal of damage.

The Tree Shaper can also cast Spell Reflection, causing magical spells to be reflected back at the caster and it has four charges. This makes it very important, especially for high damage casters, to keep an eye on Ormorok and be ready when his Spell Reflection is up. Because it has charges, you don't want to just wait for it to go down. Cast low damage spells at him to use up the charges, once again making him vulnerable to your more devastating attacks.

Perhaps Ormorok's most dangerous ability is his Crystal Spikes. In intervals throughout the fight, Ormorok casts these spikes, which erupt from the ground and shoot out in all directions from the Tree Shaper. When he first casts these, they appear as small spikes on the ground. If they appear near you, immediately move to avoid being tossed into the air and damaged by the spikes. It is very important that all party members keep a look out for Crystal Spikes. Being caught by them just once can turn the tide of battle for the worse. When he reaches low health, Ormorok goes into a Frenzy, increasing his physical damage output by 100%. Healers need to be ready to heal this extra damage and tanks need to be ready to use any damage mitigating abilities if it looks like the healer is having trouble keeping up. Once Ormorok the Tree-Shaper falls, you are ready to make your way to the final challenge of the Nexus.

After defeating Ormorok, the Crystalline Frayers are all destroyed. Head back the way you came, hugging the left wall. The path leads through two patrols of Crystalline Keepers and Crystalline Tenders and past two Crystalline Protectors. You need to eliminate each group to make it past them and back out into the Axis of Alignment where you can see Keristrasza in her frozen prison.

As you enter Keristrasza's chamber, there is a lone Azure Magus or Azure Warder patrolling the area. You can take it out without worrying about disturbing the boss. Watch out for its strong melee swing and area of effect Silence.

KERISTRASZA

Malygos has imprisoned Keristrasza, meaning to make her his new consort. By making your way through the Nexus you have proven that you can save her from this indignity. Unfortunately for Keristrasza, the only release from Malygos' control is death. To free the great dragon, click on the three containment spheres, each named for one of the three bosses you have defeated. Make sure everyone is ready before clicking on the final containment sphere.

Once free, Keristrasza is still under Malygos's control and ready for a fight. She poses a double threat with both her maw and her tail. Everyone except the tank should try to stay on her sides. Her Tail Sweep deals a good chunk of damage and knocks you back, which can be deadly if it interrupts a much needed heal.

She also casts Intense Cold. This debuff hits everyone in the party but can be broken by movement or jumping. It deals periodic damage and also slows the attack and casting speeds of anyone afflicted. Once the debuff hits you, you must move or jump. Tanks should not move around to break Intense Cold, but only jump. If a tank moves, Keristrasza will move, and players will have trouble staying at her sides. It is very important that every member of the group keep an eye out for Intense Cold. Once you get it, move immediately, even if you are in the middle of casting. To make this more difficult, Keristrasza can also cast Crystal Chains. These freeze you in place, preventing you from being able to move, which lets Intense Cold stack up on you.

Just as the Tail Sweep makes her backside a dangerous place, Keristrasza's Crystalline Breath inflicts Frostfire damage to everyone in a cone in front of her. Not only does this cause a great deal of damage, it slows your movement speed and deals damage over time. Once you beat her down to low health, Keristrasza becomes Enraged, which increases her physical damage and attack speed. Make sure the healer keeps a very close eye on the tank, as this really increases Keristrasza's damage output. Burn her down as quickly as you can.

Although you weren't able to completely free her from Malygos's control, with her death you have saved Keristrasza from a far worse fate.

AZJOL-NERUB

DUNGEON INFORMATION

Location:	Dragonblight
Faction:	Both
Suggested Levels:	72-74 (group of five)
Primary Enemies:	Undead
Damage Types:	Shadow, Nature
Time to Complete:	1 hour

Azjol-Nerub was once the proud underground kingdom of the Nerubians. Now, its towering architecture and expansive chambers are home to the Scourge! Anub'arak, the traitor king, has given his allegiance to the Lich King and he uses Azjol-Nerub as a breeding ground for his army of Anub'ar Scourge. Many who enter the caverns never again see the light of day, but more still come. Some know that the once rich kingdom still holds treasures for those brave enough to risk its dangers. Others come not for riches but because they know what is at stake should the armies of Azjol-Nerub be ready when Arthas calls.

Beyond that, all types of DPS classes work well here. Hunters are especially great for their Aspect of the Wild, increasing Nature Resistance, since many of the enemies here deal that type of damage.

GETTING TO AZJOL-NERUB

Azjol-Nerub is located in the western part of Dragonblight, bordering Wintergrasp. Horde characters can most easily reach it by traveling west from Agmar's Hammer, while Alliance characters can take the road north, from Star's Rest. The entrance to the caverns is guarded by several Anub'ar, hostile to both factions, so be cautious in your approach.

WHO TO BRING

Like most dungeons, you can't go wrong with a good strong tank. Several of the fights include multiple foes so you need someone who can generate threat on multiple targets effectively. Having some Nature resistance isn't required, but it does help mitigate the damage.

While a healer of any type works well for dealing with the damage output of these foes, Priests have a distinct advantage for these encounters. The mobs in Azjol-Nerub are Undead and the extra crowd control is very, very useful, especially during the tougher encounters. So much so, that you may want to consider spending a DPS slot for a Shadow Priest. That way you get crowd control, devastating DPS, and in a pinch, back up healing.

DON'T FORGET THE EGGS!

Faction	Both
Quest Level	72 to obtain
Quest Giver	Kilix the Unraveler
Goal	Enter Azjol-Nerub and destroy six Nerubian Scourge Eggs.
Experience Gained	25,950
Rewards	Expelling Gauntlets, Purging Handguards, Wraps of Quelled Bone, or Gloves of Banished Infliction.

Throughout Azjol-Nerub, the Scourge Nerubians carefully nurture eggs to increase their numbers. Destroy these as you come across them to keep them from building their army!

THE GILDED GATE

Don't stray too far from the entrance until your group is ready to fight. Make sure everyone is fully buffed and ready before anyone goes exploring down the downwards sloping path. Two Scourge infected Anub'ar, one Webspinner and one Warrior, patrol this path from the base of the slope all the way up to the entrance. This is a good fight to get you used to these creatures before venturing in further. The Warrior comes right up into melee range and can use Strike, to increase melee damage, and Cleave, so make sure any who doesn't have to be near him, isn't. The Webspinner tends to hang back, using Web Shot to dish out Nature damage and reduce its target's movement speed, and Web Wrap which encases its target in a web, immobilizing it for ten seconds unless it is removed.

Web Wrap

If a party member becomes encased in webbing, tear it off of them quickly instead of waiting the full ten seconds for it to wear off. It may seem short, but that time can make all the difference during a battle.

Shackle the warrior if possible and concentrate on the less hardy Webspinner. If crowd control isn't available, have the tank handle both mobs while concentrating your fire. Even though this is a relatively easy pull, make sure you establish a kill order to get the group practiced in using one in here. Once the Webspinner is down you can take out the warrior.

At the base of the ramp you face a three-pull consisting of a Warrior, a Webspinner, and a Skirmisher. Crowd control the Warrior and concentrate on the Webspinner once again. The Skirmisher can Backstab, so make sure to look out for this attack. Once the Webspinner is dead, move on to the Skirmisher and finish off the Warrior. If there were any issues with following the kill order you set up, take care of them now, before moving on to the harder pulls. Use any items or spells that mitigate Nature or Shadow damage before beginning the next fight.

From here, you can see the first boss, but you have to take care of its minions first! There are three groups of three Anub'ar guarding Krik'thir, each with a named foe and two other Anub'ar. The group on the left contains Watcher Silthik, an Anub'ar Shadowcaster, and an Anub'ar Skirmisher. Crowd control Silthik and focus your fire on the Shadowcaster. He dishes out Shadow damage in both targeted and area of effect varieties, but goes down pretty quickly. Next, destroy the Skirmisher before moving on to Silthik. If your group has no form of crowd control that works on Silthik, take him out first. The Watcher has a couple of nasty Nature Damage over Time abilities as well as Web Wrap, so he is the most dangerous of the group. When fighting these three, be sure to pull them back to the base of the ramp; don't fight them in the room with the others. If you get too close and pull aggro from another group you quickly get swamped with too many bugs at once.

As soon as the third bug dies, the second group comes at you. It contains Watcher Gashra, An Anub'ar Warrior and another Skirmisher. As before, crowd control the Watcher. If this is not possible make it your first target. When Gashra is crowd controlled take on the Skirmisher first, to quickly eliminate one source of damage and move on to the Warrior. These guys are pretty tough but with a whole party focusing on them they go down pretty quickly. Like Silthik, Watcher Gashra can use Infected Bite and Web Wrap to make things interesting. Remember to remove Web Wrap as soon as a party member becomes afflicted. Gashra also uses Enrage. This increases her attacking speed by 300%, but reduces the damage dealt by 50%. When Gashra is Enraged, make sure your healer is ready to deal with the extra damage if needed. As before, once the second group is defeated, the third one comes.

This last group contains Watcher Narjil, an Anub'ar Warrior and an Anub'ar Shadowcaster. Control this last watcher and deal with the Shadowcaster, then Warrior, as you did before. Like its fellow Watchers, Narjil uses Infected Bite and Web Wrap but can also use Blinding Webs. Narjil shoots a sticky webbing into a target's eye, causing Blind for four seconds. Although the duration may seem short, it can be bad news if it happens at a critical time, especially if it delays a heal or a taunt. Once these go down, you have a moment as the boss readies its attack.

SCRAMBLE SOME EGGS

Here you see the first of the Nerubian Eggs you must destroy for the Don't Forget the Eggs quest. Everyone in the group who has the quest gets credit for them as long as they are nearby, so make sure you destroy them all after the battle.

KRIK'THIR THE GATEWATCHER

You don't really have any downtime before facing the boss, so any abilities which help regenerate health and mana are useful here. Krik'thir comes at you with some pretty nasty abilities. If you don't have to be within melee range, stay back. Krik'thir casts Curse of Fatigue which is an area of effect curse dealing Shadow damage and slowing movement speed, as well as attack and casting speed. Be sure to remove this whenever possible. The boss also uses Mind Flay quite liberally, dealing Shadow damage and reducing movement speed.

As if worrying about the Gatewatcher weren't enough to keep you busy, he also summons a troop of Skittering Infectors and Skittering Swarms. These are non-elite foes, but there are a lot of them. As soon as they converge on your group, use area of effect damage to take them out as quickly as possible. The Infectors have an area of effect Nature damage ability, Acid Splash, while the Swarms just try to overwhelm you with their numbers. Have the tank hold the attention of the boss, and as many of these little critters as she can handle while the rest of the group takes them down.

When Krik'thir reaches 10% health he goes into a Frenzy! This increases his attack speed by 50% and the damage he deals by 100%, so the change is quite significant. The Tank should use any damage mitigating abilities available and the healer must be ready to deal with this increase in damage. Once you have taken care of the Gatewatcher, you can move through the gate.

