iMate makes the right connections

The iMate USB to ADB adapter is the perfect companion for your new iMac computer. Designed from the ground up with the iMac in mind it features cool translucent plastic and an LED that flashes when in use!

The iMate allows users to connect any ADB peripheral to iMacs, Macs equipped with USB ports, and PCs with USB ports. The iMate allows you to continue to use your favorite mice, keyboards, trackballs, trackpads, hardware dongles and other ADB peripherals.

The iMate not only preserves your investment in ADB but also provides the ultimate in cross platform compatibility. You can use any ADB interface device with a USB equipped PC running Windows 98.

The iMate is not only useful and universal, it is remarkably inexpensive. At a suggested retail price of $39. The iMate is indeed the ultimate computer compatibility device.

iMate Device Compatibility

- ADB Keyboards
- ADB Mice
- ADB Trackballs
- ADB Trackpads
- ADB Drawing Tablets
  - The Pablo tablet is not currently compatible. All others work. The Wacom models (Intuos and ArtZ) may not perform as well as expected until a future version of the Apple USB manager and iMate become available.
- ADB Bar Code readers
  - All those tested work. There have been unconfirmed reports of some compatibility issues on some obscure models.
- ADB Dongles
  - All dongles that have been tested work. No known incompatibilities.
- ADB Joysticks
- Special Devices
  - All tested specialized devices such as the YoYO caller iD device and ADB modems work, including Intellectkeys, Alphasmart keyboards and Don Johnston products..
