Required and Recommended Hardware/Software

Windows 95® or Windows® 3.1/3.11

- 486 DX2-66 or higher
- Double speed CD-ROM drive
- 8 MB RAM
- 40 MB available on hard drive (12 MB install, need 28 MB open during gameplay)
- 16-bit sound card
- SVGA 256-colours graphics adapter
- Mouse

Installation

Windows 95

Insert Steven Spielberg's Director's Chair CD number 1 into your CD-ROM drive.

Click Yes when it asks you if you want to install the product.

Select Express Installation.

Let the installer copy its files to your hard drive.

Click Yes when asked if you would like to restart your computer.

Or, select Custom installation if you want to:

Specify where on your hard drive you want the product installed (c:\dc is the default).

Manually select or name the program folder for the Director's Chair Startup icon (Steven Spielberg's Director's Chair is the default).

Install the KA sound driver manually, using Windows 95's control panel.

If your CD-ROM drive does not support AutoPlay, then follow these instructions to install Steven Spielberg's Director's Chair:

Click on Start.

Move cursor to Settings.

Click on Control Panel.

Double click on Add/Remove Programs.

Click on Install.

Click on Next.

Follow the prompts to complete the install.

Note: The installer checks your machine for the latest version of QuickTime for Windows. If your machine does not have QuickTime for Windows installed, Steven Spielberg's Director's Chair will install it. If you have an earlier version installed, Steven Spielberg's Director's Chair will ask you to upgrade.

Windows 3.1/3.11

Insert Steven Spielberg's Director's Chair CD number 1 into your CD-ROM drive.

In the Windows Program Manager click on File and choose Run.

Type D:\setup. (If your CD-ROM drive is mapped to a letter other than D, use that letter instead.)

Follow the installation dialogue box instructions. If you want to choose where on your hard drive the installer puts this product, or not install Win G, perform a custom install.

Note: For better performance, set your PC's screen resolution to 640 x 480, 256-colour.

Getting Started

ENTERING

Note: Before running Steven Spielberg's Director's Chair, we recommend that you close all other programs.

Windows 95

This product uses the AutoPlay feature of Windows 95. Just insert the CD in the CD-ROM drive and click Yes when the dialogue box appears to run the program.

If your CD-ROM drive does not support AutoPlay, follow these instructions to run Director's Chair:

Click on Start.

Move cursor to Programs and then to the Director's Chair folder.

Click on the Director's Chair icon.

Windows 3.1/3.11

Start the program by double clicking the icon marked Director's Chair in the Director's Chair program group.

EXITING

To exit Steven Spielberg's Director Chair go into the Studio Operations building and click the Options Bar on the computer screen. A menu will appear and you will be given the option to exit the game. In Windows 95, you can press Alt+F4 to exit.

Useful Keys

Esc – Stops any movie from playing.

M – Brings the menu bar to the top of the screen. This lets you move from place to place more quickly than scrolling across the studio lot. The M key is active only when you're outside, on the studio lot.

F1 – Turns your cursor into the Help pager. Then, click this Pager cursor on the object you have a question about.

Help

The Pager

Easy to use help is available through the pager you'll receive when you sign in at Studio Operations. If you click the Pager once, your cursor turns into a Pager icon (or press F1). If you click this Pager cursor on certain objects in the game, an enlarged pager will appear to give you certain details about that object.

Using Pop-up Help

To get more detailed Help inside one of the studio lot buildings (for example, studio operations, pre-production, or editing), click on the enlarged pager's PA Pager button. You'll see an even larger Help screen designed for the room you're visiting. Click a numbered feature within that screen to get more help on a given item.

From this enlarged Help screen, you can print Help text, access the User's Guide, or watch a live action tutorial in which your PA explains how that area of the game works.

Printing the User's Guide

To print Director's Chair's built-in User's Guide, first access the User's Guide through the pager, then click the Print button on the left hand page underneath the yellow post-it note. This is opposite the Table of Contents. If you want to read or print the guide without first entering Director's Chair, then open the stand alone User's Guide from the Director's Chair program group.

Sending Your Movies Across the Web

Not only does Steven Spielberg's Director's Chair put you in charge of one of the best casts and crews in Hollywood, it gives you access to something very powerful: the ability to distribute your work through the Internet. That's right. You can send your movie file to audiences all over the globe by using the Internet. Do more than direct a great film, distribute it World Wide.

To do this you will need a modem and a subscription to an Internet service provider. Once you've established a connection to the Internet, simply attach your movie file to e-mail and send it to other Steven Spielberg's Director's Chair players anywhere in the world.

To save your movie for exchanging, make sure you have first selected a movie in Director's Chair by clicking that movie's slate in the Studio Operations building (this is the building right in front of you as you step on to the lot). Now, to export this movie, click the Options title bar on the computer monitor in Studio Operators. When the drop-down menu appears, click Export. When the "Save this movie to" dialog box appears, simply enter a filename and hit the Save button.

Note: You won't be able to export your movie as a file until you've started its script and given it a name in preproduction.

To learn more about attaching a file to an e-mail, consult the documentation or online help included with your e-mail software. Check-out our website www.directorchair.com for further updates.