HADRONOX'S LAIR

Once you have passed through the gate, go forward across the ramp and down the web to the right to enter the Lair. Although it may not look it, the webbing is quite solid. Stop near the base of the ramp. Here you see a large Anub'ar Crusher, an Anub'ar Crypt Fiend, and an Anub'ar Champion in the center of this chamber. There are several creepy crawlies behind them walking down the stairs, so be careful when pulling these. Mark a definite kill order as it is very important here that everyone is on the same page.

Take out the Crypt Fiend first. It is easy to kill and can use Infected Wound, which increases the Physical damage taken, and Crushing Webs, which immobilize. Both of these abilities help out the other Anub'ar trying to kill you. Next, go for the Champion. It is also non-elite and can be taken down quickly. When that is done, move onto the Crusher. This bug Smashes its target, inflicting a hefty slice of damage and knocks them up in the air. It also uses Frenzy, which increases its attack speed and damage output. This Anub'ar deals out a great deal of damage fairly quickly. Healers must be on their toes if everyone is to survive this fight.

Once you pull the original group of three, two similar groups spawn there. These groups can contain Anub'ar Necromancers also, which summon skeletons to fight. They don't last long and pose little threat unless your party is ailing. Kill these two groups as you did the first, then move back and wait for Hadronox to move up to the center. Notice that hordes of non-elite Anub'ar are swarming toward the boss. Stay tucked back in the corner by the base of the ramp. A few of the non-elites may come over and attack, but as long as you don't venture down the webbing further, they are easily taken care of. Do not move down to engage Hadronox until she is in the center and has killed the majority of the critters attacking her.

HADRONOX

Even for seasoned adventurers, the sight of this giant spider can be daunting. Not only is she an arachnophobe's worst nightmare, you just watched her annihilate hordes of Anub'ar attackers with very little effort. Fear not, with a little caution and a lot of bravery, you can win your way past her.

Use any abilities or items that help mitigate Nature damage before beginning the fight. Send your tank in and have everyone who doesn't have to be in melee range stay out, and try not to stand too close together. Hadronox has a rather nasty Acid Cloud which deals Nature damage to anyone caught inside of it. She can also Pierce Armor, so make sure the healer keeps an eye on the tank for when this happens so that the sudden increase in damage doesn't catch the healer by surprise.

Being a giant spider has its advantages and even when you stay at range Hadronox can still get you with her Web Grab. This deals a hefty bit of damage, and pulls you toward her. This puts you right in range for her Leech Poison ability. This allows her to steal up to 500 health PER SECOND from each person in range and if she kills someone while using this ability she gains 10% health. Healers need to make sure everyone's health stays topped off during this fight to combat this danger. The longer this fight goes on, the more dangerous it is. Pile on the DPS to take her down as quickly as possible.

PASSAGE OF LOST FIENDS

Head through the doorway where you saw Hadronox emerge to reach the Passage of Lost Fiends. Swallow your fear and drop down the hole in the floor. Don't worry, it is safer than it looks. Probably.

THE BROOD PIT

At the end of the Passage is the Brood Pit. Here you see several non-aggressive Brood Keepers. There is no need to, but you can kill these for extra experience. Make sure you rest here and recuperate from the Hadronox fight before moving on. There are also more Nerubian Eggs if you still need to destroy some for the Don't Forget the Eggs quest.

The path leads around through the gate where the traitor king, Anub'arak resides. Head through the gate and down the ramp to face his two Anub'ar Prime Guards. Crowd control one and pull the other to you. These Guards can Drain Power, decreasing your damage output by 1% per stack, but their real danger lies in their Mark of Darkness. This ability causes 500 damage per second, but also causes 1800 damage to everyone nearby if the target is healed. It is a good idea to keep non-melee classes well back because of this. After finishing off one, take out the other guard and prepare to face the ruler of Azjol-Nerub.

ANUB'ARAK

Anub'arak is a powerful foe, and it is important for everyone in your group to be on their toes during this fight. Before moving down to engage him, make sure everyone is fully buffed and at full health and mana. This is not a quick fight and everyone should be prepared to endure it.

Send in your tank and have him spin Anub'arak around so that the rest of the group is never in front of him. He has a Pound ability which deals massive, massive amounts of damage to everyone in front of him. The healer needs to be on the lookout for this ability and ready to heal the tank quickly.

At approximately 66%, 33%, and 15% health, Anub'arak burrows into the ground, becoming invulnerable for a short time, and a few things happen. He uses Impale, which fires spikes up through the floor, ignoring armor and damaging anyone nearby. While he is submerged, several Anub'ar Guardians, Darters, and Assassins join the fight. The Darters and Assassins are quickly handled, as they are non-elites. Have the tank grab the elite Guardians and hold aggro on them as the group focuses fire on them. When Anub'arak reemerges the tank should pick him up, along with any of the remaining Anub'ar if possible.

Pick off any of these which are harrying the more vulnerable members of your party. As the fight progresses, more and more of these spawn at a faster rate.

You must also deal with Locust Swarm. Anub'arak summons swarms of locusts to come to his aid, dealing Nature damage to everyone. He also summons Carrion Beetles, but if you have successfully handled everything else, they are of little concern.

This fight is somewhat of an endurance fight. You must split your efforts between getting Anub'arak down and dealing with all of his minions. If you just deal with the minions, the fight never ends and if you focus on Anub'arak you are overwhelmed by his servants before you can fell him. Pay close attention and make good use of abilities that root, freeze, or otherwise control the lesser mobs. The entire group needs to pay attention not only to what they are doing, but also to whether other group members need help. Getting through this fight is only possible when everyone works together and performs their jobs well. With patience and perseverance you win the day.

Congratulations, you have cleared out Azjol-Nerub! By defeating Anub'arak you have dealt a severe blow to the Nerubian Scourge! Though their kind has not been annihilated, the work you have done here has set back their plans and put a dent in their growing armies.

Drak'Tharon Keep

DRAK'THARON KEEP

DUNGEON INFORMATION

Location:	Grizzly Hills
Faction:	Both
Suggested Levels:	74-76 (group of five)
Primary Enemies:	Humanoid, Undead, Beast
Damage Types:	Nature, Shadow
Time to Complete:	1-1.5 Hours

Drak'Tharon Keep is the fort Arthas resided in during his search for Frostmourne. Until recently, it belonged to the Drakkari Trolls, but for the most part, the Scourge have taken it over. A few groups of Drakkari still fight the Scourge inside, but theirs is a losing battle. The Scourge use the keep to hold the mountain pass between Grizzly Hills and Zul'Drak, and they can easily defend it against a force ten times the size of their own. While both sides are distracted a small party may be able to make their way inside, dealing a blow to both enemies.

Next to a tank, having a great healer is most important to a group daring to brave Drak'Tharon. While this is generally a good rule for any fight, the high damage dealers inside make this especially necessary. For these encounters, having a back up healer makes things a bit easier also.

There are several groups that contain multiple enemies, so some form of crowd control is vital. Classes that can provide crowd control, whether it is the form of a trap, Sap, Polymorph or anything else, and can dish out the damage are most desirable. Because the majority of the foes here are undead, a Priest's Shackle is highly useful, and there are many fights that a Mage's Polymorph can help with.

GETTING TO DRAK'THARON KEEP

Drak'Tharon Keep is located in the northwestern part of Grizzly Hills, on the border of Zul'Drak. To reach it, Horde characters should travel north from Conquest Hold in Grizzly Hills while Alliance characters can most easily reach it by traveling northwest from Amberpine Lodge. Both factions can travel south from Light's Breach in Zul'Drak to reach the keep as well.

WHO TO BRING

Drak'Tharon Keep is a challenging dungeon, requiring players to communicate well and work together to survive. A well balanced group offers the most advantages here, but you can certainly be flexible with your group makeup. As with most dungeons, you need a tank, a dedicated healer, and some damage dealers. Also, crowd control is always helpful, and absolutely vital in certain areas. Any of the tanking classes should be able to handle the minions here fairly easily as long as the healer is on his or her toes, and the boss fights, while challenging, can be handled by any good tank as well.

Return this scrap to Mack to make him feel guilty. You must complete Search and Rescue to obtain this quest.

The last group in this hallway at first appears to only consist of two Risen Drakkari Warriors, but as you approach them they do the smart thing and get backup, another Warrior and a Soulmage. As a group of four undead, it gets a little difficult if you don't have any way to crowd control them, so be sure to have a kill order established and allow the tank to get sufficient threat before the rest of the group joins in.

THE WARLORD'S TERRACE

The next room is all about timing your pulls. There are three groups of three Ghouls spread around the room, and two Wretched Belchers that path in circles around half of the room. The ghoul groups contain a random assortment of Flesheating Ghouls and Ghoul Tormenters. Each of Wretched Belchers patrols in a circle around half of the room. Your best bet is to wait until both Wretched Belchers are clear of the first group of ghouls and pull them to you, out of the room. The Ghouls aren't too challenging one on one, but as a group they can be really be troublesome. Try to Shackles or Trap one away from the group so that there is less damage to heal through. If this isn't an option, make sure that the tank has sufficient threat before you start blasting away. These Scourge can really tear into soft juicy caster flesh!

Next, wait for the Wretched Belcher that patrols closest to the door to be away from the other groups and pull it. This large mass of nightmare has a highly damaging Cleave, so make sure everyone that doesn't need to be close to it stays back. It also has a tendency to spew Bile Vomit on anyone nearby, which causes Nature damage over time, and is pretty gross besides. You want to take on only one of these at a time. If you should accidentally pull two, try to shackle one and pull the other back down the steps into the hallway you just cleared. The Wretched Belcher that patrols around the other half of the room walks around the remaining two groups of ghouls, so pull the closest group of ghouls while he is near the far group. Then you pull the remaining Wretched Belcher when he is near the door, followed by the last group of ghouls to safely clear the room.

TROLLGORE

Trollgore can be found at the top of the stairs fighting off groups of three smaller trolls that you can see fly in from somewhere in Zul'Drak. This continues throughout the fight, as three trolls fly in and start attacking Trollgore randomly. Trollgore has an area of effect attack that instantly kills the trolls attacking him, and hurts any players in range. This attack is followed by more area of effect damage in Corpse Explosions, which he uses on the now-dead trolls nearby.

Your healer must be on his or her toes since Trollgore dishes out so much party-wide damage. It might not seem like a significant amount at first, but Trollgore has Consume, a stacking buff that increases all of his damage done by 2% every time he cannibalizes a corpse with it. He can use this on either the Trolls that rush in to attack him, or on player corpses nearby. Not only does he hit the tank harder as the fight drags on, his AoE attacks hit everyone else harder as well. His damage buff is time based rather than health percentage based, so the faster you can kill him the easier it is to collect your loot.

DRAKNID LAIR

The next room is home to some creepy crawlies. As you approach you notice a few tiny, non-elite Darkweb Hatchlings running back and forth in the room, and two groups of elite Darkweb Recluses standing around. There is a group of two Recluses immediately to the left upon entering the room, and another group of three to the right. The small Hatchlings are not much of a threat, so don't be too worried about accidentally pulling them with the big spiders. If you do happen to pull a mixed group, kill the non-elites first.

The Darkweb Recluses have a nasty Poison Spit which deals Nature damage and, being spiders, they like to try to catch you with Encasing Web which increases your casting time and time between attacks by 100%. If these tricks fail to do you in the Recluses attempt to run back to their nest once they reach anywhere between fifty to twenty percent health. If they manage to get there before you kill them, they return with four more of the Hatchlings. Be sure to mark the elites for a specific attack order because you don't want to have to deal with two or more of them running away and bringing back friends. Be ready to use any abilities or spells you can to slow them down or stop them in their tracks. Even though the Hatchlings don't hit too hard on their own, having eight of them running around can cause some trouble!

FREE THE VICTIMS!

The Draknid Lair contains more than the spiders you faced, it also contains still wriggling Darkweb Victims! Most of these web casings contain a Drakkari Guardian, but one of them is the prison of Kurzel, the female orc you need to find for the quest Search and Rescue. Once you free Kurzel and talk to her, she starts the quest Head Games that requires you to use Kurzel's Blouse Scrap on the corpse of Novos the Summoner in the next room.

Slaying the unfortunate Drakkari Guardians lets you gather the Enduring Mojo you need for the Cleansing Drak'Tharon quest as well. You can also get this from other Drakkari who have not yet been touched by the Scourge.

TEMPLE OF THE FORGOTTEN

Once you pass through the Draknid Lair, you are well on your way into the inner heart of the keep. Few brave adventurers make it this far. Sharpen your weapons and ready your spells as you venture into the Temple of the Forgotten.

NOVOS THE SUMMONER

After making your way past Arthas' minions and Drakkari defenders, you must now face a greater challenge—Novos the Summoner. This lich stands in the middle of the room, and as soon as you move close enough to engage him he makes all the casters in your party jealous by putting up an Arcane Field that renders him invulnerable and hurts anyone who stands inside it.

When he puts his shield up, Novos also calls his minions to his aid. Several undead monsters come down the stairs in the middle of the room. Most of them are non-elite, such as the Fetid Troll Corpse, and are easy to deal with. Occasionally one is a Risen Shadowcaster that does not get into melee range, or a Hulking Corpse that has to be kept off of squishy players due to its massive physical attack. This is an endurance event, as it goes on for several minutes before you face the boss. Have the tank gather as much threat as possible and establish a kill order on the elites, while dealing with the non-elites through the use of area of effect abilities or swift targeted strikes.

While you are dealing with the hordes of undead, elite humanoid called Crystal Handlers come from either the stairs, the door you entered the room from, or the door you exit the room through. You must kill four of the Crystal Handlers to deactivate the crystals surrounding Novos. Once you disable all four crystals, Novos' shield drops and he ceases summoning additional undead and the real fight can begin.

On his own, Novos isn't much of a threat. Just make sure to clear out any remaining undead that were on their way down the stairs so the healer doesn't get their attention. Novos attacks with standard Frostbolt, Arcane Blast, and Blizzard as well as Wrath of Misery, which he casts on a random person. This painful spell inflicts Shadow damage every two seconds for eight seconds. Wear him down, and try to stay out of his Blizzard as much as possible. He isn't so tough without his small Scourge army to back him up.

AVIARY

Now that you have defeated Novos, you are ready to proceed deeper into the keep. In the Aviary you find a large group of non-elite Drakkari Bats and one elite Risen Drakkari Bat Rider in the middle of them. The rider can be quite annoying with strong melee attacks and Curse of Blood which increases the amount of damage you take for eight seconds. Have your tank grab the attention of the Bat Rider and give them enough time to gain threat on the Bats as well. Once the tank has established a good amount of threat, have your DPS take out the Bats with area of effect abilities. Make sure the healer is keeping a close eye on health during this.

If your tank does not have the ability to tank multitudes of monsters at once, it is best to single target each of the mobs so casters don't pull hate and get killed by all the bats. They can be quite dangerous as a group.

RAPTOR PENS

The Aviary leads to the outdoor portion of the keep, where you are greeted by a Risen Drakkari Handler and his raptor pets—two Drakkari Guttrippers on either side of him, and when engaged he dismounts to let his Drakkari Raptor Mount join the battle. The handler attacks like a Hunter; he uses Hooked Net to keep the tank in place and runs a few steps away to begin shooting. You can use whatever crowd control you have available on him so the tank doesn't have to worry about tanking the three raptors and running around after the Handler. If this isn't an option, have your ranged DPS take him down first so you don't have to deal with his constant running and shooting.

The mount is non-elite, so take it out quickly before moving on to the Guttrippers. These monstrosities have strong melee attacks and can Gut Rip you, reducing your stamina by 15% for six seconds.

Watch Your Step

As you get further outdoors you approach the raptor pen which contains the next boss, a giant Devilsaur named King Dred, king of all the raptors in Drak-Tharon Keep. Be careful not to go near the pen because it does not block line of sight and the Drakkari Scytheclaws come after you if you get too close.

The next group is made up of two Risen Drakkari Handlers and mounts. Crowd control at least one of the Handlers if possible and eliminate the non-elite mounts quickly. Once this is done, carefully pull the other raptors out of the pen with the boss. If you aren't careful you can accidentally pull him as well, so only pull the raptors as he walks away. These Drakkari Scytheclaws are similar to the other raptors you have already put down. Watch out for their nasty Rend ability and be ready to heal through it. Once you have cleared these guys out, you are ready to face King Dred.

KING DRED

The next boss can be skipped by carefully moving around his pen if you desire, but why would you want to pass up a great fight? This giant Devilsaur hits moderately hard and also causes multiple bleeds on his target. When you see the emote, "King Dred lashes out wildly," be ready for his special moves. He uses Mangling Slash, which does damage and increase the damage taken from bleeds by 125%, in conjunction with Grievous Bite. This bleed move can be devastating because it deals a great amount of damage every two seconds until the target is fully healed. Healers have to really be on the look out for this bleed effect. The massive Devilsaur also uses Piercing Slash to deal damage and reduce its target's armor by 75%, severely upping the Devilsaur's damage output. Also, be on the look out for King Dred to "Raise his claw menacingly." This gives you a split second warning that he is going to attack three times in rapid succession. If your healer is unprepared for this your tank can go down unexpectedly and end the battle right then and there.

King Dred also has Howling Roar, a fear that affects all enemies within 35 yards for four seconds, so be prepared. Be aware of raptors in the rear of the pen, and pull the boss as far away as you can, near the pen opening, so no one gets teared into them. Having a Shaman to lay down a Tremor Totem is a plus on this boss, but not completely necessary.

With King Dred dealt with you head up the stairs that are parallel to the raptor pen. Here you find two Drakkari Guardians fighting a Scourge Brute and a Risen Drakkari Warrior. If you want to let them do the work for you, wait until they are at about half health before pulling them, as that is about the point their health goes back up. There is one Drakkari Shaman in the group, and it uses Chain Heal on its allies so either crowd control it or kill it first. The next group consists of two Drakkari Guardians and two Drakkari Shamans, so make sure to keep them from healing each other. The Shamans can cast Lightning Bolt, but this heal is their main danger, since it prolongs the fight.

Next you face a lone troll Death Knight. His main abilities are Icy Touch and Fear. Make sure to pull him away from the groups behind him so no one gets Feared into them. He hits harder than the troll warriors, but not by much. Since he is a single target, concentrate all of your fire on him and take him out. Next is a lone Drakkari Commander. He buffs himself with Battle Shout and has a nasty Whirlwind attack which everyone but the tank needs to avoid. Be sure to rest up if necessary before tackling the next few pulls.

To the left is a group of two Drakkari Shaman and two Drakkari Guardians standing watch, with two more Guardians fighting Risen Drakkari Warriors nearby. This is a tricky pull because sometimes the Guardians and Risen Drakkari Warriors join the fight several seconds after you engage the group of Shamans and Guardians, making it a group of eight enemies to deal with. Establish a kill order and use whatever crowd control is available to you, making sure to stop the Shamans from healing as much as possible. This is by far the most challenging fight you face outside of a boss battle.

Up the stairs you have to face two Risen Drakkari Death Knights together. Double fears can cause a lot of trouble. Pull these guys back to the stairs so if you get feared you are unlikely to run into another group. Make sure everyone stays on the same target and doesn't pass the tank in threat in case he or she gets the fear. There is a single patrolling Risen Drakkari Death Knight, so be careful not to pull him with the first two. Take out the patrol and the following pair of Risen Drakkari Death Knights at the base of the next staircase and you are home free to the final boss of Drak'Tharon Keep.

THE PROPHET THARON'JA

This skeletal dragon is looking for some flesh to cover his bones, and yours looks good to him! Once you are ready, walk up this last set of stairs and have your tank engage the Prophet while the rest of the group takes up positions around him. Once the tank has established sufficient threat, throw everything you've got at Tharon'ja.

Several times throughout the fight he turns everyone in the party into skeletons, giving you a new set of skills. They include Touch of Life, which steals health from the target, with a five second cooldown. Bone Armor, which absorbs damage for ten seconds, with a ten-second cooldown, Taunt; and Slaying Strike, which does a good amount of damage. The tank should still have Tharon'ja's attention despite the transition, so everyone else can focus on using Slaying Strike, including your healer. Tharon'ja also drops Poison Clouds. As soon as you see one drop near you, immediately move out of the way. Don't wait to finish the move or spell you are casting. Everyone should keep up Bone Armor in order to absorb the first bit of damage from the Poison Cloud. If you take damage as the tank or from the Poison Clouds, use Touch of Life. It is on a short cool down, so you cannot spam it and should save it for when you do take some damage. After a few minutes, Tharon'ja casts Return Flesh on you which returns the party to their normal selves.

The transformation stuns you for a few seconds, which is another reason you need to get out of the Poison Clouds as quickly as you can. With some bad luck it is possible that a Poison Cloud appears on top of you just before a transformation and kills you before you can get out. If this happens to your tank or your only healer, then it is difficult to salvage the battle.

Tharon'ja also shoots an Eye Beam at a random person that does a decent amount of damage, but is easily survivable. He also gives you the Curse of Life, which deals Shadow damage until you are at 50% of your health, as well as damaging you with Lightning Breath and Shadow Volley.

By paying close attention to the battle you can survive everything the boss throws at you and his loot is yours!

ARENAS

In addition to the large scale PvP offered by the battlegrounds, World of Warcraft also offers smaller, more organized PvP in the form of Arena Matches. In Arena play, preformed teams pit their skills against other similarly rated teams for honor, glory, and much more tangible rewards. You must be level 80 to participate in ranked Arena Matches, but players of lower level can still have fun in practice matches called Skirmishes. To get started all you need is at least one willing partner.

MAKING A TEAM

Forming an Arena Team is quick and easy, but there are a couple of things to consider before you form your team. First, you need to decide which size of team you wish to make. If you and one of your friends are always playing at the same time, then a 2v2 team would be best for you. If you've got a larger group of committed friends, then go for a 5v5 team. You can start, or join, more than one size of team, but you can only be on one team of each size. For instance, you can have your own 2v2, 3v3, and 5v5 teams if you want, but you can't be on two different 2v2 teams.

The second thing you need to do is decide on a name. You want to pick a name that is descriptive, inspiring, or even just amusing, but be sure to exercise the same good judgment with your team name as you would a character name. Your team name is going to stay with you for quite some time, so select a name that you really like, and remember that an offensive one may land you in trouble. Once you have made these decisions, you are ready to make your team. Visit one of the Arena Promoters to create your team Charter. You can find Arena Organizers in the following locations:

Arena Organizer	Location	Zone
"King Dond"	The Ring of Trials	Nagrand
Steamwheedle Sam	Circle of Blood	Blade's Edge Mountains
Bip Nigstrom	Gadgetzan	Tanaris
"Baroness" Liana, Kanika Goldwell	Sewers	Dalaran
Greela "The Grunt" Crankchain	The Ring of Valor	Orgimmar

Team charters aren't overly expensive, but they do take some startup gold. The cost is well worth it for the chance at glory, and some nice pieces of equipment, that participating in the arena can earn you.

Team	Cost
2v2	80g
3v3	120g
5v5	200g

Once you have purchased your Team Charter, you must select your team colors and logo. Once chosen, these are displayed on your PvP tab and in the World of Warcraft Armory listing for Arena Teams, as well as on your flag during battles, so it is important that you choose something you are happy showing off to other players.

TO BATTLE!

Once you are ready, speak to an Arena Battlemaster, located near arenas and in major cities, to join a queue. Select which type of match you want to queue up for and then select whether you are looking for a Skirmish or a Ranked Match. Skirmishes are great, especially for new teams. They give you the opportunity to fight in the arena without impacting your Team Standing. Of course, they also don't earn you any Arena Points, but they are good practice for honing your arena skills. If your team is new to PvP, or even just new to playing together, spending some time skirmishing can really pay off.

PATIENCE IS A VIRTUE...

If you belong to more than one arena team, it is possible to queue up for more than one type of match at the same time. While this may cut down on the time you have to wait to find a match, remember that if you decline any match once it comes up, it counts as a loss. So, if two matches "pop" at once, you automatically lose the one you don't join, which negatively affects your Team Ranking. If you choose to take your chances like this, be sure to always leave the remaining queue as soon as you accept a match.

PREPARATION

Regardless of the arena, every match starts with the opposing teams in designated areas. All existing buffs disappear, along with any conjured items. This ensures that a team doesn't have any unfair advantages, like Soulstones, or extra buffs, from players not on their team. Pets are dismissed when you enter the arena, but you can summon them back before the battle begins. Any spells or abilities that have less than a fifteen minute cooldown timer are reset, so that they are ready to be used in the upcoming contest. Spells and abilities with longer cooldowns cannot be used in the arena at all.

The only consumables allowed are conjured items and bandages, so make sure you are well prepared before the battle begins. Everyone's health and mana is set to full and each team has about one minute to use any spells or abilities they desire at no mana, rage, energy, soul shard, or runic cost. This should be more than enough time for everyone to prepare for the upcoming battle!

What to Wear

During the preparation time you can change your armor as much as you like, but once the battle begins you are not allowed to equip or unequip any items besides your weapons, so make sure you start the battle fully dressed!

THE FIGHT

Once the preparation countdown expires the battle begins! Though your tactics change depending on factors such as location, class, skill, and opponents, your goal never does. You must be the last challenger standing. Whether you are playing in a 2v2 match or a 5v5, the team with at least one member alive when all the opponents are dead is the undisputed victor.

There is no time limit on arena matches so some are over fairly quickly, while others can lock two teams in intense battle for quite some time. Because matches are made based on your team's ranking, you usually find yourself facing teams of equal ability. This means that most battles are challenging and exciting and take all your attention and skill to win.

I SEE YOU!

Each arena is equipped with power ups lasting fifteen seconds which allow you to see stealthed or invisible opponents. This gives you some defense against players who may try to avoid a fight by hiding. Using one of these power ups increases the damage you take by 5%.

THE ARENAS

Each arena presents its own unique challenges and when you sign up for a match, you can never be sure which arena you may find yourself in. This ensures that a team can't just do battle in their favorite arena and must instead make their strategy flexible enough for any of the locations!

RUINS OF LORDAERON

Lordaeron was once a shining Alliance capital, its streets bustling with trade and travelers. Hammered into haunted ruins by the Scourge, its bleak walls and forgotten paths provide an excellent place for teams to pit their wills against one another.

Though mostly flat, this medium size arena has a few distinguishing features that teams can use to their advantage. Each team begins in the Pit. If you need to eat, drink, or bandage, ducking around the doorway of the Pit can often give you enough cover to take care of these tasks. On one side of the arena stands a small lonely graveyard. Most of the tombstones are too small to have any impact on the battle, but a few of them are large enough to cause Line of Sight (LoS) issues for you or the opposing team. Use them to provide some cover when facing enemies near the graveyard.

The most prominent, and perhaps most important feature, is the Coffin at the center of the arena. This raised coffin is surrounded by three pillars, all of which can affect LoS. Many battles in the Ruins center around controlling this feature. Holding the Coffin gives you a tactical advantage due to its raised position and pillars, but it also makes you a target. If you choose to try to control this position, make sure you are always ready and able to repel multiple attacks.

THE RING OF TRIALS

Don't let the rolling green hills of Nagrand lull you into a sense of safety. Though seemingly simple, The Ring of Trials is often home to some of the bloodiest contests in the Arena circuit.

This arena is very straightforward in appearance. It is round and flat, with teams starting on opposite sides of the circle. The center of the arena is a large open space that gives you plenty of room to maneuver, but no protection. Fighting in this space is often an all out war. Four sizeable pillars mark the edges of this open center area and winning teams learn to use them strategically. Support classes can position themselves behind a pillar to avoid ranged damage, coming out into the open only when necessary. Another common tactic has a team hiding behind the pillars, forcing the opposition to come to them, making it much easier to ambush them.

THE CIRCLE OF BLOOD

Arenas

Arena Rewards

World PVP

To the Ogres of the Blade's Edge Mountains there is no greater joy than to be victorious in battle and The Circle of Blood is a testament to the cultural importance of this ideal. The size and layout of the arena provide challenges to any team, regardless of their skill level.

This large arena is designed to give opposing teams a great deal of room in which to wage battle and interesting terrain in which to do it. The arena is roughly square in shape, with opposing teams starting on opposite sides. The size of the arena means that you have to move far from the starting pit before being in range to engage the enemy.

The battle area is bisected by a long bridge running the length of the arena which is accessed by ramps on each end. Many battles begin with a race to control this bridge. While it is always a good idea for your team to have a plan before the battle, the size and layout of this arena make it even more important for you to have a strategy in place. Decide before hand if you want to approach the bridge from the ramp closest to you, which gets you to the bridge quickly, or from the far ramp, which gives you a good look at what your opponent is up to.

While the bridge is usually considered the most important feature of the arena, strategically speaking, it is not the only one that gives you an advantage. On either side of the center of the bridge you can find a pillar. These pillars are favorite spots for ranged classes to hold. They offer a good view of the battlefield and offer some protection from attack. Even if you aren't on top, you can still use the pillars to break Line of Sight and give you a little breathing room if you are being attacked from range.

DALARAN SEWERS

The mages of Dalaran don't tolerate violence along the city's well-kept streets but just below them, in the city's underbelly, less reputable businesses flourish and you can always find a fight!

Each team starts in a large pipe above the arena floor. Once the battle starts a stream of water rushes out of the pipe, forcing you out into the center of the arena, so you had better be prepared! The arena consists of a large center platform which is surrounded by a grate. If you are knocked off of the platform, the only way you can get back is via the set of steps in the corner.

There are two large stacks of boxes on opposite corners of the platform which can cause Line of Sight issues. Be sure to keep these in mind when moving around the arena. Just to make things even more interesting, periodically the large pipes in the ceiling rain down a stream of water, blocking Line of Sight in the center of the arena! Your team must learn to work around this so that ranged attacks, or even heals, aren't interrupted when the water starts to flow.

THE RING OF VALOR

Located in Orgrimmar's Valley of Honor, the Ring of Valor has long stood empty, waiting for worthy challengers to pit their skills against one another as a roaring crowd cheers them on.

As the battle begins, two elevators rise up out of the floor of the arena, each bringing an opposing team to the fight. At only ten yards apart, you can easily see who you face before the spiked gates on the elevators drop and the fight starts. Once the battle commences, the elevators become just part of the arena floor, and do not move for the duration of the battle.

At four points along the oval of the arena a pillar periodically raises and lowers. You can ride the pillar up and away from melee attacks, but remember that by doing this you may be hindering your own ability to attack. Also, a line of spikes juts up out of the floor between the elevators and the pillars at certain intervals. Before either of these two things happen, the gears on the walls begin to turn, so you have some warning before the pillars move or the spikes come into play.

AFTER THE BATTLE

After each contest, a Post Match Summary appears. It gives you information such as the time the match lasted, the players involved on each team, and the healing, damage, and killing blows performed by each player. It also lists the rating adjustment for each player. This gives you a clear idea of how your team, and your opponent, performed.

TEAM RATING

Every team has a Team Rating. This rating reflects how experienced and skilled a team is and can change with each match. New arena teams start with a Rating of 1500. If you win a match your team's Rating goes up—lose a match and it goes down. How much your Rating changes depends on the Rating of the opposing team. For instance, losing to a team with a higher Team Rating doesn't lower your own rating quite as far as losing to an inferiorly rated team does. Similarly, winning against a lesser rated team nets you a smaller gain than triumphing over a team with a Rating higher than your own. Your Team Rating is used to match you against teams with similar ratings for arena bouts, so the better your team performs, the more challenging foes you are able to face.

ARENA POINTS

Though bragging rights are great, participating in the arena earns you more concrete rewards in the form of Arena Points. These points are calculated at the end of each week using your Team Rating. To be eligible to receive any Arena Points at all, your team must have participated in a minimum of ten matches, and individual players must have participated in at least 30% of the matches played to collect Arena Points. No matter how many Arena Teams you belong to, you can only collect Arena Points from one team each week. The amount of Points you receive is calculated from the team performance that gets you the most points. You can save up to 5,000 Arena Points if you choose to, and best of all, once earned you don't lose them unless you spend them.

Sometimes it is hard waiting until the end of the week to see how many Arena Points you have been awarded. This is where the Arena Calculator comes in. Accessed from the main World of Warcraft website, this calculator does all the heavy math for you and lets you know where you stand based on your Team Rating, as well as lets you plan on how active you should be in the arena to earn yourself the desired rewards.

ARENA REWARDS

Arena Points are so important because they are the currency you need to purchase some of the best equipment available. Each arena season presents new rewards on which to spend your hard earned Arena Points! Many of the items are geared toward PVP play with stats like Resilience, but the epic gear is also loaded with stats to help in PVE situations as well. Arena Rewards are a great way for players who don't participate in raids to get awesome gear. In addition to equipment, excelling in the arena can also earn a team prestigious arena titles so that anyone who sees a player knows how good they are. Each season presents new and more powerful rewards for arena participation, so it is always a good idea to keep your team in practice!

WINTERGRASP

Wintergrasp lies in southwestern Northrend, nestled between Borean Tundra, Dragonblight, Sholazar Basin, and Icecrown. Though the region was formerly covered by a large frozen lake, it has since been drained leaving only a remnant of its former self in the many smaller bodies of water that dot the landscape. Though the land is harsh and snow-covered, it is not without life. Travelers must watch out for hostile creatures such as Chilled Earth Elementals and Wandering Shadows if they stray too far from the path. There are also nodes of ore and herbs to be found in the frozen ground for those craftsmen brave enough to face the dangers in the area.

Wintergrasp is a highly contested area where Horde and Alliance forces are in an almost constant battle for control of the region. Though there are many strategically important areas in this zone for foes to battle over, the main prize is Wintergrasp Fortress.

To level the playing field and avoid players swooping down on their flying mounts to attack, Wintergrasp is a no-fly zone. If you attempt to fly into it you are dismounted, and the snow covered ground isn't nearly as soft as it looks. The only way to reach Wintergrasp initially is to take a portal from Dalaran. One hour before each match starts there is an open portal in Sunreaver's Sanctuary for the Horde and in The Silver Enclave for the Alliance. Once the match begins, these portals are no longer available, though they become available again between matches to the winning side. Once you pick up the flight path in Wintergrasp you can fly there from any connecting flight master at any time, even during a match.

At the start of each match, one faction defends the fortress and the other attacks. If the attackers successfully take the fortress they must defend it during the next match. The attacking faction starts in their own camp. The Horde camp is in the northwest and the Alliance camp is in the northeast. Each camp has its own Flight Master along with a merchant selling rewards in exchange for Stone Keeper's Shards and quest givers. The defending faction houses these NPCs in the fortress, leaving their camp empty of everyone but the Flight Master.

At the start of each match the first thing you want to do is to find some opponents to kill. Wintergrasp doesn't force you into groups like Battle Grounds, but forming a raid group is a good idea. That way you can see where your allies are and better coordinate your fighting. As you gain Honor Kills you gain Wintergrasp Ranks. One you have gained a rank or two, head to the nearest Vehicle Workshop under your faction's control, or grab a few allies and take the nearest one from the enemy!

Once you have control of the shop, speak to the Engineer there to commandeer a Siege Vehicle. Your rank determines what types of vehicle you can command: the higher your rank, the better the vehicle.

Siege Vehicles

HK's	Rank
2	Corporal	Forsaken Catapult
10	First Lieutenant	The Demolisher, Siege Engine

You cannot take Wintergrasp Fortress without first bringing down its defenses and for that you need Siege Vehicles.

VEHICLES

Forsaken Catapult

Requires: Corporal

This is the first siege vehicle you can use in Wintergrasp. It can be used to attack both structures and players, though it has a limited range and doesn't pack the punch of the sturdier siege engines. The Forsaken Catapult can launch Plague Barrels at foes, doing decent damage. You can also cause the vehicle to breath fire at your foes which works great as a defensive weapon. It can be easily destroyed by a few determined players, but as the easiest siege vehicle to build, you can field quite an army of them if you choose.

The Demolisher

Requires: First Lieutenant

The Demolisher holds up to four people—one driver and three passengers. The passengers can attack, and be attacked, when the vehicle is standing still. This vehicle has a long range allowing it to Hurl Boulders, very useful in tearing down walls and towers. Drive it up within range and fire away. The Demolisher is equipped with a Ram which can be used defensively to knock enemies back and can also be used for breaking down walls. If the Ram doesn't do the trick, your passengers can take care of any foes who try to get close enough to dismantle your Demolisher.

Siege Engine

Requires: First Lieutenant

The Siege Engine holds up to four players—a driver, a gunner, and two passengers. The passengers can attack and be attacked when the vehicle is at a stop and the gunner can operate a Fire Cannon mounted on the vehicle to take down foes and building alike. Like the Demolisher, the Siege Engine comes equipped with a Ram to knock back your enemies. This vehicle has a long range and really dishes out the damage.

Your ranks only last for the duration of the match, so each time you need to build up Honor Kills to rise in rank and command your siege vehicles. This insures that every one who starts is on a level playing field and that regular fighters don't necessarily have an advantage over those that only occasionally visit Wintergrasp.

FEELING OUTNUMBERED?

It can be disheartening to show up for a fight only to realize you were expecting a skirmish while your opponent came ready for full out war! Wintergrasp offers some help for your side if you find yourself constantly outnumbered by granting you Tenacity. Tenacity gives the underdog faction a buff which scales up their abilities depending on just how outnumbered they are, making the battle for Wintergrasp more of a fair fight. Superior numbers still have an advantage, but with Tenacity it is no longer automatically an insurmountable advantage. Smaller forces that work together and use their brains to augment their brawn can still have a good shot at winning.

While the majority of the fighting takes place in the area near the fortress and the Vehicle Workshops, there are also defensive towers in the southern part of the zone.

Each tower comes equipped with faction guards and several Wintergrasp Tower Cannons. These have a long range and can be used to guard the roads running through the area. Like Siege Vehicles, the cannons only function during a match; trying to use them between matches results in their destruction.

Wintergrasp Fortress is well defended. It is surrounded by destructible walls with towers on four of the exterior corners. Along with its main gate, all of these structures are vulnerable to attack from Siege Vehicles. When a portion of the structure is targeted, its health appears in the lower left of your screen so you can see how close it is to falling. Each of the towers is equipped with Cannons which the defenders can use to rain down fire on the attacking forces. These cannons have a fairly decent range so you want to keep a close eye on them and avoid their fire whenever possible.

The Fortress is also equipped with two Siege Vehicle Workshops of its own. The defenders can build and field Siege Vehicles to defend the fortress or to take some of the structures controlled by the attackers. If the defending force controls the exterior Siege Vehicle Workshops, there is little the attackers can do but to try to take them back. Both defending players and Siege Vehicles can use the teleporters located in the Keep to reach the exterior. This insures that the enemy can't sneak into the fortress through an open gate.

As with most ventures, you stand a better chance working as a team than you do alone. Stick with a group of your allies and work together to take workshops and towers when attacking. When on defense, use your numbers to take out attacking Siege Vehicles and their passengers before they can do too much damage to the Fortress. Take advantage of the environment to block line of sight when possible and try to spread out the opposing forces. Many of the skills you have honed in PvP battlegrounds serve you well here.

At the end of the timed match whichever faction has control of the Wintergrasp Fortress gets to keep it for the next four hours in order to have a chance to reap the benefits. The winners receive a buff, Essence of Wintergrasp, and can now see Greater Elemental Spirits and can collect Stone Keeper's Shards. The fortress holds special merchants, like the Wintergrasp Quartermaster, who trade items for these shards. The winners are also granted the buff, Rulers of Wintergrasp, which increases the damage they do. Within the fortress are portals to the various battlegrounds as well as on leading to the Violet Citadel in Dalaran.

The greatest benefit (besides bragging rights) of holding Wintergrasp Fortress is access to The Vault of Archavon. This one boss raid dungeon is available in both 10 and 25 man versions and can only be used by members of the faction that controls Wintergrasp between matches. Archavon the Stone Watcher is no pushover, and you must be level 80 to enter his vault, but the rewards are well worth it.

STRAND OF THE ANCIENTS

The Strand of the Ancients is a new 15-man battleground set on an island off the southern coast of Dragonblight. Here among the remnants of Titan architecture is the resting place of a legendary Titan artifact, desperately sought by both the Alliance and the Horde who seek to unlock its mysteries.

Strand of the Ancients Legend

- 1 The Frostbreaker and The Graceful Maiden
- 2 Gate of the Green Emerald
- 3 Gate of the Blue Sapphire
- 4 Gorgril Rigspark (Used Demolisher Salesman)

- 5 Rigger Sparklight (Used Demolisher Salesman)
- 6 Southern Graveyard
- 7 Gate of the Purple Amethyst
- 8 Gate of the Red Sun

- 9 Gate of the Yellow Moon
- 10 West Graveyard
- 11 East Graveyard
- 12 Chamber of Ancient Relics

To queue up for this battleground speak to the Strand of the Ancients Battlemasters in the major capital cities or click on the portal in Dalaran. The Horde's portal is found in Sunreaver's Sanctuary and the Alliance's portal is located in The Silver Enclave. There are two separate brackets, one for levels 70-79 and the other for level 80 characters which levels the playing field somewhat.

You shouldn't have long to wait to join the battle as each Strand of the Ancients match lasts a maximum of twenty minutes. It is broken up into two parts of ten minutes each. One faction plays the side of the Attackers for the first half while the other defends. Once the time limit is up the teams switch positions and the battle begins anew. Defenders beware though, if the Attackers manage to take the Artifact in less than the allotted time, you are only allowed that same amount of time when it becomes your turn to take the offense!

The goal is to reach, or defend—depending on your position, the powerful Titan Artifact located inside the Chamber of Ancient Relics at the southern end of the Strand. Attackers begin the battle onboard a pair of boats approaching the strand while Defenders begin in the southern part of the zone, near the Chamber of Ancient Relics. While the ships approach, take the opportunity to discuss strategy and apply any buffs to the group and if you are defending, move down into position. As with most undertakings, the key to success is to communicate with your allies and pay close attention to the battle around you.

Once the ships land, the Attackers disembark and try to push their way up the beach toward either the Gate of the Green Emerald or the Gate of the Blue Sapphire. Defenders may choose to engage the attacking force as they land on the beach to try to keep them from reaching this first set of gates. If this happens, try to engage the Defenders with part of your number while the rest move around to try to get to the gate. Often, the Defenders instead set up near one of the first gates where they can take advantage of its defensive weaponry.

SOMETIMES THE BEST DEFENSE...

Each of the five gates is equipped with two stationary Anti-Personnel Cannons which can be manned by any of the defending team. Use the Cannon Blast to hurl a fiery boulder down at attacking opponents, inflicting a fire-based DoT and causing massive damage to not only individual players but their siege vehicles as well. The cannon can be slow at times, making it difficult to hit moving targets, but a well timed shot can make all the difference to a successful defense.

The battleground is three-tiered. The attackers must successfully make their way past the first two destructible gates to reach the next tier on their way to the Chamber holding the Artifact. Attackers should concentrate their firepower on either the Gate of the Green Emerald or the Gate of the Blue Sapphire, not both, as you only need to smash your way through one of them to move up. Defenders need to have at least some support at both gates before the Attackers make their move. Once the Attacking side has committed their forces, the Defenders can move to where they are needed most. Land Mounts are useable within the battleground, so moving quickly to where you are needed is not a problem.

The gates can only be destroyed by using Battleground Demolishers or Barrel Bombs. There is a stack of Bombs and two Demolishers next to the docks of each Attacker ship. If there are no Demolishers available, Attackers should pick up a Barrel Bomb from the starting area. These bombs can be used from your inventory and placed next to a wall, causing huge damage when exploding. More Demolishers and Bombs can be obtained from the Goblin Workshops past the first walls, once the Attacking forces move deeper into the Strand.

...IS A GOOD OFFENSE!

The Battleground Demolisher is everything a good Siege Vehicle should be. It has a long range ability, Hurl Boulder, which is great for attacking Gates, as well as groups of Defenders. For more up close and personal encounters the Demolisher comes equipped with a Ram. This ability damages foes as it knocks them back and can also be used effectively against the Gates. The Demolisher can hold up to three passengers who can be targeted separately from the vehicle and are vulnerable to attack but can also cast or use abilities from the vehicle, even while it is in motion.

Once the attacking forces have breached the first gate, they then move up to the next tier and attempt to repeat the process. Once again there are two gates leading up to the next tier, the Gate of the Purple Amethyst and the Gate of the Red Sun, but you should concentrate your attacks on just one. Always remember as an attacker that you only have ten minutes to reach your goal so you want to focus your efforts to maximize the damage you do.

The battle for the Strand is a difficult one and casualties can be high. Luckily there are three Graveyards carefully located so that little time is wasted running back into the fray if you are killed.

The final obstacle to reaching the top tier is the Gate of the Yellow Moon. Time is often running short by the time the attackers reach this point and both sides should give everything they've got to win here. If this gate is breached there remains only one thin line of defense between the Attackers and the sought after Artifact—the doorway to the Chamber of Relics.

If the Attackers have made it this far the Defenders must throw everything they can at them to halt their advance and try to wait out the timer. Attackers should make sure they've always got Demolishers at the ready to keep up the assault on the gate. Having made it this far, it would be a shame to lose now!

If the Attackers breach the door on the Chamber of Ancient Relics they must click on the Artifact to win this portion of the battle. Once the attackers have claimed the Artifact, or the ten minute time limit has been reached, the teams switch positions and begin the battle again. The victors of the first half receive no extra benefit during the second half of the match, so you always start on an even playing field whether you start on offense or defense. While it is possible for the match to end in a draw, the Strand is much harder to defend than it is to lay siege. More often than not, a single game will be about which team can siege faster, versus which team can siege at all. Regardless, there is always honor and glory to be won on the battlefield!

OLD FRIENDS AND NEW ALLIES

The battle for Northrend is fierce and there are many groups more than willing to reward you for your help once you've proven your worth. With new recipes, mounts, fun vanity pets, and great equipment upgrades, among other things, getting in good with these factions is more than worth your time. Each of these factions offers quests to get you started and gaining reputation with them is not as difficult as it was with some of the groups in the old world. Check out the rewards listed below to get a good idea of what you need to do to get the items you desire.

THE ALLIANCE VANGUARD (Alliance Only)

The Alliance Vanguard encompasses all of the Alliance forces at work in Northrend, including those of the Explorer's League, the Silver Covenant, the Valiance Expedition, and new allies, the Frostborn. The Vanguard is headquartered at Valgarde in Howling Fjord and in Valiance Keep in the Borean Tundra. They are the first faction that Alliance players encounter when they journey to Northrend and you continue to gain faction with them as you aid their different divisions.

Prove your worthiness to them and you can speak with Logistics Officer Silverstone in Valiance Keep or Logistics Officer Brighton in Valgarde to purchase helpful items like equipment upgrades available only to those who have gained the approval of the Vanguard.

EXPLORER'S LEAGUE (Alliance Only)

The Explorer's League has long dedicated itself to learning as much as possible about the origin of the dwarves, and through this pursuit has amassed perhaps the most extensive collection of knowledge in all Azeroth! Their quest for knowledge has led them into Northrend, seeking scraps of knowledge left behind by the Titans. Though exploration and learning are at the heart of their existence, they recognize the threat posed by the Lich King and have put their impressive resources to work against his forces. The Explorer's League has a good sized camp in the Howling Fjord but their members can be found stationed in Alliance bases throughout Northrend.

THE FROSTBORN (Alliance Only)

The Frostborn are a previously unknown race of frost dwarves found in the mountains of the Storm Peaks. Their king, Yorg Stormheart, has opened up their home, Frosthold in the southwestern part of the zone, to Alliance forces. Though they have differences with their dwarven brethren, they also have much in common. These stoic warriors have agreed to join their forces with those of the Alliance in fighting the army of the Lich King.

THE SILVER COVENANT (Alliance Only)

The Silver Covenant is a militant part of the Kirin Tor. Led by the high elf, Veresa Windrunner, they disagree with the Kirin Tor's possible acceptance of Blood Elves into their ranks and have separated themselves from the main body of Dalaran's ruling faction. They can be found in The Silver Enclave within Dalaran which is open only to members of the Alliance, as well as at Windrunner's Overlook in the Crystalsong Forest.

VALIANCE EXPEDITION (Alliance Only)

The Valiance Expedition is the most numerous of the Alliance forces in Northrend. Though it falls under the command of King Varian Wrynn, field commanders direct the day to day activities of the force as they work to thwart the Lich King's plans. Members of the Expedition are found in many places where Alliance forces gather, including Valiance Keep, Valgarde, Westgarde Keep, and in the advance position at Fordragon Hold in the Dragonblight.

THE HORDE EXPEDITION (Horde Only)

The Horde Expedition oversees all of the Horde's forces in Northrend including the Hand of Vengeance, The Sunreavers, the Warsong Offensive, and the Horde's new allies, the Taunka. The Horde Expedition makes its headquarters in Warsong Hold in the Borean Tundra and Vengeance Landing in Howling Fjord. This is the first faction that Horde players encounter when they arrive in Northrend and you gain faction with them as you complete quests for the individual divisions.

Once you prove to the Expedition that you can be relied upon, you can purchase items from a Horde Expedition Quartermaster. These useful items are only available to those who have achieved a high enough reputation. Gara Skullcrush is found in Warsong Hold and Sebastian Crane has set up shop in Vengeance Landing.

THE HAND OF VENGEANCE (Horde Only)

The Hand of Vengeance is the Forsaken division of the Horde forces here in Northrend. None understand better than the Forsaken the danger the Lich King and his Scourge minions pose and they are doing everything in their power to halt the advance of his forces. Members of the Hand can be found in Vengeance Landing and Forsaken outposts in Borean Tundra, as well as at Venomspite in Dragonblight.

THE TAUNKA (Horde Only)

These strong, stoic people are distant cousins to the Tauren and share that race's bond with nature, though the harsh climate of Northrend has shaped the Taunka's relationship with the world differently than that of their ancestral relatives. They recognize the danger that the Lich King poses to not only their own lands, but to all of Northrend and beyond. They have allied themselves with the Horde in hopes of bringing an end to the Lich King. The Taunka can be found in Camp Winterhoof, in Howling Fjord, and Taunka'le Village in Borean Tundra, as well as in other smaller camps like Camp Tunka'lo in the Storm Peaks.

THE SUNREEVERS (Horde Only)

Named after Archmage Aethas Sunreaver, this faction urges the Kirin Tor to admit Blood Elves to its ranks. In this cause they have allied themselves with the Horde and control the area of Dalaran known as Sunreaver's Sanctuary, open only to members of the Horde. They can also be found beneath the city in Crystalsong Forest at Sunreaver's Command.

WARSONG OFFENSIVE (Horde Only)

Led by Garrosh Hellscream, the Warsong Offensive is made up primarily of orcs and trolls. These soldiers are bravely leading the Horde's push into Northrend for they know if they fail to stop the Lich King here in Northrend, they will one day have to face his forces on the plains of Durotar. Members of the Offensive can be found in Warsong Hold in Borean Tundra, Agmar's Hammer in Dragonblight, Conquest Hold in Grizzly Hills and in other smaller camps throughout Northrend.

ARGENT CRUSADE (Both Factions)

The Argent Crusade was formed when Tirion Fordring claimed the Ashbringer, assumed a leadership role over the Argent Dawn, and drove back the Lich King's forces at Light's Hope Chapel. Though they forced him into a retreat, they realized the danger the Lich King poses and the two factions united as the Argent Crusade to push the fight into Northrend.

The Crusade has a large presence on the continent, primarily in Zul'Drak, at the Argent Stand and Light's Breach, in Dragonblight at Light's Trust, and in Ice Crown at the Argent Vanguard. Once you prove that you are willing to do what it takes to fight back the Scourge you can purchase gear that is only available to those trusted by the Argent Crusade from Veteran Crusader Aliocha Segard stationed in the Argent Vanguard in southeastern Icecrown.

WEARING THE COLORS

Once you gain enough reputation, some of the factions allow you to purchase their tabard. By wearing it you proudly display your allegiance to their cause, referred to as championing, and you are granted bonuses to reputation gains with that faction when fighting in some dungeons. This is a great way to increase your reputation with a faction!

FRENZYHEART TRIBE (Both Factions)

The Frenzyheart are a fierce tribe of wolvar driven from their homeland by the Scourge. They have claimed land in the Sholazar Basin as their new home. Their warlike ways have caused conflict with the Oracles, gorlocs native to Sholazar Basin. Though they don't trust easily, the Frenzyheart tribe is not above rewarding adventurers for aiding their cause.

These wolvar have set up their camp on Frenzyheart Hill in southeastern Sholazar, not far from Rivers Heart. They offer a rewarding questline as well as several daily quests you can complete to aid them in their conflict with the Oracles. Tanak, the Frenzyheart Quartermaster, is found on Frenzyheart Hill and offers a variety of useful equipment and consumables. Once you start helping the Frenzyheart Tribe, the Oracles see this as a sign of aggression and want nothing to do with you.

Changing Sides

The Oracles and the Frenzyheart have a deep hatred of one another and they don't take kindly to their enemy's allies. However, if you wish to change from the Oracles to Frenzyheart you can slay the large cat, Pitch, who is located near the Skyreach Pillar, to trigger a quest from the nearby Frenzyheart Tracker Gekgek. From there you can work your way into the Frenzyheart's good graces.

To switch from the Frenzyheart to the Oracles help the Injured Rainspeaker Oracle, south of Rainspeaker Canopy. This triggers a quest where you escort him back to his village and are then able to do the Oracles quest line.

THE ORACLES (Both Factions)

The Oracles are a loose collection of gorloc tribes native to Sholazar Basin. Gorlocs are an evolutionary offshoot of murlocs and they share many similarities to their ancestral relatives, but demonstrate distinct physical differences. The Oracles have long considered themselves the keepers of the leftover Titan technology, even though they don't understand it, and consider the Frenzyheart incursion into their territory to be a grave threat.

You can find the main Oracle encampment at Rainspeaker Canopy. The Oracles here are grateful to any help you can give in their conflict with the wolvar. Like the Frenzyhearts, they have little patience with enemies and don't want anything to do with you once you begin working with the Frenzyheart. Earn their trust though and Geen the Oracles Quartermaster opens up his shop to you.

Changing Sides

The Oracles and the Frenzyheart have a deep hatred of one another and they don't take kindly to their enemy's allies. However, if you wish to change from the Oracles to Frenzyheart you can slay the large cat, Pitch, who is located near the Skyreach Pillar, to trigger a quest from the nearby Frenzyheart Tracker Gekgek. KIRIN TOR (Both Factions)

The Kirin Tor is a very closed sect of magic users united to study and protect magical knowledge and artifacts. They rule the floating city of Dalaran, having recently moved the entire city from the shores of Lake Lordaeron to the skies above Northrend. Though they are ruled by Rhonin, who can be found in the Violet Citadel, the Kirin Tor has recently seen a schism in its ranks with The Sunreavers and The Silver Covenant pursuing their own agendas within the Kirin Tor.

Members of the Kirin Tor are found primarily in Dalaran, but are also doing work throughout Northrend in locations such as Amber Ledge in the Borean Tundra, as well as being stationed within both Horde and Alliance outposts. Though their membership is strictly controlled, the Kirin Tor have opened their city to all who would oppose the Lich King and Malygos, and value aid from these allies. Mages start with a reputation of Friendly, giving them an advantage over other classes. Archmage Alveareaux, the Kirin Tor Quartermaster, can be found in the Violet Citadel in Dalaran, offering many useful items for those considered worthy.

KNIGHTS OF THE EBON BLADE (Both Factions)

Having once followed the Lich King, the Knights of the Ebon Blade have broken away from his control under the command of Highlord Darion Mograine. Though they remain tainted by the touch of the Scourge, they have allied themselves with both the Alliance and the Horde to work at bringing down the Lich King.

Their main base is Acherus: The Ebon Hold, the reclaimed necropolis floating above the Eastern Plaguelands, but they can be found in Northrend as well, most notably in Ebon Watch in Zul'Drak, Death's Rise in Icecrown, and at the Shadowvault, also in Icecrown. The Shadowvault is only accessible once you complete several quests, but once it is open to you Duchess Mynx, the Ebon Blade Quartermaster, sells many useful items to those who aid in the Knights' cause.

The Kalu'ak (Both Factions)

This tribe of tuskarr native to Northrend earn their living primarily through fishing and whaling. Though they are peaceful by nature, they often find it necessary to defend their homes from incursions of Kvaldir and other enemies, and fight fiercely when necessary.

They are one of the first factions that players encounter that are open to both the Horde and Alliance. Their main settlements are Kamagua, in the Howling Fjord, Kaskala, which is under attack from Kvaldir in the Borean Tundra, and Moa'ki Harbor in Dragonblight. They are grateful for any help you can provide and once you have proven yourself a friend to the Kalu'ak you can visit one of their Quartermasters, Tanaika in Kamagua in Howling Fjord or Sainuk at Moa'ki Harbor in Dragonblight to obtain the items listed below.

THE SONS OF HODIR (Both Factions)

The Sons of Hodir are an aggressive race of frost giants found in the Storm Peaks. They make their home at Dun Niffelem, the ice carved settlement in the far eastern part of the region. These giants are aggressive to most travelers but you can earn their trust through a series of quests, beginning with They Took Our Men! in the goblin camp, K3. This begins a long and extremely entertaining quest line involving Brunhildar Village and Thorim which leads you to Dun Niffelem.

The giants have several tasks for you, including some which can be done daily, in order to raise your reputation with them. Speak with the Sons of Hodir Quartermaster, Lillehoff, to purchase some very good high level equipment, recipes, enchantments, and even Ice Mammoth mounts!

THE WYRMREST ACCORD (Both Factions)

As the Blue Dragonflight seeks to control all the magic in the world, the other dragonflights, Red, Green, Bronze, and Black, have united under the Wyrmsrest Accord to stand against the Blue Dragonflight and to do what they can against the threat of the Lich King.

Though the dragonflights have representatives, usually in human form, throughout Northrend, their base of operations lies in Wyrmsrest Temple in central Dragonblight. It is here that you can find their leader, Alexstrasza the Life-Binder, of the Red Dragonflight, along with representatives of each of the other united dragonflights. Once you have proven yourself an ally, Cielstrasza, the Wyrmsrest Accord Quartermaster, makes her wares available to you. You can find her at the top of Wyrmsrest Temple. The Accord has several powerful items available, including a Red Drake flying mount!

WHEN GOD JUST ISN'T ENOUGH

While gold is the currency of choice throughout Azeroth some vendors prefer a different currency and you can barter with other items you find in your travels. The rewards below are open to both the Horde and Alliance.

VENTURE COINS

At Venture Bay, in the southwestern corner of Grizzly Hills, you can obtain Venture Coins for completing quests in the area. You can then trade these coins in at either Grizzly D. Adams, if you are a member of the Alliance, or at Purkom if you are a member of the Horde.

STONE KEEPER'S SHARDS

Stone Keeper's Shards are awarded by doing quests in the zone wide PvP area, Wintergrasp. There are several one-time quests as well as daily quests that reward these shards. When your faction has control of Wintergrasp Fortress you can trade these to the vendors there.

WINTERFIN CLAMS

Gold is of little use to the Winterfin Murlocs, but they love to get their hands on delicious Winterfin Clams! These can be collected from the Winterfin Betrayer camp across the water from the Winterfin Murlocs. Once you perform a task for King Mrgl-Mrgl, the rest of the Winterfin Murlocs trust you and you can then trade the Winterfin Clams you collect to Ahlrglgr the Clam Vendor.

CRAFTED ITEMS AND REWARDS

If you are more the "stay in town and craft" type, you too can barter items for better recipes in some professions. For example, you can receive Dalaran Jeweler's Tokens or Dalaran Cooking Rewards for performing profession oriented quests in Dalaran. You can then trade these tokens into the appropriate vendors, located next to the profession trainers.

CRAFTING

Crafting has always been an integral part of life in Azeroth and this hasn't changed in Wrath of the Lich King. Every profession has been given a lot of love and there are hundreds of new recipes, new materials, and even new perks, such as special abilities, associated with some professions.

As before, each character can learn up to two primary professions, and anyone can learn any or all of the secondary professions, Cooking, First Aid, and Fishing, if they want. Though all the profession received valuable additions and upgrades with this expansion, Wrath of the Lich King also introduces an entirely new profession, Inscription, along with new daily crafting quests.

The following pages include valuable information about each profession, including new materials and recipes, giving you everything you need to continue helping your friends and guildmates with the items you craft, or to just make a nice profit in the Auction House.

This brand new profession allows Scribes to create various types of magical writings while mastering their craft. With Inscription, Scribes can manufacture Scrolls, Runes of Power, Glyphs, and other handy items. To practice her art a Scribe must gather the appropriate tools and materials. An Inscription Supplies Vendor can sell you the Virtuoso Inking Set you need to get started, as well as different types of parchment, and even a special ten-slot bag, the Scribe's Satchel, to hold all your Inscription supplies.

To make the inks you need to practice Inscription, you need to first manufacture pigments. To do this you use a process called Milling. Much like Prospecting for a Jeweler, you gain the Milling skill as soon as you take up Inscription. With it, you crush five herbs of the same kind to make the pigments you need. Because of this, Herbalism is a great second profession to pick up if you choose to become a Scribe, though you can always depend on the Auction House or perhaps set up a mutually beneficial arrangement with a friendly Herbalist. Milling different herbs produces different pigments. The common pigments are always produced, with uncommon pigments resulting during a smaller percentage of milling attempts. Milling is not trained as a skill by itself, but increasing your Inscription skill allows you to mill higher level herbs. Once you have milled your herbs into pigments you can then use them to create the various inks you need for your Scribe's creations.

Scribes have several different types of items they can make with their inks and parchment, including two of the most common, Scrolls and Glyphs. Scrolls are similar to those you once picked up off the still twitching bodies of your enemies. They can be used once to increase such things as Stamina or Intellect for a short time. These are great to have on hand for when you are getting ready to face a tough fight—sometimes that little extra oomph is all you need.

Glyphs are more permanent additions to your character. Each character has a tab for Glyphs in their Spellbook & Abilities with spaces for three Major and three Minor Glyphs, though not all of them are available at first. As their name implies, Major Glyphs affect your abilities in a substantial way, making them last longer or do more damage for example. Minor Glyphs also affect your abilities, but in less important ways. For example, one Minor Glyph can make a Mage's Polymorph spell turn the target into a penguin instead of a sheep, another may increase the range of a certain spell.

To use a Glyph, you must be near a Lexicon of Power, usually located near Inscription Trainers. Once placed in a slot, the Glyph is used and cannot be removed, though it can be overwritten, much like gems in sockets. You can always put another Glyph in, but you destroy the existing Glyph by doing so. Major Glyphs are learned from your trainer while Minor Glyphs are learned only through Minor Inscription Research. Each time you use this ability you create a handful of random scrolls which you already know how to make, but you have a chance to learn to create a Minor Glyph. This ability is on a long cooldown so be sure to use it every time it is available to increase your repertoire of Minor Glyphs.

Another very useful creation is Vellum. This allows Enchanters to place their enchants on Vellum which can then be traded to other characters, sent through the mail, or even sold in the Auction House. You may suddenly find yourself very popular among Enchanters! If you choose to procure your herbs through the Auction House or other means besides picking them yourself, Enchanting is a great second profession to pick up with Inscription. Scribes can also make special tarot items which begin quests specific to their profession, along with offhand items that give significant boosts to some stats.

Alchemists have always been highly sought after for their valuable potions, elixirs, flasks and transmutation abilities. Northrend provides new herbs with which to work, making Alchemists more in demand than ever. Mix up valuable concoctions using these new ingredients to give your group an added edge in battle.

MIXOLOGY

All those hours spent hunched over your equipment, learning to combine both mundane and exotic ingredients into useful and sometime lifesaving concoctions has given you an affinity for your own creations. Mixology is a passive skill, which Alchemist get automatically, that gives you an added benefit to elixirs and flasks that you create and then use, making them more effective or longer lasting. It only works on your own creations, so be sure to keep yourself supplied from your own lab at all times.

Blacksmiths have the ability to create some spectacular gear on par with that found in many dank crypts, dark caves, and other out of the way places. Now, these skilled craftsmen can create an item with one extra socket, allowing you to socket an additional gem. Furthermore, they have an additional perk that grants them two more. The new metals found in Northrend have given skilled Blacksmiths the right materials they need to take their craft to the next level, giving a potential buyer many options in obtaining powerful gear. Granted, meeting up with a skilled Blacksmith in a brightly lit city may lack the mystique of trudging through forgotten fortresses and cavernous keeps, but you usually don't have to pry equipment out of the cold dead hands of your Blacksmith before equipping it!

Enchanters know that their skill is always in demand and this fact hasn't changed with the push into Northrend. Like other skilled craftsmen, they have taken the opportunity to incorporate the newfound materials the continent offers into their own creations, making some of the strongest enchantments yet seen. With the addition of Inscription, Enchanters can now place their enchants onto Vellum, made by Scribes, giving them the freedom to trade their wares to other players or on the Auction House with the same freedom enjoyed by other craftsmen!

Engineers are known for their ingenuity and progressive thinking, and they wasted no time in developing items from the newly discovered ore and other materials in Northrend. They've created some truly unique items, and many of them don't explode very often at all! Skilled Engineers have also discovered a new outlet for their creativity—Tinkering. Tinkering allows an engineer to place a Tinker on a specific piece of their own armor. These function much like an enchant, and only work on the Engineer's own gear. Any piece of gear can only hold either an enchant or a Tinker, not both, so Tinkering gives Engineers a wider range of options than non-engineers have available.

WORMHOLE: GADGETZAN

Engineers are always mucking around with the universe, and this time they have uncovered something really useful—a wormhole to Gadgetzan! This ability opens a portal to Gadgetzan in Tanaris for the Engineer and her party. At least that's the way it's supposed to work...

As always, First Aid is an invaluable skill for any adventurer to have since it doesn't require mana to use and can be done in the heat of battle. As a secondary profession, anyone can learn First Aid and Northrend is full of humanoids, making gathering cloth fairly easy as you make your way across the continent.

A true fisherman sees every body of water as an opportunity to increase his or her bragging rights and the lakes, streams, and even oceans of Northrend are no exception. With the Find Fish ability you can now sniff out good fishing spots just as Herbalists and Miners can easily seek out plants and ore nodes. When you are using this ability schools of fish appear on your mini-map, making them easier to find so you spend more time with your pole in the water than looking for a good spot.

Herbalism is the foundation of both Alchemy and Inscription. As such, an Herbalist's vast botanical knowledge is always in high demand. Many new species of plants have been found thriving in Northrend, even in the harsher climates.

LIFEBLOOD

As an Herbalist you have a strong connection with the flora around you. Lifeblood uses your skill in Herbalism to absorb energy and nutrients from the earth, healing you. This ability can be used every few minutes and is a substantial help to any adventurer, especially non-healing classes.

Jewelrycrafters are never at a loss for profitable work and the expansion has given them a whole host of new recipes with which to hone their profession. There are great new necklaces, rings, and trinkets, as well as tons of new, very powerful gems available. Break out your Jeweler's Kit and get to grinding those gems to outfit your own gear, help out your friends, or just make a tidy profit!

GEM PERFECTION

This new ability gives you the chance to cut uncommon quality Northrend gems into perfect gems, giving them an added boost to whichever stat they effect. For example, a Precise Bloodstone gives you +12 Expertise, while a Perfect Precise Bloodstone grants +14 Expertise!

The leather found on the fierce, hardy creatures of Northrend has given Leatherworkers the materials they need to take their craft further, and they have wasted no time in coming up with new patterns incorporating it into their profession. You can find great new armors and bags, along with new, stronger armor kits. The cold weather has also taught them how to make Fur Linings. These bracer upgrades can only be used on the Leatherworker's own bracers and work similarly to an enchant. They can be used in place of a regular enchant, but you cannot have both on one item.

The continent of Northrend has yielded up new ores for Miners to dig their picks into. In expanding their craft, Miners can combine these ores with other materials found here to create truly special metal bars suitable for use in several other professions. Because of the new Engineering and Blacksmithing recipes especially, Miners find their product in high demand and clearing out every node you see is well worth your time.

SKINNING

Skinning Trainers

Faction	Grand Master Trainer	Location
Alliance	Trapper Jack	Valiance Keep
Alliance	Fredric Burrhus	Valgarde
Neutral	Derik Marks	Dalaran
Horde	Tipani Stormwhisper	Taunka'le Village
Horde	Roberto Jacks	Vengeance Landing

The tough hides of the creatures of Northrend can prove challenging to even an experienced skinner at first, but with a little practice you can soon be filling your packs with Borean Leather to use for crafting or to sell for a nice pile of gold. Be sure to skin everything you come across. Not only is Borean Leather very useful, but some of Northrend's inhabitants yield valuable scales or chitin as well.

MASTER OF ANATOMY

Skinning can be a dirty job, but it has its rewards beyond the price the leather fetches you. All the time you spent carefully skinning carcasses has given you a broader anatomical knowledge, increasing your critical strike rating. The higher your Skinning skill, the higher your rating.

In pushing into Northrend, Tailors have learned to make good use of the Frostweave cloth and other materials found there. They can now learn many new recipes, including new Spellthreads to apply to pants and Embroidery to beef up their own cloaks. Tailors find their wares in great demand among the cloth wearing set. They can also now manufacture an assortment of Flying Carpets! Yes, you read that correctly—Flying Carpets! Engineers no longer have sole bragging rights on manufactured mounts.

NORTHERN CLOTH SCAVENGING

A tailor can never have too much cloth! With this in mind, a good tailor is always on the lookout for salvageable cloth, often seeing bits other less trained eyes may miss. This ability gives you the chance to pick up extra cloth off of any Northrend humanoid above and beyond that found in regular loot.

ACHIEVEMENTS

Did you ever wish you had a way to keep track of all you have accomplished with your characters, or better yet, a new way to brag about them? If so, Blizzard has granted your wish! The new Achievements section keeps a record of almost everything you do in World of Warcraft, like making it through those epic raids, completing all those quests, exploring out of the way areas, and even smaller accomplishments like obtaining a vanity pet, or giving your /love to all the critters of the world.

Your Achievements are organized into different categories such as Quests, Exploration, Dungeons, and many others. Just select a category from the list on the left of the Achievements window to see the list of Achievements in that area. You can also see your most recent Achievements on the Summary page. Each Achievement lists what you need to accomplish to earn that Achievement, and even lists the date you earned it! You can also track Achievements on the right hand side of your screen, much like quests, by checking the Track box under each one.

BUT, I ALREADY DID THAT!

Since Achievements are a new feature of World of Warcraft, it isn't possible to go back and track everything you've done before now. If you want to fill in all of your Achievements you need to revisit a few of your old stomping grounds to do it.

STATISTICS

In addition to keeping track of all that you have achieved, you can also track the minutiae of your character in several different categories with the Statistics tab. For example, do you wonder where all your gold goes? Take a look at your statistics to find out. You can see not only where your gold came from, but where you spent it! You can also take a look at things like your Attributes and Combat.

While it is certainly fun to be able to track your own Achievements, it is even more interesting to compare yours with others. To look at someone's Achievements target them and right click their character portrait then select Compare Achievements from the menu. Your Achievements window opens up and you can see the other person's Achievements to the right of yours. Now you can see exactly how they stack up against you!

As you earn Achievements you get achievement points. The number of points is listed next to every Achievement and they vary based on the difficulty of the Achievement completed. These points are not used to purchase any special items, they simply provide a value that shows how far a character has progressed.

AUTHOR ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Being involved with a project like this is an amazing experience and we would like to thank Blizzard for creating such an engaging world to explore. Thoroughly getting to know such a well crafted and intriguing place is a monumental task and we couldn't have wished for a better team to do it with. Dexter Hall worked tirelessly right alongside of us and this guide would not have been the same without him. He is not only knowledgeable and hardworking but also one of the best tanks we have ever had the privilege of playing with. Thanks for letting us hit you up at odd hours for info and the occasional strange screenshot! Tommaso Russo, Derek Bates, and Dustin Reynolds came through time and time again collecting information, providing insight, and making themselves available whenever we needed them, never complaining about running through something just one more time. Thanks guys for being such great help, and such great friends. Buck N Uber FTW!

At Brady we would like to thank Brian Shotton and Dan Caparo for working tirelessly to make this book the best it can be, Leigh Davis for giving us the opportunity to work on such an amazing project, and everyone else there who works to put out exceptional product time and time again.

We would also like to thank our parents, Jeff Sims, Linda Taintor, and Lee Allan, for putting up with missed visits, short phone calls, and the general forgetting of birthdays, anniversaries, and other important family events while we work on a project. They are always supportive and excited by each new guide we do, despite the fact that we are pretty certain they have no idea what "a WoW" is.

BRIAN'S ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Once again we have reached the end of a World of Warcraft product. As always, it was an immense amount of work.

I would personally like to thank, Gina Pippin and Ben George at Blizzard for their assistance in getting this title approved and out on time. Their assistance in gathering data, icons, stats, and art must have seemed never-ending. Good news; we did it! Take a break, I won't ask for the Wrath of the Lich King Atlas data for a week.

I would also like to single out Ben for getting Dan and I through the Diablo III line at Blizzcon so quickly—the game is amazing.

Big props for Dan Caparo on his design and all those in production that helped lay it out: Tracy, Colin, and Wil.

Finally, my good friends Jennifer and Kenny Sims, I have known you a long time. This journey started almost three years ago, but here we are. Congratulations on a rockin' book. The quality of text, timeliness of submissions, and patience you exhibited speak to your quality as authors.

TIPS & TRICKS

CUSTOM MACROS

Here is a break down of the macro dialog:

- A) Macro name
- B) Macro box showing the sequence of keys that define the action
- C) The type of delay used in on the macro.

DELAY OPTIONS:

Text (Auto-delay) - Default setting which automatically applies delays based on the type of macro being created

Record Delay - Set your own delays within the macro

No Delay

- D) Ok will create, edit & apply your changes
- E) Cancel will discard your changes

GETTING STARTED - MANAGING PROFILES

Click on the Character window and enter your character info. Your avatar and description will be retrieved automatically from the WOW Armory and a profile will be created with your character name.

Select a unique Illumination color and effect through the Illumination Settings panel (found at the bottom of the interface) for your profile. You can create up to 10 different profiles with any color and effect combo.

ADVANCED TIP:

Bind your profile to any button using the Button Assignment -> Change Profile section. You can also bind Profile Up/Down to cycle through all profiles. Use it to quickly switch between normal and PVP profiles in game - just bind these to the buttons under different colors (i.e. blue for normal and green for PVP) and switch on-the-fly.

ADVANCED TIP:

To share profiles with your friends just click "File Menu" and select either "Export Profile" or "Import Profile".

HOW TO:

1. Select the button that you wish to assign a macro to. The Button Assignment tab on the right will slide open, showing you the current command bound to that button.
2. In the Button Assignment tab, click New under the Custom Macro section. This will bring up the macro dialog.
3. Create a name that is meaningful and easy to remember. For example, a macro to control your pet could be named Pet Attack or Pet Stay.
4. Select your method of delay, click the macro box and begin typing your macro. If you make a mistake, simply click the clear button to start over.
5. Press Ok and your macro will be saved and automatically assigned to the button you have selected.
6. If you wish to place the macro on a different button, just select button and then the macro, or you can simply drag and drop the macro from the Button Assignment tab to any button you desire.

USING IT IN WORLD OF WARCRAFT:

You may already have combos or macros mapped to your keyboard. Now you can move/add more commands to the mouse.

- For Hunters and Warlocks, it's a handy way to assign pet commands to mouse buttons so you can quickly control their actions during combat.
- For Druids and Warriors, use macros to quickly switching between stances / forms during a fight.
